BARUCH TOSSES DEPRESSION IN PRESIDENT'S LAP

Blames His Policies for U. S. Woes.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Official Washington is still echoing tonight with the thunder of the political explosion Bernard Baruch, long time friend and counselor of President Roosevelt, touched off at a session of the senate committee investigating unemployment.

Mr. Baruch reluctantly gave it as his opinion that Roosevelt laws, policies, and projects, representing half baked panaceas and visionary schemes to anticipate the millennium, have combined to cause the depression, the persistent volume of unemployment and the stagnation of private enterprise. He saw no hope for recovery and the retention of the capitalist system short of a radical reversal of the course the President is pursuing.

Breaks with Administration.

That Mr. Baruch, long known as an angel of the Democratic party, a pillar of the Wilson régime and unofficial apologist for the Roosevelt administration for five years, has at last definitly broken with the President on the question of economic policy was indicated again and again during his testimony. It was a rebuke aimed chiefly at Mr. Roosevelt which Mr. Baruch let go when he said:

"I have recently heard some public men reproach business for the alleged failure to step forward and employ the millions of jobless, and intimate that if business doesn't government will. In addition to being illogical and unfair, that raises hopes that can never be realized and expresses a promise to unfortunates that never can be fulfilled.

"I say it with regret, but I would be less than candid if I failed to express my opinion that unemployment is now traceable more directly to government policy than to anything that business could or should do and that if those policies are not changed, neither business nor government can ever solve this most terrible of all our problems."

Fear of Administration.

Mr. Baruch asserted that the depression stems from a loss of confidence on the part of business men and investors in the Roosevelt administration, a fear of instability of institutions of government, and doubts that private enterprise will continue to yield profits.

It would be so easy to banish these fears and start the wheels of business whirling once more, he said, yet the tragic truth is that "after almost four years we are not as well off as we were after the truly remarkable 1933 recovery as it stood on July 1 of that year."

Potentially, said Mr. Baruch, there are all the requisites today for producing greater business activity than in the late twenties—ample money and credit, a greater shortage of goods, larger population and demand, a smaller volume of private debt, greater obsolescence of facilities, "enough idle money, idle labor, idle brains to produce plenty for everybody."

Sense of Security Lacking.

"The single missing element in a great forward movement is a feeling of security—a belief that money can be spent or invested without confiscation of reasonable profits by inordinate taxation, that American assets will not again be subject to some great arbitrary change in the value of money, that there are to be no further disturbing assaults on business either by some statutory change in the existing business pattern or a general governmental hostility or governmental competitive invasion of existing fields of private enterprise.

"At the basis of business is stability of government fiscal policy, and of course this means an unmistakable trend toward an eventual balancing of the budget.

"To give the capitalist or profits system a chance to work will require also a fundamental revision of the taxing system on a plan for revenue rather than regulation or punishment and that on the law of diminishing returns.

Hesitancy Widespread.

"When I speak of this hesitancy or paralysis of spending and investment I am not talking alone about the

G. O. P. PROGRAM GROUP LOOKS TO YOUNG AMERICA

Frank Asks a Clear Policy Statement.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A research program embracing an honest, objective audit of the Roosevelt administration and a fresh statement of the Republican party's political and economic philosophy was adopted last night by the newly formed G. O. P. program committee. Speakers later at a dinner in the Palmer house emphasized the young voters. The destiny of America, they said, is in the hands of the electorate between 21 and 35 years of age.

Speakers at the banquet also echoed views which Dr. Glenn Frank, chairman of the group, had expressed earlier in the day. He said that America's economic machine is stalled and that the drift in Washington has been toward a totalitarian state and away from representative government. But young America, the speakers avowed, is the group to which G. O. P. arguments must be directed.

Calls for Effective Opposition.

"A great necessity is the creation in the United States of an effective party of opposition," Dr. Harold W. Dodds, president of Princeton university, told the diners. "I hope this committee will frankly consider that the future of popular government in the United States is going to be determined by people under 40, many under 30."

In similar strain Ralph E. Flanders, Vermont manufacturer, told the 191 committee members present that young voters should be given especial attention.

"One disturbing thought," he said, "is that the average age of the Republican party is above the average age of the nation. The party has belonged to the middle aged instead of the more youthful. We must recapture for ourselves the ideals of youth."

Urges Club Activity.

Henry A. Bobb of Topeka, Kas., president of the Young Republicans, asserted that the biggest problem exists among persons from 21 to 24 years of age.

"We've got to get them interested," he said. "They may be interested through social or athletic means, political clubs with sports events, foot ball teams, etc.

"Youth wants to be considered an actual part of the Republican party. We don't want the old guard to criticize youth and we don't want youth to criticize the old guard. Let's unite. Let's stop fighting Republicans and concentrate on fighting the New Deal."

Col. Theodore Roosevelt declared the issue now is to save free institutions of representative democratic government in our country.

Speak at Banquet.

Other speakers were Prof. Earl H. De Long of Northwestern university; Grove H. Patterson, Toledo editor; Edward Corsi of New York; Mrs. Margaret Culkin Banning of Duluth, novelist; James C. Farmer of the National Grange; Rabbi Louis Wolsey of Philadelphia; C. C. Teague, manager of a farm coöperative in California, and Mrs. Sara Pelham Speaks, New York lawyer, who spoke in behalf of colored voters.

At a meeting before the dinner, the committee decided to operate by regional groups. Regional chairman will report to headquarters for the whole group, which will be in Chicago. A research staf was also authorized, and William Hard was elected secretary. It is not yet determined when the committee will report, and whether it will play a part in the congressional elections this year or wait for 1940.

Told to Find Views.

Dr. Frank, former president of the University of Wisconsin, in his address before the organization meeting of the committee earlier in the day, told the members that they were appointed to get a cross section of opinion from the rank and file. He asserted in his analysis of national conditions that there are as many millions unemployed as five years ago, and that chronic inconstancy of policy from Washington has hampered and depressed industry.

"We of this commission," he said, "are asked to help the Republican party do its part in ending government by hunch and establishing government by fundamental principles

Ross Kidnaper Pleads Guilty; Jury Trial Set

John Henry Seadlund, confessed kidnaper and killer of Charles S. Ross, pleaded guilty in federal court yesterday to a charge of violating the so-called Lindbergh kidnaping law. The jury trial, required for the death penalty demanded by the government despite his plea of guilty, was set by Judge John P. Barnes for March 14.

Michael L. Igoe, United States attorney, said in answer to a direct question by Judge Barnes that the government would ask Seadlund's execution. Igoe has insisted from the time of Seadlund's arrest that no lesser punishment would be acceptable.

Persists In Guilty Plea.

Seadlund, alias Anders, persisted in pleading guilty in the face of advice as to his legal right according to his attorneys, Floyd E. Thompson and Frederic Burnham. The attorneys, appointed by the court because Seadlund was without legal counsel, did not say they advised Seadlund to plead not guilty, but emphasized the thoroughness with which they had explained his right under the law.

The government's fear that Seadlund might commit suicide was disclosed when one of his shoes slipped off as he was being led from the courtroom. It was then observed that he had no shoe laces, and it was explained that he has been denied shoe laces in his cell at the county jail lest he try to hang himself.

Smiles in Court.

Although Seadlund came to court kicking and snarling at his first arraignment, Jan. 24, he was composed yesterday. He smiled and joked with the two deputy marshals to whom he was manacled. On his previous appearance Seadlund stood mute and a not guilty plea was entered for him.

Defense attorneys said after the court session that they will try to prevent a jury trial, and will demand that the case be heard by Judge Barnes without a jury. The government is asking a jury trial because the law requires a jury's recommendation for the death penalty.

Ross, a wealthy retired greeting card manufacturer of 72, was kidnaped last Sept. 25 by Seadlund and James Atwood Gray. On Oct. 8 $50,000 ransom was paid by Ross' wife, May, of 2912 Commonwealth avenue. Two or three days later, Seadlund, a lumberjack who is 27 years old, killed both Ross and Gray in the dugout where Ross was a prisoner near Spooner, Wis.

GEN. PERSHING CHATS WITH HIS SON; HOPES FOR RECOVERY GROW

Tucson, Ariz., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Gen. John J. Pershing improved enough tonight to call his son, Warren, to his bedside for a long talk.

It was the first time Warren had visited with his father since shortly after his arrival from Palm Beach, Fla., last Thursday. A few hours after the son's arrival here the general sank into a coma, which continued intermittently until within the last twenty-four hours.

During the day the world war commander, who is 77 years old, showed such marked improvement that hopes were aroused for his ultimate recovery.

"Gen. Pershing has improved considerably," Dr. Roland Davison, his personal physician, announced. However, he cautioned that the improvement may be only temporary and said he could make no predictions yet regarding recovery. A report from the sickroom tonight said the general apparently was maintaining the gain made earlier in the day.

An improvement in Pershing's kidney function, which helped to relieve dangerous uremic poisoning, and his ability to swallow orange juice added to the hopes for his recovery.

MAJOR IN ENGLISH HELPS MARRIAGE, CO-EDS ARE TOLD

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Co-eds who expect to marry should not pay so much attention to home economics that they forget about English, advises Mrs. Cecilia Hendricks of Indiana university's English department. "A woman who majors in English," Mrs. Hendricks said today, "should be able to make a good marriage. English gives a woman poise, ability to express herself, conversational ability, and understanding of the intellectual and cultural heritage of the race."

Court Has Mercy on Odd Conduct of Pole Climber

Last Saturday night Philip Hesmer Jr., 26 years old, was standing pensively in an alley beside the Wabash hotel, 27 East Harrison street. Suddenly he climbed a pole and entered the room of a guest. Then he dashed out and down the corridor, through the lobby, and back to the alley, where he stood again. In the South State street court yesterday Philip was fined $2 after he explained he'd never done such a thing before, and police explained he had been drinking.

Chicago's Sky Free of Smoke; Reason Hazy

While Chicagoans yesterday were enjoying the clearest, brightest day in many months, the great smoke mystery was engaging the minds of the city's foremost experts. The question was: What became of the smoke?

Visibility in the loop during the day was unbelievably good. When this phenomenon was brought to the attention of Forecaster C. A. Donnel of the weather bureau, he said: "It is simplicity itself. The wind was off the lake and blew all the smoke to the west side."

It's Simplicity Itself.

West siders about this time noticed that visibility was unbelievably good. When this was brought to the attention of Frank J. Chambers, superintendent of the city department of smoke abatement, he telephoned John A. Casey, superintendent of the airport.

Said Mr. Casey: "It is simplicity itself. The wind was from the west and blew all the smoke to the loop."

Mr. Donnel was interrupted a second time as he leaned over his thermometers, barometers, and other —ometers, forecasting for today. "The wind," he said, "was from the northeast all morning. It blew the smoke to the west side." Then he turned back to his —ometers and began forecasting again.

A Lamb on Its Way.

Mr. Casey, at the airport, seemed a bit annoyed. "The wind," he said, "is from the west. It has blown the smoke to the loop." Mr. Casey added that it ought to be enough for a man to keep up with a couple of hundred planes a day, without bothering him about a bunch of smoke that had gone to the loop.

Mr. Donnel said he did not know where the smoke could be if it was not on the west side, and added—having finished his forecasting—that March would gambol in like a lamb, with a temperature in the thirties.

In this connection he said this February was one of the warmest on record, the temperature averaging 9 degrees above normal. On the basis of the month's first twenty-seven days it was one of the darkest on record, the sun shining only 24 per cent of the time allotted to it.

Zog's 3 Sisters in U. S. for Fun, Not for Mates

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 28.—[Special.]—The three royal princesses of Albania, pretty, dark-eyed sisters of King Zog, tripped down the gangplank of the Italian liner Conte di Savoia tonight, serenely indifferent to American night club life and to the prospect of finding wealthy American husbands.

In a formal statement issued on the dock, the princesses announced their visit was for the purpose of touring America, comparing Yellowstone park with the scenery of their native land, observing social work, and paying their respects to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The project of mixing royal blood with American millions was delicately avoided.

The statement, translated from Albanian, was signed by the three royal sisters—Maxhide, 26 years old; Ruhie, 27, and Myzejen, 29.

Attired in Latest Mode.

The princesses royal were wearing the latest in smart Parisian clothes as they set foot on American soil for the first time. Maxhide and Ruhie had donned leopard skin coats and Myzejen wore a beige cloth coat with a fur trimmed collar. All three were bedecked with orchids.

The big liner, buffeted in a northwesterly wind of gale proportions, and the heaviest harbor water in years, was warped into her berth nine hours behind schedule. However the princesses were fresh and smiling and said they had a nice voyage.

First to bow to the royal visitors was Albanian Minister Faik Konitza, wearing a top hat. A step behind were Stanley Woodward, assistant chief of protocol of the state department, and Italian Consul General Vecchiotti. Mr. Woodward wore a derby.

Visit Will Last a Month.

Konitza revealed that the three princesses would be in the United States for about a month. They will go to Boston and Washington. Asked about Chicago, Konitza said his royal wards wanted to visit the city and that this was a possible stop on the itinerary.

During the next few days the sisters will be steered around on a tour of charitable institutions, women's clubs, the Junior league, and the Salvation Army's residence for women. The Girl Scouts will put on a demonstration, Maxhide being head of the movement in Albania. The Washington administration has invited the royal visitors to look over the low income housing experiments at Greenbelt, Md., and at Arthurdale, W. Va., it was learned.

Roiled by Marriage Query.

Tonight, in their suite at the Ritz-Carlton hotel, the princesses granted a brief interview, with Minister Konitza hovering about and acting as interpreter. Konitza's diplomatic dander was aroused when the direct question was asked whether the sisters were on a hunt for rich husbands.

"I thought you were going to ask decent questions," snapped Konitza, refusing to relay the query to his charges.

However, plans call for a dizzy whirl of social affairs where the princesses will be introduced to a

FATHER CLEARS WAY TO RANSOM BOY IN SAFETY

State and Federal Agents Stop Hunt.

New Rochelle, N. Y., Feb. 28.—The fervent appeal of a father near collapse opened an avenue of safety tonight to the kidnapers of Peter Levine, 12 years old, who have been holding him since last Thursday afternoon. Through the press and by radio, Murray Levine, prosperous New York attorney, assured the abductors that state and federal officers had promised him he would be permitted to negotiate for the return of his son without interference.

Murray Levine.

Levine's eagerness to negotiate, unhampered by the federal bureau of investigation, recalled two recent kidnapings G-men investigated in which the victims were murdered. The first was Charles Mattson, 10 years old, of Tacoma, Wash., whose kidnap-killer never has been found, and the second was Charles Ross of Chicago, whose slayer pleaded guilty today in Chicago.

Intermediary Named.

Agents of the bureau, which has been working on the case secretly since last Friday, revealed tonight that a lawyer has been named to act for Levine in his negotiations with the kidnapers, who left their penciled ransom note a block from the Levine home.

The intermediary is Louis S. Posner, former member of the New York City board of education and former vice president of the state mortgage commission. Posner, a friend of the family, left his office for an unannounced destination early this afternoon after a telephone conversation with the boy's father.

Herbert Levian, another attorney, spoke for the father in a radio appeal to the kidnapers over a New York station at 5:15 p. m. today.

The appeal, the same as Levine issued through the newspapers earlier, said in part: "My son has been missing since Thursday afternoon and I have made every effort to keep this from the public because of my desire to do everything I possibly can to meet the demands of those who may be holding my boy. Those who may be holding my boy can safely deal with me. I ask my friends and the public to leave my home and telephone alone. All people of decent sentiment will understand and respect my wishes."

Police Agree to Desist.

Philip S. Tilden, New Rochelle director of public safety, whose department broadcast and later canceled an alarm for the boy last Thursday, after he was seized on the way home from school, said the police department has agreed to do nothing for the time being to give Levine a chance to make a contact with the kidnapers.

Although no one connected with the case would admit definitly that $60,000 was the figure asked by the kidnapers, that appeared to be the amount tacitly agreed upon by the various departments involved.

Friends believed Levine would be pressed to raise that amount, although he is a well-to-do civil and real estate attorney with offices on Fifth avenue.

His large stucco home here is worth from $30,000 to $40,000. He has lived there almost a decade, but has made few close friends in the neighborhood. He has been, however, a leader in the Zionist movement in New Rochelle.

Reason for Choice Lacking.

Since Levine's law business included no criminal practice, investigators doubted that the kidnaping could have been inspired by underworld vengeance. Even the police speculated unofficially on the lack of any apparent reason for selecting young Peter as a kidnap victim.

They also speculated on the possibility that the job might be the work of the same gang that kidnaped Arthur Fried, young White Plains business man, two months ago. Fried has not been returned, despite repeated offers by his family to pay a ransom.

Levine's anxiety to contact the kidnapers, it was believed, was to bargain with them for a reduction in their demand and to ask proof that his son still is living.

Boy's Intelligence High.

Peter, a precocious student with the highest I. Q. [intelligent quotient] in the seventh grade at Albert Leonard Junior High school, left school as usual at 3:15 p. m. Thursday.

The school is only four blocks from his home and the trip usually took him not more than 15 minutes. When he failed to arrive home at 4:30, his mother became alarmed and called his father at his New York office. The father started home at once, but in the interim Mrs. Levine received a telephone call from one of the kidnapers.

According to one account, she was instructed to look for a note which she found under a stone in a vacant lot near her home. The note demanded $60,000 for the boy's return.

WOMAN LABOR LEADER FINED IN HAT STRIKE

De Kalb, Ill., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Miss Carmen Lucia, a labor organizer for the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers union, was fined $25 and costs today for disorderly conduct in connection with picketing of the Murray Hat corporation plant where a strike was called this morning. A few minutes after she paid the fine for attempting to crush a girl in a doorway she was arrested for slapping another girl.

Murray Offenberg, formerly of Chicago and now president of the company, said only 10 per cent of his employés were absent from work and that the American Federation of Labor union was importing pickets to surround his plant. The strikers demand a contract, which Offenberg says he will not sign since most of his employés want an independent union.

The only disorder came at noon when an attempt was made to prevent workers from returning to the plant where union spokesmen said only half the usual force was working.

DIG FOR TENTH DAY TO RESCUE DOG IN FOX DEN

Dubuque, Ia., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—A rescue crew of twelve men today continued digging for Spotty, a 5 year old fox terrier which has been entombed in a fox hole since Feb. 18 on the Chester Baker farm, four miles south of Farley.

Today was the first time rescue workers failed to hear the dog's barks. Emmet Simon, owner of the dog, which weighs only 10 pounds, has hopes he still is alive.

Simon said 110 sticks of dynamite have been used in excavating and black powder is being used now because rescuers' believe they are less than five feet from the entombed animal.

Another fox terrier stands by watching rescue workers laboring four at a time in the pit.

SENATE FORCED TO TAKE HOUSE LIMIT ON RELIEF

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The senate accepted today restrictions placed by the house on expenditure of the 250 million dollar deficiency relief appropriation, clearing the way for the measure to go to the White House.

The house approved a provision sponsored by Representative Clifton A. Woodrum [D., Va.] requiring that the money be expended under monthly apportionment rules. The senate eliminated this requirement, but agreed to accept it when senate representatives on a conference committee reported the house members would not accept its elimination.

Too Young to Be Wed, They Have Proxies Act

New York, Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Marie de Robbio, 14 years old, and Miquel Rodriquez, 19 years old, wanted to get married but the girl was too young to get a license. So they induced an older couple to obtain a license and be married in their names while they watched. Marie's father found out about it when circulars advertising furniture for newlyweds were sent to her. Now Marie is charged with delinquency, Miquel is accused of being an accessory, and the other couple faces charges of impersonation.

SUPREME COURT GRANTS UNIONS DRASTIC POWER

Rights Called Despotic in Minority Opinion.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—In a series of labor decisions restricting not only the rights of employers but of nonunion employés, the United States Supreme court today upheld the exercise of power which a dissenting opinion denounced as despotic and wholly at variance with the principles of constitutional liberty in this country.

The majority opinions were so sweeping in character as to satisfy Justice Hugo L. Black, the most radical man on the bench, who refrained from writing a separate and stronger opinion as he has done previously.

Rule in Milwaukee Case.

In a Milwaukee case the court held that a demand by a labor union that an employer force his employés to join that union constituted a labor dispute under the Norris-La Guardia act. It reversed a decree issued by Federal Judge Ferdinand A. Geiger and upheld by the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals, which permanently enjoined a union from attempting to coerce an employer whose employés had refused to join that union.

In two cases the court upheld the right of the national labor relations board, without notice, or hearing, or an election, to require employers to withdraw recognition from an employés' association alleged to have been fostered by the employer.

In a fourth case the court refused to review a decision by the New York Court of Appeals, the state's highest tribunal, which upheld a contract requiring membership in a particular union as a condition of employment. This in effect upholds the closed shop provision of New York's little Wagner act as well as a provision of a 1935 New York statute exempting labor unions from the penalties against monopolies.

Holds Judge Geiger Erred.

In the Milwaukee case, the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, local No. 73, failed to persuade a single employé of E. G. Shinner & Co., Inc., operating five meat markets, to join the union. The union leaders thereupon demanded that the company compel its thirty-five employés to join their organization as a condition of employment. When the company refused the union declared war.

Judge Geiger held that there was no labor dispute between the employer and employés and issued an injunction restraining the union from its attempts to coerce the company.

The Supreme court, however, held that there was a labor dispute, under the terms of the Norris-La Guardia anti-injunction act and Wisconsin's little Norris-La Guardia act, and that Judge Geiger erred in issuing the injunction.

The Norris-La Guardia act prohibits a federal court from issuing an injunction in a labor dispute except after a finding that unlawful acts have been threatened and will be committed unless restrained. A further section provides that relief shall not be granted to an employer unless the denial would cause him greater injury than the granting would inflict upon the defendants.

Dissenting View Set Forth.

"The case is a simple one. Respondent's employés had no connection with the union and were unwilling to have any. The union, being unable to persuade the employés to assent to its wishes in that regard, undertook to subjugate them to its will by coercing an unlawful interference with their freedom of action on the part of the employer.

"If that is a labor dispute, destructive of the historical power of equity to intervene, then the Norris-La Guardia act attempts to legalize an arbitrary and alien state of affairs wholly at variance with those principles of constitutional liberty by which the exercise of despotic power hitherto has been curbed.

"In this case there was no interchange or consideration of conflicting views in respect of the settlement of a controversial problem. There was simply an overbearing demand by a union that respondent should do an unlawful thing, and a natural refusal on its part to comply.

"If a demand by a labor union that an employer compel its employés to submit to the will of the union, and the employer's refusal, constitute a labor controversy, the highwayman's demand for the money of his victim and the latter's refusal to stand and deliver constitute a financial controversy."

Justice Butler pointed out that it would have been unlawful under the Norris-La Guardia act itself for the company to comply with the union's demands. The act prohibits employers from interfering with the right of employés to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of their own chosing. So does the Wagner labor relations act.

Accepts Geiger's Findings.

The majority opinion, delivered by Justice Owen J. Roberts, accepted Judge Geiger's findings that:

"The union had not been chosen by the employés to represent them in any matter connected with the respondent. For the purpose of coercing the respondent to require its employés to join the union and to accept it as their bargaining agent and representative, as a condition of continued employment, and for the purpose of injuring and destroying the business if the respondent refused to yield to such coercion, the petitioners conspired to do the following things and did them:

"They caused false and misleading signs to be placed before the respondent's markets; caused persons who were not respondent's employés to parade and picket before the markets; falsely accused respondent of being unfair to organized labor in the dealings with employés, and by molestation, annoyance, threats, and intimidations prevented patrons and prospective patrons of respondent from patronizing its markets. Respondent suffered and will continue to suffer irreparable injury from the continuance of the practice."

How Majority Reasoned.

However, the majority opinion said that Judge Geiger erred in finding that there was no labor dispute. The court said he should have applied the Wisconsin little Norris-La Guardia act, which describes a labor dispute as any controversy growing out of the terms and conditions of employment, or employé representation, regardless of whether or not the disputants stand in the proximate relation of employer and employé.

Having fallen into the error of finding that there was no labor dispute, the court held, Judge Geiger further erred in issuing an injunction without making the findings required by the Norris-La Guardia act.

It is possible that Judge Geiger still may make such findings and issue a proper injunction, for in reversing his decree the Supreme court ordered the case remanded for further proceedings in accordance with its opinion.

Opinion Given in Bus Case.

The question of the right of the labor relations board to order withdrawal of recognition from organizations of employés found to have been fostered by employers was most fully discussed in a case brought by the Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines, Inc., and Greyhound Management company, against the board.

In that case the board charged the company with an unfair labor practice, in violation of the Wagner act, in fostering an employés' association. The board ordered the company to cease the alleged unfair labor practices. The Circuit Court of Appeals upheld this order, but overruled an order requiring the company to withdraw recognition of the employés' association.

The Supreme court's opinion, written by Justice Harlan F. Stone, said:

"The court [below] thought that the board was without authority to order the employers to withhold recognition from the association without notice to it and opportunity for a hearing, and without an election by the employés to choose a labor organization to represent them."

The opinion said the labor board acted properly and reversed the Court of Appeals.

Contract Upheld in New York.

In the New York case which the Supreme court refused to review the Transport Workers' Union of America won an election supervised by the National Labor Relations board among the employés of the New York Rapid Transit corporation and other transportation companies in New York City. Thereupon the union entered into closed shop contracts with the companies, requiring membership in the union as a condition of employment.

Six employés refused to join the union and brought the suit. They charged that the closed shop contract was monopolistic and that the provision of the 1935 act exempting labor unions from the penalties against business monopolies was unconstitutional because it denied equal protection of the laws.

The New York Court of Appeals upheld the contract, as well as the little Wagner act under which it was made. The little Wagner act makes it unlawful for an employer to encourage membership in any company union or to discourage membership in any union, but provides:

"That nothing in this article shall preclude an employer from making an agreement with a labor organization requiring, as a condition of employment, membership therein."

Toy Pistol Fails

William Zimmerman, owner of a men's store at 1022 Belmont avenue, gave a lesson last night to Edwin Dickson, 20 years old, 911 Wolfram street, a crime beginner.

Dickson attempted to rob Zimmerman by threatening him with a toy pistol. The store owner, without knowing Dickson's weapon wasn't genuine, drew his own gun and shot him in the left arm. Then he leaped upon him.

Zimmerman was still beating Dickson when police arrived.

EX-HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETE SENT TO JAIL FOR ATTACK

The record of Rigo Marchini, 18 years old, former New Trier High school basket ball player, was recited yesterday before Police Magistrate Allen Klein of Winnetka.

A year ago Rigo got into trouble when he broke up a women's club meeting in the Winnetka community house by tossing pop bottles through a window. Later he was accused of starting a fight between the New Trier and Evanston basketball teams.

Finally, last week, when he was ordered from the community house by its director, George Getgood, 1003 Vine street, Winentka, he beat Getgood so badly that the director was in bed three days. Magistrate Klein sent Marchini to jail for sixty days.

Supreme Court Tax Ruling Narrows State Immunity

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Further narrowing the field of intergovernmental tax immunity, which is founded on John Marshall's dictum that the power to tax is the power to destroy, the United States Supreme court today upheld the right of the federal government to levy income taxes upon the compensation of attorneys and others employed by states in the liquidation of insolvent corporations.

The court's extension of the taxing power of the federal government today was in harmony with the principles of its recent decisions holding that states could levy gross receipts tax upon contractors doing business with the federal government.

In those cases the gross receipts taxes represented compensation paid by the federal government, and the court's opinions were held to conflict with a long line of precedents going back to Chief Justice Marshall's McCulloch vs. Maryland decision in 1819.

Lower Courts Reversed.

In three out of four of the cases decided today, the lower courts had held that federal income taxes levied on employés of states engaged in the liquidation of insolvent corporations were unconstitutional. In an opinion delivered by Justice James Clark McReynolds, the Supreme court reversed these decisions and affirmed a fourth, holding that the salaries were not exempt from federal taxation.

In one case John H. Therrell, liquidator for several insolvent banks in Florida, was paid on a percentage basis from the corporate assets, but the Circuit Court of Appeals found immunity under the constitution. In the second case William H. Tunnicliffe, also a liquidator of insolvent banks in Florida, was assessed income taxes for sums received as in the Therrell case.

In the third case Edward McLoughlin was employed by the insurance department of New York state as legal counsel in the liquidation bureau and received for services during 1932 $5,125. In this case the Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the exaction.

In the fourth case Clarence H. Freedman was employed as an attorney in the Pennsylvania department of justice and paid an annual salary of $3,000. He was assigned, however, to bank liquidation work and paid from the funds of the banks.

Explains Scope of Decision.

The opinion of Justice McReynolds did not imply that the federal government could tax the salaries of state officers and employés, or vice versa. It said:

"Among the inferences which derive necessarily from the constitution are these: No state may tax appropriate means which the United States may employ for exercising their delegated powers; the United States may not tax instrumentalities which a state may employ in the discharge of her essential governmental duties—that is those duties which the framers intended each member of the Union would assume in order adequately to function under the form of government guaranteed by the constitution.

"By definition precisely to delimit 'delegated powers' or 'essential governmental duties' is not possible. Controversies involving these terms must be decided as they arise, upon consideration of all the relevant circumstances. Notwithstanding discordant views which have sometimes arisen because of varying emphasis given to one or another of such circumstances, it is now settled doctrin that the inferred exemption from federal taxation does not extend to every instrumentality which a state may see fit to employ."

In another tax case decided today the court upheld a New Mexico state statute levying 2 per cent upon the gross receipts of newspaper and magazine publishers from the sale of advertising space. Justice McReynolds and Justice Pierce Butler dissented, but wrote no separate opinion.

No Press Freedom Challenge.

The petitioner, Western Livestock, a magazine, did not challenge the tax on the ground that it abridged the freedom of the press as guaranteed by the constitution. Neither was there any claim that the exaction was discriminatory. The statute was challenged on the ground that it placed an unconstitutional burden upon interstate commerce. The publishers of the magazine contended that it sold advertising space on contracts with advertisers outside the state of New Mexico and that the magazine circulated outside as well as within the state.

The court decided to review its 5 to 4 decision declaring unconstitutional the municipal bankruptcy act. The review was granted on motion of the government under the expediting act, which permits the government to intervene in private litigation in which a constitutional question is involved.

Dog on Ice Floe Spurs Hunt for Missing Master

Erie, Pa., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The howls of a dog on a drifting ice floe in Lake Erie revealed a mystery tonight for coast guardsmen. Mrs. Augustus Major told police that her father, missing from a farm fourteen miles from Erie, near where the dog was sighted, owned a dog answering the animal's description. She expressed fear her father, George Hickel, 57 years old, had drowned and the pet had kept vigil until exhausted. Hickel has not been seen since Friday.

DIETERICH SAYS HE'S NEUTRAL IN PRIMARY BATTLE

Igoe Forces Claim Chief Gain by Statement.

BY PARKE BROWN.

United States Senator William H. Dieterich yesterday took himself all the way out of the Democratic state primary on April 12. Having withdrawn his own petition as a candidate for renomination last Saturday, he supplemented that action with a statement declaring that he will not permit himself to be drawn into any phase of the primary battle.

In a sense it was a protest against reports that he would throw his support to one of the two major senatorial candidates remaining in the race, District Attorney Michael L. Igoe and Congressman Scott W. Lucas. The chief immediate effect politically was its interpretation as a release of downstate federal appointees sponsored by him, who now are considered free to use their own judgment in the contest.

Expect New Strength.

The Chicago supporters of Igoe were quick to say that they will be the chief gainers from the Dieterich utterance. They said that most of the federal appointees hitherto believed amenable to Dieterich's wishes will follow District Attorney Howard L. Doyle of Decatur over to the Igoe banner. They said there also was political value in Dieterich's tacit refusal to join in the anti-Chicago clamor raised by Lucas supporters against Igoe.

Senator Dieterich's statement follows:

"Inquiry and rumor require that I again make public announcement that I withdrew from the primary race for senator in the interest of party harmony. I am sincere in this statement.

"I withdrew in favor of no candidate and do not intend to permit myself to be drawn into any phase of the primary battle. To avoid being drawn into any controversy, I expect, in the future as in the past, to adhere to the practice of speaking for myself. No one will be delegated the authority to speak for me.

Igoe Refuses Comment.

District Attorney Igoe said he would not comment on Dieterich's statement, but his backers here contended emphatically that since Dieterich's following downstate opposed Gov. Horner's renomination in 1936 they naturally will be against Congressman Lucas, the governor's candidate for senator this year. They predicted that many of the Dieterich appointees holding office in central Illinois will be on hand to hear Igoe when he opens his campaign at Springfield next Saturday night.

HURL TEAR GAS BOMBS INTO C. I. O. STRIKERS' RANKS

Sterling, Ill., March 1 [Tuesday].—Tear gas bombs were fired early today in an effort to disperse several hundred men, mostly C. I. O. strikers, around the plant of the Northwestern Barbed Wire and Rodmill company. They retreated, but soon returned.

F. Buchanan suffered a leg fracture when one of the bombs struck him. Three men were arrested, among them Laurence Kelly, former president of the C. I. O. union.

The trouble started shortly after midnight when the C. I. O. contract with the company expired and 200 walked out of the plant. They massed in front of the plant, where spectators also had gathered. Sherif A. E. Hamilton and his deputies ordered the men to disperse, but were met with stones and catcalls. The bombs then were thrown.

ILLEGAL STRIKE HALTS WEAVERS IN THREE STATES

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 28.—(AP)—A work stoppage branded as an illegal strike by the national executive board of the American Federation of Hosiery Workers kept weavers from their looms today in scattered sections of three states.

The work stoppage was ordered by branch 1 of the federation in Philadelphia and the New York-New Jersey district council in a protest against a mediation board order for a bonus readjustment. Leaders of the two groups said the readjustment amounted to an 11 to 12 per cent wage reduction.

5,000 Out in One Area.

William Leader, president of branch 1, estimated that 5,000 of the 11,000 employed workers in the Philadelphia district remained away from their mills today. He said all but six of the district's sixty-five mills were closed.

Emil Rieve, international president of the union, said the stoppage violated contracts with the manufacturers. He estimated more than 4,000 workers refused to quit in Philadelphia, and added:

"No support for the illegal strike has developed in the remainder of the Metropolitan area. Every worker is at his machine in Bucks, Montgomery, and Chester counties, and the south Jersey district. The entire midwest district also is working."

Spurn Strike in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Hosiery workers of the Phoenix and Holeproof plants tonight voted to accept the wage reduction made by a national mediation board and to continue work. The decision was reached after a half-day work stoppage in which 4,000 to 4,500 workers left the plants. With machinery left idle, the employés met at Eagles hall, where the union contract obligations were explained and the price awards clarified.

M'GEE, IN SHAKEDOWN TRIAL, PAINTS SELF AS PUBLIC BENEFACTOR

Cleveland, O., Feb. 28.—(AP)—John E. McGee, union leader accused of extortion on a restaurant job, pictured himself today as a public benefactor who saved taxpayers thousands of dollars. He and Donald A. Campbell, head of the painters' district council, are being tried on charges of extorting $1,200 from Vernon Stouffer, Cleveland restaurant owner, on threat to tie up work.

McGee testified he went to the Cleveland school board shortly after the Civil Works administration was started and convinced board members they should employ supervisors to direct wall washers in eighty-six public schools.

The laborers' district council president said that although "the regular rate was 20 cents less, as a taxpayer I didn't want to see all the paint washed off the walls [through lack of expert direction] — then have to have them repainted at great expense to the city."

McGee said he received $500, $350, and either $175 or $225 from heads of three window cleaning companies who split the school board business. "These were cash gifts," McGee explained. "I never expected them."

Part of Dead Man's Eye Gives Sight to Priest

The surgeon, who for professional reasons prefers to remain anonymous, expressed belief the priest's sight soon would be improved. The operation was performed a month ago.

G. O. P. PROGRAM MAKERS LOOK TO YOUNG AMERICA

Frank Urges Clear Policy at First Meeting.

Names Three Problems.

Three major problems confronting the program committee were outlined by Chairman Frank.

"This commission," he said, "must first make an honest and objective audit of the New Deal, beginning with March, 1933, and coming down to date. This audit must cover everything that has been a factor in the total impact of the New Deal on the lives and enterprises of the American people. It must be conducted without any partisan bias that seeks to twist the record. It must freely accord credit where credit is due, and refuse to withhold indictment where indictment is due.

"We know some things the New Deal has done are things that should have been done long ago. We know that some things the New Deal has done have been miserable flops. We know that some of the policies of the New Deal have had dangerously undesirable objectives.

Calls for Restatement.

"Second, this commission must rethink, restate and reinterpret to the nation the political and economic philosophy with which the Republican party faces the new circumstances of this new era.

"Under the present administration a philosophy of government and enterprise utterly alien to the long held doctrin of representative government and free enterprise under decent economic trafic rules has been in the making. That new philosophy promised to solve problems that pressed hard upon the body and spirit of millions of Americans. It has failed to solve these problems. But the problems remain. And these millions want to know what a party bidding for leadership has to say about these problems.

"Any alternative leadership, bidding for power, will get short shift if it has nothing to offer beyond a policy of watchful waiting and playing the breaks. The Republican party owes a fresh statement of its political and economic philosophy to the people.

Policy Report Needed.

"Third, this commission must as its contribution to the councils of Republicans create a comprehensive report of policy respecting the long array of stubborn problems confronting us as a whole—labor, agriculture, business, social security, taxation, political and economic foreign policy, unemployment, and so on."

Chairman Frank said the committee was to face fresh problems with fresh minds. It was not to start a campaign of vindictive faultfinding, nor to serve as a "smearing squad," he advised the members.

"We are not a brain trust," he said. "We are a body of laymen intended to be representative of the basic interests of the mine run of Americans. We are not commissioned ourselves to fabricate a program. We are to serve as directors of research on fact and opinion that will reflect a nation-wide judgment on national policy."

Criticizes Shifting Policy.

In his remarks upon the depression and its causes, Dr. Frank spoke of a chronic inconstancy of policy at Washington.

"We have seen a paralyzing uncertainty," he said, "slow down the nation's enterprise just when, by every count, it was geared to go.

"A national leadership may lean to the right or to the left in its economic philosophy, but it should stay put for at least a few months at a time if it expects the nation's enterprise to proceed.

"In theory, the national leadership has been planning. In practice, it has been playing by ear, with increasing signs of not knowing with assurance what the tune should be. This can land us, as indeed it has landed us, in confusion worse confounded."

John D. M. Hamilton, Republican national chairman, told the program group that it had been created by the national committee to obtain a cross section view of the views on national issues from the rank and file of the people.

"Through your work," he said, "you can become the sounding board for the voices of 17 million Republicans—and of many millions of dissatisfied Democrats. It is a work which may determine not only the future of your party but also, much more importantly, the future of your country."

A committee on organization was named including Arch W. Shaw, Edward A. Hayes, and Sterling Morton of Illinois; Paul Windels and Arthur A. Ballantine of New York; Frank Altschul of Connecticutt; John Hollister of Ohio, Thomas Whelan of North Dakota, W. J. Goodwin of Iowa, C. C. Teague of California, Miss Mary A. 12 LOSE APPEALS; TRY 6 FOR FRAUD IN KANSAS CITY

Supreme Court Upholds Previous Convictions.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—A jury was selected here today to try six defendants, including a woman ward leader, in the city's eleventh vote fraud conspiracy case. Simultaneously news arrived from Washington that the Supreme court had refused to review a lower court decision upholding the convictions of twelve other persons here on election fraud charges in previous trials.

News of the high court's action, which means the twelve must serve prison terms, was kept from the jury in the present case, being prosecuted by Maurice Milligan, recently confirmed by the senate for a second terms as United States district attorney for the Kansas City area.

Three Republican women interrupted the proceedings today to enter pleas. Mrs. Elva O'Byrne, committee woman, changed her plea to guilty. Mrs. Viola Doss and Louise Davis, election judges, pleaded no defense, placing themselves at the court's mercy.

Mrs. Doss testified that although she had consistently voted the Democratic ticket, on the day before the 1936 general election Mrs. Frances Ryan, only woman ward boss in the T. J. Pendergast organization, offered her a job as Republican judge. The witness said there was no count of votes made at her precinct on election day.

DON'T LET COLDS THREATEN YOUR JOB!

When jobs are hard to get, don't let a cold interfere with your employment. Every year American workers lose a total of 108 million working days. This runs into a staggering cost of five hundred million dollars, and many lost jobs, too.

Many colds can be avoided by building strong bodily-resistance. For 83 years Father John's Medicine has been used in this way, and also for treating colds and resulting coughs.

DODD URGES FREE NATIONS TO UNITE AGAINST FASCISM

Fears World Is Moving to Useless War.

All nations are moving toward another war, although warfare has become a failure for the victorious as well as the defeated, William E. Dodd, who recently resigned as ambassador to Germany, said yesterday. He spoke before the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations in the Palmer house, and won enthusiastic applause.

"How is mankind going to escape what the Fuehrer of Germany [Hitler] says is coming?" Dr. Dodd asked. "He says, democracy is a failure, almost as bad as communism, which he hates above all else. What is coming if western civilization is too weak to defend itself?"

Says England Is Wavering.

"The English, who have been so brave in the past, have wavered back and forth. The last stroke came when Rome and Berlin authorized Japan to take China. The idea is to bring the Chinese under the Fascist system in Tokio, then confront Russia with a solid front, with the Rome-Berlin front on the other side of Russia. If that came, there would be 750,000,000 under the Fascist system.

"If all the democratic countries don't learn to coöperate there is no possible real salvation, and step by step that other system will be spread. We probably will be the last great nation to survive. What is happening in Mexico now? Brazil already is Fascist, Chile practically so, and two other countries in South America so propagandized that they are about to succumb. America will be in an embarrassing situation. In Canada there are reports now of a Fascist swing.

Fears England Will Lose India.

"If Japan annexes China, England will lose India. After Germany annexes Austria, there will be a renewal of the campaign to take everything to the Black Sea. Then, because Germany considers the Dutch and other Aryan peoples her own, other countries will be allowed to come into the fold after Naziism proves so successful."

The league of nations is virtually a failure, it can do nothing, Dr. Dodd said. He declared the only substitute would be for democratic nations to plan together, for them to establish easy trade relationships, raise the standard of living, create employment and when a country does as Japan did in China, agree to ship nothing there.

WALLACE SAYS WARRING GROUPS IMPERIL NATION

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace explained the new farm bill and defined his concept of democracy in an address before a large group of business men at a luncheon of the City club in the Hotel Sherman yesterday.

The great problem of this democracy, he said, is how to get the warring groups, such as farmers, labor, and business, to accept the doctrin of the general welfare and plan a balanced structure that won't blow up.

"I firmly believe in the capitalistic, democratic system," he said, "but we don't know yet whether we can maintain a capitalistic democracy with these groups struggling as they are."

He suggested a mechanism by which subsidies granted to any one group, such as the tarif, wages, or prices, be conditioned upon their recognition of the general welfare. He distinguished between individual and economic liberty and said that in a mature democracy there is a discipline for every freedom.

MRS. AL CAPONE VISITS HUSBAND; FINDS HIM WELL

Mrs. Al Capone visited her husband yesterday at the Alcatraz Island federal prison, according to a telephone message received from her last night by Al's brother, Ralph Capone, in Cicero.

Mrs. Capone said she had never seen her husband in better health and that he told her he had never felt better since he entered prison, although he was recently reported in ill health.

Under prison regulations Capone is allowed one visitor a month. Mrs. Capone, therefore, made her visit on the last day of February, and will see him again today as his March visitor. She will then return to Florida, where she has been spending the winter.

Anna Sage, the "woman in red" said to have pointed out John Dillinger to federal agents who shot him to death on July 22, 1934, had a husband. This man, whose name was not mentioned in any of the many stories written about her, obtained a divorce for desertion yesterday before Judge John J. Lupe.

He is Alex Sage, 45 years old, an unemployed railroad man, living at the Grant hotel, 6 North Dearborn street. He is a Rumanian by birth, as she is. They were married May 16, 1929, and separated Feb. 4, 1932. She was deported to Rumania April 29, 1936, as an undesirable alien.

UPHOLDS $104,750 TAX ASSESSMENT ON CARBON DUBBS

The county board of tax appeals yesterday upheld a 1937 personal property assessment of $104,750 against Carbon Petroleum Dubbs, former village president of Wilmette. Dubbs, who filed a statement listing personal property of only $7,993 with an assessed value of $2,957, claimed that his residence is now in Bermuda. H. S. Marshall, New Trier township assessor, told the board Dubbs had lived in Wilmette during most of 1937.

GERMANS AGAIN WARNED NOT TO JOIN BUND IN U. S.

Envoy Informs Hull of Berlin's Orders.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Hans Dieckhoff, the German ambassador, called on Secretary Cordell Hull at the state department today and informed him that the German government again had warned its nationals resident in this country against membership in the Amerika-Deutsche volksbund or any "possible substitute organization of that kind."

The government's announcement, made originally in Berlin, climaxed a series of disturbances precipitated by speeches to the Nazi meetings in New York and elsewhere by Fritz Kuhn, bund leader. The order called on German citizens to resign from both the Amerika-Deutsche volksbund as well as the Prospective Citizens' league.

Kuhn Heckled from Floor.

The bund is a so-called German-American Nazi organization which has been bitterly attacked due to the activities of Kuhn. A recent meeting of a branch of the organization at Buffalo ended in a near riot when American Legion members heckled Kuhn from the floor and offered physical evidence of their resentment if he would leave the speakers' platform.

The instructions contained in the government's announcement affect about 400,000 German citizens residing in the United States, although only a minority of the total are believed to be members of the volksbund. The exact number of bund members is not known but a majority of them are believed to be American citizens.

The announcement of the German government's order was received with gratification at the state department, but officials withheld comment. However, Secretary Hull already had given this government's attitude toward participation in the bund or other Nazi organizations here of German-Americans having become citizens of this country.

Hull Tells Duty of Citizens.

Hull covered the matter earlier this month in the following statement:

"I desire to stress that all persons of foreign birth who acquire United States citizenship by naturalization declare on oath in open court that they will support and defend the constitution of the United States, and that they absolutely and entirely renounce and abjure all allegiance and fidelity to any foreign nation.

"It is thus clear that with their new allegiance their undivided duty is the support of the constitution, our laws, and our flag."

What effect the German government's announcement today might have on pending proposals for a congressional investigation of the Bund was problematical. Several such proposals are pending in the house and senate, notably one introduced by Representative Dickstein of New York.

Bund Leaders Unperturbed.

New York, Feb. 28.—(AP)—An attaché of the Amerika-Deutsche volksbund, the German-American Nazi organization, today said the German government's order that German citizens could not be members of the bund would not change the membership. "There are no German citizens in the volksbund," said the attaché.

JAP ARMY MAKES RAPID ADVANCE IN SHANSI PROVINCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, March 1 [Tuesday].—The Japanese military today reported rapid advances and the capture of Linfen in southwestern Shansi province and issued a warning to Chengchow, crossing point of the Lunghai and Peking-Hankow railways in northern Honan province, of an air bombardment to come tomorrow.

Chengchow, a mission center, was bombarded Feb. 14 with a toll of 400 Chinese dead and 600 wounded. Leaflets dropped from planes today gave warning of the raid to come.

The Japanese have been trying for weeks to cross the Yellow river north of or near Chengchow to gain control of the railway junction and bottle up hundreds of thousands of Chinese defenders within the Lunghai corridor.

Chinese Tear Up Tracks.

Chinese claimed today to have recaptured Chihsien north of Chengchow and cut the railway to hamper Japanese troop movements. Previously the Chinese had blown up the river bridge north of Chengchow, the longest steel bridge in China. Chinese planes bombarded Japanese troop concentrations yesterday to prevent a crossing of the river.

The Japanese capture of Linfen, 150 miles northwest of Chengchow and temporary capital of Shansi province, represented an advance of 40 miles in two days since the capture of Lingshih. Heavy Japanese air bombardments and tank attacks preceded the advance on Linfen. Japanese reported 5,000 Chinese were killed or captured at Hwohsien alone during the advance.

The Shansi province drives are aimed at the great bend of the Yellow river where the northwestern provinces of Shansi, Shensi, and Honan come together. If the movements were completed, the Japanese would be in control of all territory north of the river.

Aim at "Red Empire."

This also would open the way for a Japanese attack on Tungkwan, a western junction point on the Lunghai, and gateway to Shensi province and its capital, Sian, the seat of the so-called Chinese communist empire.

With Linfen as a base, the Japanese may send one column 85 miles southward toward the Yellow river, and another southwestward down the valley of the Fen river. Northwest of Linfen, 125 miles away, a third Japanese column is fighting westward. It was said to have reached Chungtu, a town on the east bank of the Yellow and opposite Shensi.

Japs Lose 375 Planes, China Says.

HANKOW, China, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Chinese military headquarters announced today the first four and a half months of the war had cost Japan 375 planes and twenty vessels, including warships and troop ships.

MOTHER'S PLEA IS ONLY DEFENSE IN SLAYING TRIAL

Russell Grant, 23 years old, held as the slayer of William Hendele, owner of a filling station at 61st and La Salle streets, waived a jury yesterday in his trial in the Criminal court of Judge Joseph Sabath.

Although a plea of not guilty was entered, the state's evidence was not contested by Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach, and only one witness for Grant was heard. She was his mother, Myrtle, of 6225 Stewart avenue, who said he was the sole support of herself and her aged mother. She blamed bad companions for his predicament.

Judge Sabath took the case under advisement until Thursday. Grant's two companions, Jeffery Gilleas, 17 years old, and Joseph E. Suddeth, 18, are now serving 14 year terms for the crime, which was committed on last Nov. 20.

Widow Killed by a Train at Crossing in Waukegan

BRITISH HOUSE O. K.'S HALIFAX AS FOREIGN CHIEF

Eden Expected Back in Cabinet Soon.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 28.—Britain's political crisis over Capt. Anthony Eden's resignation of the foreign secretaryship appeared to have been provisionally ended today. Lord Halifax, Eden's successor, was formally presented his seal of office at a Buckingham palace privy council.

Then despite Labor criticisms the house of commons voted 226 to 99 approval of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's action in appointing Halifax.

Politicians, however, began to speculate on how soon Eden would rejoin the cabinet in a new post.

Eden Gains in Popularity.

Eden's ousting has served to augment his popularity, as was shown in the open air demonstrations of yesterday and in protest meetings scheduled all this week. He is already spoken of as the ideal leader for the Conservative party, and his resumption of some domestic department office in the government is foreseen after a reasonable lapse of time.

Laborites protested that Halifax, being a member of the house of lords, could not be made responsible for questioning in the house of commons. Chamberlain stanchly has defended his departure from the usual practice of having a commoner as foreign secretary on the grounds of Lord Halifax's great ability.

A Strategem of Defense.

The impression was given by Chamberlain that his cloistering of the foreign secretary in the house of lords was a strategem to defend him from parliamentary attacks and criticism during his negotiations of the ticklish business with Dictators Mussolini and Hitler in the coming weeks.

The prime minister told the house of commons members that he himself would deal with all aspects of foreign affairs which are subject either to debate or question. Members of the house of lords, where Halifax hits, are unlikely to disturb him with prying questions.

RED GUARD KILLED IN CLASH NEAR MANCHUKUO LINE

MOSCOW, Feb. 28.—(AP)—A dispatch from Chita, Siberia, today reported one soviet soldier had been killed and another wounded in a fight presumably on the border of Siberia and Manchukuo, Japan's protectorate.

The dispatch said twelve armed horsemen rode into soviet territory and exchanged shots with Russian border guards. Previously machine guns had been fired at the guards. Soviet reinforcements arrived and drove the invaders back.

[A Domei, Japanese news agency, dispatch from Seoul, Corea, said headquarters of the Japanese garrison in Corea had announced that 150 soviet cavalrymen and infantrymen had crossed the border near Wuchiatzu, near the southern end of the eastern Siberia-Manchukuo frontier, on Feb. 26. Two soviet planes were also said to have flown over Manchukuan territory. The Japanese said there was no fighting.]

ITALY'S CONQUEST OF ETHIOPIA GETS O. K. OF BALKANS

ANKARA, Turkey, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The Balkan entente countries—Greece, Jugo-Slavia, Rumania, and Turkey—today decided to recognize Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

The entente states will accredit diplomatic representatives to Victor Emmanuel as king of Italy and head of the Italian empire. Consequently, the four states hope Italy will adhere to the Montreux convention, whereby the Dardanelles were rearmed.

The four states also decided to send commercial agents to Gen. Francisco Franco, leader of insurgent Spain, although they will continue their policy of nonintervention in the Spanish civil war.

The entente reaffirmed its loyalty to the league of nations, but proclaimed its own independence and the equality of the individual states.

TOKIO CABINET FIGHTS FOR O. K. ON DICTATOR BILL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 28.—Foreign Minister Koki Hirota, as the senior member of the cabinet in the absence of Prime Minister Fumimaro Konoe, who is a victim of an influenza epidemic, strongly defended the government's pending national mobilization bill in the diet today.

He vehemently denied that the bill will conflict with the imperial constitution, and declared that it is based on the essential principles of the constitution.

"We are profoundly convinced that enactment of the bill will not affect the functioning of the constitution," he declared. He was greeted by shouts of "No, no," from parliamentarians. One member charged that the bill is an "emergency measure depriving the nation of its freedom."

LEADERS OF NAZIS IN AUSTRIA END 'EXILE' IN BERLIN

Hitlerites Back in Vienna to Guide Followers.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Feb. 28.—Apparently as a warning to Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg not to talk quite so loudly about independence and as encouragement to Nazis to show more spirit, Capt. Josef Leopold and Dr. Leopold Tavs, leaders of the illegal Austrian Nazi party, returned to Austria from Berlin tonight.

Under the terms of the Berchtesgaden agreement of Feb. 12 they were recalled to Germany as evidence of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's intentions not to meddle in Austrian politics, and when they left last week Vienna thought it had seen the last of them. Now they are back, ostensibly only for a few days' visit, but patriotic Austrians view this as a violation of the agreement Hitler made with Schuschnigg.

Police Break Up Demonstrations.

A crowd of some 800 Nazis demonstrated noisily at the railway station in Tavs' honor—Leopold had left the train before it arrived in Vienna to go to his home. Later in the evening there were Nazi street demonstrations in the capital. The police broke up these demonstrations with a bit more vigor than usual.

Other evidences of the continued political tension despite the success of Schuschnigg's counterstroke in the turbulent province of Styria yesterday when the army curbed mutinous Nazis were:

FIRST—Fatherland Front militia of lower Austria—comprising the country between Vienna and Styria—was placed under a so called state of alarm. This means that officers of the militia must keep in 24 hour contact with their headquarters. The Fatherland Front is the only legal political party in the republic.

SECOND—A certain number of officers of the army air base at Graz, capital of Styria, were transferred to other posts—a regular Austrian practice when the military forces are used to maintain order, the idea being that soldiers are reluctant to fire on their neighbors. Yesterday nine planes, including seven big bombers, kept circling over Graz and local Nazis at first hailed them as German planes—an interesting example of the state of opinion in Styria.

Styria Reported Quiet.

Today the city of Graz and the whole province were reported to be quiet. Content with throwing a good scare into them, Schuschnigg's police have not yet launched a political cleanup in earnest. Authorities are trying to get the excited Styrians calmed down with gentle words, and sterner measures will be used only on recalcitrants.

Styria has always been a trouble center in Austria, and the government realizes that a cleanup will be a long and slow process. For the moment the authorities are satisfied in keeping the Nazis from staging demonstrations. They have not yet attempted to enforce the ban on Nazi buttons and salutes.

[Associated Press dispatches from Graz said the Austrian army and mutinous Nazis were ready for instant action in a tense atmosphere that balked Sunday's march on Vienna. Soldiers cruised the streets on motorcycles and the police prevented the assemblage of more than three persons. Eighty thousand uniformed Nazis were reported awaiting a call to action in the three provinces of Styria, Carinthia and upper Austria. At Linz, capital of upper Austria, Nazis smashed windows in Jewish stores and declared a boycott against Jews.]

Dr. Arthur Seyss-Inquart, Nazi minister of the interior, plans to go to Graz tomorrow or Wednesday to reason with his political followers. For some unknown reason an official statement which had been prepared concerning his visit, was suppressed at the last moment.

Whether Seyss-Inquart refused to go to Styria, or whether Schuschnigg was afraid he might stir up the Styrians instead of calming them down was not clear, but there is no doubt that Hitler's representative in the Vienna government is in an awkward position.

As minister of the interior he had to countersign the order calling out the military forces at Graz. As a good Catholic and a good Nazi—to say nothing of being an Austrian—Seyss-Inquart is involved in a Hamlet-like moral conflict which must be anything but pleasant for him. That may be one reason why Leopold and Tavs returned to Vienna.

'SUPERWARSHIP' TALKS BY U. S., BRITAIN AND FRANCE OPEN TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 28.—American, British and French naval experts will meet here tomorrow to decide whether they will build superwarships of more than 35,000 tons and armed with larger than 14-inch guns. The conference, which is a result of Japan's refusal to reveal her naval construction plans, is expected to last about a month.

The conferees are said to know definitly—thanks to the American secret service, it is said here—that Japan is building superwarships. Great Britain, it is believed, is virtually certain to follow suit.

Britain's next capital ships are due to be started this year, with two or perhaps three to be laid down this spring. Naval circles believe that they will be oversize craft, but that will not be known until after the three-power talks have ended.

New York Senate Passes Syphilis Test for Mothers

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—A legislative bill requiring serological blood tests for syphilis for all pregnant women was passed unanimously tonight in the senate. Final action on the bill will be taken in the assembly tomorrow.

HITLER PUTS ALL EX-OFFICERS IN RESERVE CORPS

Jews and Husbands of Jewesses Barred.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 28.—Sweeping measures to increase Germany's reserve officers' corps were taken today by Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the supreme military command. He ordered all retired officers, regardless of age, placed "at the disposal" of the armed forces.

The measure is designed to bring the officers corps up to the strength required by the new increases of the armed forces as announced by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler in his speech to the reichstag Feb. 20.

Jews Are Barred.

The order applies to all former officers as well as officials ranking as officers who served in the old imperial army, in the post-war reichswehr, or in the armed forces since the Nazis assumed power. Only officers of Jewish blood or those who are married to Jewesses, and men retired under dishonorable circumstances, are barred from the reserve corps.

The youngest branch of German fighting forces will celebrate German Air Force day tomorrow—the third anniversary of the day when Hitler ordered the creation of the air force, thereby breaking "the fetters of the Versailles treaty."

Praises Hitler's Action.

Commenting on the achievements of the air force, the Berliner Tageblatt says: "Whatever gruesome stories the foreign press and parliaments spread about the alleged plans of our air force, at least one thing is proved—the Fuehrer gave Germany what she needs in view of her exposed geographical position."

The reich's anti-air raid organization now has 11,000,000 members. Lieut. Gen. Von Roques, chief of the organization, said that 5,000,000 of them are fully trained in air raid precautions. He added that the country needs 12,000,000 fully trained members. They will receive their instructions in 3,500 anti-air raid schools.

HITLER WILL LIVE IN KING'S PALACE DURING VISIT TO ITALY IN MAY

ROME, Feb. 28.—(AP)—A communique tonight announced that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler would spend a week in Italy during the first half of May, repaying Premier Mussolini's visit to Berlin last September.

The announcement said Hitler would come as "fuehrer and chancellor of the reich" and stay at the Palazzo Quirinale, which is the royal palace in Rome. This made it clear Hitler would come as head of the German state and thus be on an equal footing with King Victor Emmanuel, instead of coming merely as chancellor.

The communique announced a "vast program" for the visit including great naval, military, and aerial reviews and military exercises. The Fascist party is organizing a gigantic manifestation in his honor. Hitler's trip, it was announced, also would include visits to Naples and Florence.

Zoo in Lincoln Park Acquires White Coyote

The Lincoln park zoo has acquired a white coyote named Snow White, Floyd S. Young, zoo director, yesterday announced. The animal is rare, he said; in fact, it was the first one he ever had seen. Its eyes are blue.

A BURNED BOY IS CAUGHT PLAYING WITH FIRE AGAIN

It was thought that Roderick Hughes, 11 years old, learned a lesson four months ago when an automobile he had borrowed without asking the owner crashed into three parked cars, overturned, and caught fire. Firemen extricated him and took him to a hospital, where he surprised nurses by recovering.

But Roderick forgets easily. Sergts. James Burke and Albert Hendricks saw him yesterday with another boy, about to drive another borrowed car away from 832 Sheridan road. They took the other boy, Harry Heiss, 13 years old, home to his parents at 559 Surf street. Instead of taking Roderick home to 503 Aldine avenue, they turned him over to juvenile authorities.

Insurgent Attacks Halted by Spanish Loyalist Army

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], Feb. 28.—(AP)—While the Spanish insurgent headquarters today reported "all quiet," government communiques said their artillery beat back attempted attacks on the Jarama river front and at Cuesta de la Reina, north of Aranjuez, both in central Spain. Government batteries in the Carabanchel sector on the Madrid front dispersed insurgent reënforcements advancing on the Extremadura road from Mostoles toward Campamento advance posts.

COMMERCE NO. 5

Joiner of Peoples

By CALEB

PROVIDENCE has given us all a capacity to appreciate things we can't create. Most of the world's activities are based on our desires for things that can come only from other hands or lands than our own.

Commerce is the medium by which that which is localized in production becomes universal in consumption. The world largely uses automobiles originating in American mines and factories. The automobiles look largely to the rubber plantations of Brazil for tires. The most popular beverages of the world are dependent on the crops of relatively limited areas.

The prosperity of many an English town depended for decades on the cotton of the American southland.

Thus are nations chained by links of gold to one another. Commerce makes of money the warp of a fabric whose filling ultimately must be the tenuous but powerful threads of commercial good-will between nations.

If the 200-inch telescope being completed in California could be turned on the world the observer would see the slowly seething, all-enveloping activities of commerce to that end. Commerce sends ships sailing, weathering the typhoons of the Pacific, and the icebergs of the northern sea lanes. Commerce sets caravans creeping city-ward over burning deserts. By plane and train, on foot and river sampan, by burro, in buffalo wagon—by every type of conveyance, earth slowly pours her bounties and the skills of her people marketward.

Commerce, hindered with vessels broken on rocks, checked by trade winds and sand storms, discouraged by disaster, restrained by raging elements, ever works toward the perfection of the network routes of trade—converging, always converging, toward the most prosperous populations on the face of earth.

The great telescope would reveal, in the remotest places, miners, engineers, mariners, hunters, fishermen, architects, inventors, mechanics, craftsmen, artists, trainmen, pilots, plantation owners, agriculturists, professional men, bending intently to their tasks of consummating the ends of commerce.

Negotiations, treaties, wars, great orations, and political gestures of friendliness contribute to the ends of a peaceful world. Commerce, little heralded and unsung, slowly goes about the completion of the job all these other undertakings can only commence. Nations are bound together not so much by formal protocol as by bonds of their people's mutual interests, which may become ethical—but are mercantile.

BARUCH DUMPS DEPRESSION AT ROOSEVELT DOOR

Blames His Policies for Nation's Woes.

hesitation of important capitalists. I am speaking of the hesitancy of every small merchant and manufacturer to embark on more than a closely held program of merchandising or manufacture. I am speaking of the reluctance of every farmer and worker to spend for consumption more than for the most prudent provision of necessities.

"It is the combinaion of millions of cautions that holds back the spending and development which could do ten times more for reëmployment than any government action or all the spending for relief in any year of this depression.

"Of course all this depends on national policy. If it remains what recently it has appeared to be, there is no hope of reëmployment and substantial recovery. If it could be changed along the lines I have tried to indicate, I believe that we would have a rapid and immediate rise in all economic indexes."

Committee Much Affected.

Mr. Baruch's pronouncements produced a palpably profund effect upon the committee. When what was taking place became noised about several Democratic senators, who were not members of the committee, hastened to the scene. Among them was Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], chairman of the finance committee which soon will address itself to the revision of the Roosevelt penalty taxes to which Mr. Baruch attributed in large part the blight on business.

Senator James F. Byrnes [D., S. C.], chairman of the committee, noted that Baruch was included in the book, "America's Sixty Families," and asked whether his views on legislative policy might not be affected, subconsciously or otherwise, by personal considerations.

Calls Book Nonsense.

Picking up the book, which he brought with him, Baruch said:

"I never heard of this book until it was mentioned by two distinguished men of this administration. It is not based on facts, but is just a jumbling together of names and fiction. Mr. Lundberg says that I am worth 37½ million dollars. That is the sheerest nonsense. I wish he'd do the counting and I'd give him a half if he could find one-third of that.

"He does say one thing about me that is true; that is, that I gave largely to the Democratic party. I am proud of it."

"And so is the party," remarked Senator Byrnes.

Senator Byrnes asked Baruch for his opinion as to the immediate future, whether he expected an early upturn in business conditions.

"That depends upon a good many factors, but more than anything else it depends upon the kind of a tax law that congress puts on the books," Baruch replied. "If there is relief from the burdens that prevent putting people back to work I think we will soon reach the end of this depression, but if there is no relief I feel very dubious about the future."

Baruch said the unemployment situation was more distressing than senators, perhaps, could realize. He referred particularly to men who were 35 years old or more in 1929, whom he called "the lost generation."

Mr. Baruch subjected the President's "soak the rich" taxes to a business man's critical analysis.

Taxes Halt New Enterprises.

"The combined influence of high and unreasonable capital gains and unwise undistributed taxes," he said, "has almost stopped the development of new enterprises. Financing of new developments is a very risky business. It usually takes a long time and a period of consecutive losses before there are any profits. Under the capital gains tax the government in effect is saying, 'if you lose, you lose it all. If you succeed, we take most of it.' Nobody wants to take such risks.

"Another way to build a new industry is by plowing back its profits. Under the undistributed profits tax that way is also almost completely closed.

"The third and last way is to build by borrowing but that avenue is also barred if the borrowing must be paid from profits.

"Considering all three effects together these taxes close all three approaches toward a solution of technological unemployment which I think is our greatest unemployment problem. Our prime necessity right now—the development of new industries—is slowed tremendously by these twin taxes.

"I think we should exempt small industries and new industries during development and also exempt all expenditures of any corporation for expansion of capital facilities or developments of new products or for payment of debt incurred for the same.

"The regular income tax structure should also be given a thorough overhauling to discover its maximum revenue-producing efficiency under the law of diminishing returns."

Assails Theory of Program.

Finally he summed up his indictment of the Roosevelt tax program by asserting that tax laws should be designed to increase revenue and employment "and not for revenge, punishment, hatred, regulation or advancement of any social theory."

Death duties he would not repeal but he pronounced them a great deflationary influence and submitted figures showing how much of the savings of all people are collected in such taxes.

If there is such a thing as science in government it should be applied to the levying of taxes, Mr. Baruch said, adding that "the treasury is no place for the theories of political Messiahs."

The pending tax revision bill, in his opinion, may easily be the turning point in our economic history.

"If it indicates a move toward taking the shackles off of our traditional economy and giving our profits system some leeway to work and solve our problems in accordance with that economy," he said, "it will be a tremendous force for recovery—both here and abroad.

"If, on the other hand, it continues the influences that have retarded our recent recovery, we may push ourselves and the world to lower levels from which it will be difficult for us or any other nation to rescue them. I have been unable to figure out how any man under present taxes can live and save up enough to care for those dear to him whether he makes $1,000 a year or $100,000 or more a year.

"I repeat with the greatest earnestness that I believe unemployment can be solved only by a proper readjustment of federal policy and the tax structure for maximum business turnover and activity, both nationally and internationally. In this way you will get the greatest government receipts, the greatest amount of employment, and the greatest sum of money to be used for relief and necessary social work.

"It is interesting to note that the old fortunes vanish. New ones come only because men venture. Old businesses disappear and new ones must be started or we shall sink."

Speaking generally of the Roosevelt policies Mr. Baruch said that our system needed revision, but not revolution, peaceful or otherwise. We should harness economic law as man has harnessed the wind and the lightning and not make the Fascist and communist mistake of trying to repeal economic law. We must make our choice, thought Mr. Baruch, between individualism and collectivism.

VIOLET KNOTT.

Judge John V. McCormick in Women's court yesterday continued disorderly conduct charges against Mrs. Violet Knott, 25 years old, 27 East 70th street, so a mental examination may be made as the result of her attempted suicide Saturday night in a tavern at 876 East 36th street. Her estranged husband was in court with her. She blamed her act on his refusal to live with her or support their two children. Judge McCormick tried to effect a reconciliation, but Knott said he was "through with her," and declared she spent the money he gave her for liquor.

Feel the need for cod liver oil?
Get its benefits this easy, modern way—

This is big news for people who have known about the resistance-building value of cod liver oil for years, but always hesitated to start with it the old way.

This winter they can take the cod liver oil vitamins—A and D—as a regular daily protection. But not with teaspoonfuls of the oil. In a modern form—with Adex.

Think how pleasant and easy! Three Adex tablets a day give exactly the same vitamins as five teaspoonfuls of cod liver oil.*

And the vitamins you receive come from healthful natural sources, like cod liver oil itself, and halibut liver oil. That's one reason they're so good for you.

There are also other reasons why Adex is superior. It is lastingly protected from the destructive action of air. Every tablet is coated more than thirty times to keep air-sensitive Vitamin A from being destroyed.

This is why E. R. Squibb & Sons are able to guarantee that every bit of the vitamin content is present in the tablets.

Adex is the vitamin product for you to take this winter. No other is exactly like it. Begin today and keep it up regularly every day. Have a bottle on the breakfast table so that every one in the family is sure to take Adex routinely. Day-in-and-day-out use is the only way to get results.

*3 Adex tablets equal in Vitamins A and D 5 teaspoonfuls of U. S. P. XI minimum standard cod liver oil, or 3 teaspoonfuls of Squibb's.

ISHBEL WEDS HER HANDY MAN; OLD PLOW INN IS GAY

Couple Married Secretly at Town Hall.

SPEEN, England, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Ishbel MacDonald, who was "first lady" of Great Britain when her father was prime minister, was married today to Norman Ridgley, the village handyman, who is captain of the darts team at her pub, Ye Olde Plow Inn.

And the boys were whooping it up at the Plow tonight—that is, up to 10 p. m., closing time—for "the new master and his wife."

"Bachelor Girl" No More.

The bar taps had been gurgling rhythmically since "Miss Ishbel" phoned at opening time from Hampstead town hall, where they were semi-secretly married in London, and giggled:

"Well, we've done it!"

By that time she was Mrs. Norman [Tinker] Ridgely instead of the "bachelor girl," daughter of the late J. Ramsay MacDonald. Ishbel accompanied her father on a state visit to the United States in 1929. Her brother is a cabinet minister. She still dines once in a while at Buckingham palace with the king and queen.

But today she married the handyman who beat the drum in the village band, only two weeks after the announcement of her engagement surprised all England. Both are 34 years old.

Honeymoon Plans Secret.

Dressed in navy blue, without flowers, Mrs. Ridgley smiled coyly after the London ceremony and said: "I'm not going to tell you about the honeymoon. I shall not say whether we are going to the Plow tonight."

The hatless "Tinker," who figured stylishly on the marriage register as a "house decorator," just blushed a deep red above his navy blue suit and blue tie and said nothing at all.

The wedding was a quiet one because of the recent death of Ishbel's father, whose official hostess she was during his two terms as prime minister. Her sister, Miss Sheila MacDonald, represented the family.

Disillusioned Bride of 15 Will Return to School

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Dorothy Markley Blum, 15 years old, a bride of six months, won a support order of $5 a week today so she could go back to high school. "I'm through with marriage," the girl told Judge Thomas Bluett in Domestic Relations court. She refused a reconciliation with her husband, an iron worker, 32 years old.

Married in London

(Story in adjoining column.)

Ishbel MacDonald, whose father was prime minister of Great Britain, telephoned her pub yesterday and excitedly said: "'Well, we've done it."

HOLD 7 IN YOUNG ROBBERY GANG TO GRAND JURY

Seven youths 16 to 19 years old, rounded up a week ago in two police chases in which an eighth member of their gang was killed, were held yesterday to the grand jury in bonds totaling $300,000 by Judge Cecil Smith. The seven are George Doll, 16 years old; William Creagh, 19; Herbert Rabe, 18; Charles Tonsovic, 18; Albert Bailey, 17; Frank Rosem, 17, and Henry Reinbold, 17. Tonsovic's bonds were set at $90,000 on six robbery charges and Creagh's were set at $45,000 on three.

BATTLE TO GET DICTATOR POWER FOR ROOSEVELT

Senate Supporters Hear Scheme Exposed.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—A legislative battle approaching in significance any that has been fought in the capital in a generation was begun in the senate today when the government reorganization bill was given the right of way.

The forthcoming struggle was so labeled by Senator Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.] who declared that congress, by approving the measure, would relinquish many of its responsibilities and delegate to the President powers which would prove wedges of potential danger into our form of government.

A protracted debate of several weeks is probable. Senator Byrd has with him a number of Democrats who are bitterly opposed to the bill, including Senators Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] and Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.], who led the opposition to the President's Supreme court packing proposal.

Byrnes Defends Measure.

The beginning of debate found Senator James F. Byrnes [D., S. C.] defending the bill from criticisms voiced by Byrd and Senator Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.].

The bill, Byrnes explained, gives the President power to reorganize federal agencies for the purpose of economy and efficiency. He read record roll calls of 1933 to show that senators opposing the present measure voted to delegate the same powers to the President in the economy act of that year.

"For 50 years efforts have been made to reorganize government departments," he said. "There are 130 separate federal agencies in Washington. A detective is needed to find some of these department heads. There is no way to consolidate these bureaus without giving the President power to do it."

"I freely admit that I voted for that bill," Senator Bailey interrupted. "Why? It was the express promise of the President, as given in his 1932 campaign, to reduce government expenditures by 25 per cent, approximately 500 millions at that time.

Asks Current Motive.

"That was the motive behind the request for powers then. Can the gentleman from South Carolina assure me that that is the motive now?"

"I wouldn't want to lead any one to believe that the President, by regrouping these departments, can save any large amount in appropriations," replied Byrnes.

Senator Byrd entered the argument by serving notice that he would move to amend the bill so that a 10 per cent saving in regular department expenditures would be essential to any reorganization. Senator Byrnes said he did not believe such a saving would be possible.

"We gave the President power to reduce expenditures in 1933," Byrd remarked. "Instead of a reduction, expenditures were doubled."

"In the old economy act," chimed in Bailey, "we were given a definite assurance of a slash in spending. In the pending act there is not only no assurance of a slash but no hope for any economies."

Five Bills Written.

The power to reorganize the government was asked by President Roosevelt in January, 1937, fourteen months ago. Since then five bills have been drafted in the senate, each one a modification of its predecessor which met objections.

The house meanwhile took up the measure in piecemeal fashion, passing two bills which granted a part of the President's request. Four house bills remain to be acted upon. They contain most of the original provisions which are more extreme than those listed in the last senate draft.

According to reports, Senator Byrnes' strategy has been to revise the senate measure until enough votes can be garnered to pass it. Then the senate bill must be reconciled in conference with the more extreme house bills and a broad measure, satisfactory to the President, worked out in conference.

The bill authorizes President Roosevelt, after his investigation and by his order, to reorganize federal agencies. He is given until July 1, 1940, to do this. There is no limit on the number of changes that can be made as affecting any agency, but the revised senate measure eliminates from the executive's jurisdiction the independent agencies such as the interstate commerce commission.

The bill abolishes the present bipartisan civil service commission and establishes in its place a one-man civil service administrator directly under the President. Under this provision, the President could, without regard for civil service requirements, fill any vacancy in any department if he finds that the position or office is policy determining, a term not defined in the bill.

The effect of this provision, Senator Byrd told the senate, is not only to remove from civil service, positions decided by the President to be policy determining, but to give the appointment of such key officers solely to the President who could make direct political appointments without consultation with executive heads of the agencies, including the independent agencies.

SLAYING SUSPECT RETURNED.

Marion, Ill., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Sheriff Zollie Carter returned this afternoon from Paducah, Ky., with Frank Arnold, who is charged with the slaying of Clarence Stanley in a holdup at the Marion City Dairy last March 29.

SAVINGS FOR YOU
WITH METROPOLITAN TELEPHONE SERVICE

Chicago Subscribers Who Call Often to Points Shown Above Can Pay Less for the Calls They Make or Make More Calls for the Same Money

A suburban residence subscriber within the area, who now has individual-line or two-party service and who averages more than $1.25 per month in calls to Chicago or to other points on this map where the initial rate is 15c or less, will save with Metropolitan Service. In Chicago, many customers who use less than $1.25 in suburban calls within the area will save because, with Metropolitan Service, calls from Chicago to points on the map will apply on the monthly guarantee the same as local Chicago calls. Business subscribers, whose average use of calls of 15c or less within the area exceeds $2.50 per line per month, will save with this service.

Metropolitan Service is offered to business users in individual-line and private switchboard service, and to residence users in individual, two-party and private switchboard service, both in Chicago and in the suburban metropolitan area shown above.

To the user of Metropolitan Service, most 5c calls within the area shown above are reduced to 4c, 10c calls to 8c, and 15c calls to 12c. With larger usage within any month, further reductions often lower additional 5c calls to 3½c, 10c calls to 7c, and 15c calls to 10½c. Let us give you further details of Metropolitan Service. Just telephone or visit our Business Office.

number of wealthy, eligible males, ready and willing to become prince consorts. The sisters are making the first major royal invasion since Queen Marie of Rumania, and competition for their presence at various functions is keen among local dowagers.

Traveling with the princesses is the king's aide-de-camp, M. Krossi, and the king's honorary aid, Abdurrahman Salih. Asim Jakova, member of Zog's parliament and a Brown university graduate, is acting as secretary for the party. The princesses brought along twenty-four pieces of baggage.

Here to Study Customs.

One purpose of the visit of Maxhide, Ruhie, and Myzejen is to familiarize themselves with customs and manners of this country in preparation for the coming marriage of their king brother. Zog is scheduled to marry the Countess Geraldine Apponyi and crown her queen over his million subjects on April 26. Her father was the late Count Julius Apponyi of an ancient Hungarian family and her mother was Gladys Virginia Stewart of New York.

King Zog's marriage is described as a love match, although several years ago he sent representatives to this country to find a bride with a million dollars a year income to bolster the tottering finances of his kingdom.

The three princesses on their tour here also will do a political chore for their brother. The trip to Boston is to plead with Bishop Fan Noli to return to his native Albania. Noli, former Albanian premier and a Harvard graduate, fled when Zog came into power and proclaimed himself king.

Mrs. Sonja Dawson Grover after she won permanent custody of son after five year court battle.

Mrs. Sonya Dawson Grover, former burlesque dancer, won a five year court battle yesterday when Judge John J. Lupe awarded her permanent custody of her son, Ronald Dawson, 6 years old.

Her ex-husband, Sterling Dawson of Newark, N. J., had sought custody, charging she was unfit. Mrs. Grover, now the wife of H. J. Grover, 317 South Lavergne avenue, a railroad man, showed she was able to provide a suitable home for young Ronald. A social service report to the court agreed with her.

Judge Lupe indicated he would issue a contempt attachment against Dawson for being $70 in arrears in support payments.

Like His Daughter, Father Falls and Fractures Ankle

Honeybrook, Pa., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Ten days ago Lucy Jane Tenaglia, 7 years old, fell at her home and broke her ankle. Carrying her downstairs last night, her father, Dr. G. E. Tenaglia, fell and broke his ankle.

COIN GAME TRIAL VICTORY GOES TO MATHEMATICS

After several days of hearing expert testimony that at times touched the realm of higher mathematics, Judge William V. Brothers yesterday permanently enjoined the city and the police department from interfering with the operation of coin baseball machines known as "The World Series."

Judge Brothers ruled that the game, which is distributed by the Rock-Ola Manufacturing company, 800 North Kedzie avenue, is one of skill, not of chance.

The company's witnesses included Prof. Walter Bartky, an associate in the department of mathematical astronomy at the University of Chicago. He testified at length on variables, sequences, theories of probability, angles of rotation, and co-efficients of elasticity.

Police Commissioner Allman testified for the city that tests by his investigators had shown the machines to be games of chance.

DIONNE QUINTS NEAR 4 YEAR MARK; GET NEW TUTOR, GAIN WEIGHT

CALLANDER, Ont., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The Dionne quintuplets, three years and nine months old today, have a new tutor for a new phase of their training.

Miss Norah Rousselle of Renfrew, Ont., who has specialized in physical training, music, and rhythmic dancing, was installed yesterday in the place of Miss Claire Tremblay who helped them from awkward babyhood to little girlhood. All five little girls gained weight during February except Yvonne. But despite a half pound loss, Yvonne is still the heaviest at 36½ pounds.

BOTH GARDNERS WARNED IN COURT CUSTODY BATTLE

Albert S. and Caroline De Windt Gardner, whose marital troubles have publicized the romantic moods of Fire Capt. David Wood of Winnetka, may both lose their two children, Carol, 14 years old, and William II., 12, to a guardian "if this wrangling keeps up." The threat was made yesterday by Judge John J. Lupe.

Gardner won a divorce and custody of the children last October. He permitted them to remain with the mother to complete the school year in Barrington. Recently she filed court action to compel Gardner to support them.

"Gardner failed to appear in my office Feb. 24 to answer questions relative to this action," complained Attorney Lloyd A. Faxon, "and we want him cited for contempt of court."

Attorney Robert Cantwell Jr., replied heatedly:

"They want to embark on a fishing expedition, your honor, so I told my client not to appear at the deposition hearing."

As the lawyers' voices became louder, Judge Lupe interrupted.

"I may take the children away from both parents and appoint a guardian ad litem for them."

He directed Gardner's lawyer to file answer within three days showing why he should not be compelled to appear at a deposition hearing.

PRE-MARRIAGE EXAMINATIONS

With separate departments for men and women, and with both men and women physicians in attendance, the Public Health Institute is especially well fitted to make the medical tests which the law requires every couple to have before a marriage license can be obtained. A thorough physical examination, including urinalysis, smears and Wassermann, Kahn and Eagle blood tests, costs $3.00 per person. Those examined before 2 P.M. can have their certificates the following morning.

DON'T GUESS!

Be examined and know that you are free from gonorrhea and syphilis!

An examination costs very little, takes but a short time and causes no discomfort, so see your doctor or this reliable clinic—at once!

Because gonorrhea and syphilis are so horribly destructive, it is the height of foolhardiness to take it for granted that you are free from these common infections. Only by undergoing a thorough physical examination, which includes blood and other laboratory tests, can you be sure you have nothing to fear.

The importance of knowing that you have neither gonorrhea nor syphilis becomes evident when you realize what havoc these diseases can cause. Neglected gonorrhea, for example, may cripple you with arthritis, give you a sight-destroying eye infection, make you sterile and unable to have children, or afflict you with serious prostate, bladder, kidney and other troubles!

The consequences of neglected syphilis are even more dreadful, for it may cause you to drop dead of a heart attack, lead to a stroke of paralysis or apoplexy, result in the loss of sight or hearing, or bring on a nervous breakdown that may end in insanity! Among mothers, it is the outstanding cause of stillborn, deformed and feeble-minded babies.

Many infected innocently!

Bear in mind that many cases of syphilis are contracted innocently. A husband who has become infected may give the disease to his wife. It may be passed from one person to another by kissing, or by means of contaminated drinking cups, towels, eating utensils, cigarettes, etc.!

Considering that an examination for venereal diseases costs little, takes only a short time and causes no discomfort, don't continue to guess as to whether you are free from gonorrhea and syphilis. Instead, make up your mind to consult your family physician—or the Public Health Institute—at the earliest opportunity! If by any chance you are found to be infected, modern methods of treatment virtually assure you of a cure provided you haven't delayed too long.

For 18 years the Public Health Institute has been specializing in gonorrhea and syphilis. Those who visit it receive the benefit of the experience gained in giving almost 5 million examinations and treatments for venereal infections!

The Public Health Institute is noted for its friendly, sympathetic men and women physicians, and for its arrangements for privacy. Every patient is attended in a private room, and to avoid embarrassment is identified by number instead of by name.

Examination costs $3.00

Organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, the Public Health Institute puts specialized venereal disease treatment within the reach of those with limited incomes. A thorough examination for gonorrhea and syphilis, including blood tests, urinalysis and smears, costs only $3.00, while some treatments for syphilis cost as little as $1.00 and some of those for gonorrhea still less!

Hence there is no reason why any man or woman should continue to guess as to whether he or she has gonorrhea or syphilis. For not only can a dependable examination be obtained confidentially, conveniently and economically, but even persons temporarily pressed for funds can arrange to be cared for!

NOTE: The Public Health Institute has no connection with any other Chicago health or medical institute, and should not be confused with those operated for personal gain!

ALL 21 ACCUSED WILL BE SHOT, RED PRESS SAYS

Former Soviet Chiefs Face Tribunal Tomorrow.

MOSCOW, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The official soviet press said today that the firing squad awaited the twenty-one fallen Russian leaders who will go before a military tribunal Wednesday.

The newspapers Pravda, Izvestia, and Red Star, organs of the communist party, the government, and the army respectively, all denounced the prisoners as "beasts" and "spies" and said nothing could save them.

Izvestia indicated that past trials such as that of the famous journalist, Karl Radek, had disclosed only a part of the conspirators' crimes, but that a detailed exposé would be made in the forthcoming trial.

Bukharin Blamed for Much.

The press was particularly bitter against Nikolai Bukharin, former editor of Izvestia and Pravda, whose name was linked with that of Leon Trotzky as a leader of the alleged conspiracy.

Included among those involved with Bukharin were Alexis I. Rykov, former president of the council of commissars—or prime minister—who succeeded Nikolai Lenin, and five former commissars or cabinet ministers. Bukharin had been the official chronicler of the Red revolution.

"Trotzky and Bukharin gathered forces for decades to overthrow the soviet power," Izvestia said. Red Star charged that Bukharin and other alleged traitors stole secret army plans which they sold to Fascist powers.

Accused Will "Pay Dearly."

Pravda said the accused would "pay dearly" for the lives of Maxim Gorky, the famous writer; Vyacheslav Menzhinsky, once head of the secret police, and Valerian V. Kuibishev, chief of the first five-year plan. The deaths of these three, previously attributed to natural causes, were in part the basis of murder-treason charges on which the accused will be tried.

United States Ambassador Joseph E. Davies, who recently was shifted from Moscow to Brussels, was expected to follow the trial with unusual interest since two of the defendants, N. N. Krestinsky, former assistant foreign commissar, and A. P. Rosenglotz, once commissar of foreign trade, were his only official hosts while he was in Moscow. Mrs. Davies and Krestinsky's wife were regarded as close friends.

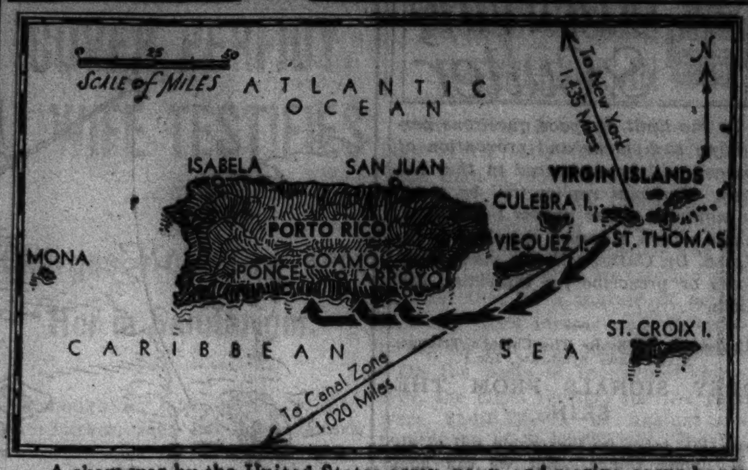
Porto Rico Awaits Attack by "Enemy"



A sham war by the United States army, navy, and marine corps began in the Caribbean sea last night. Warships of the "enemy" force assembled secretly to attack the southern coast of Porto Rico some time before Friday. They sailed from their base at St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, and sped for Porto Rico as indicated by arrows. Troops, mobilized along the southern coast of the island, awaited the "enemy's" approach. They will resist an attempt to land.

Radio Silent

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Feb. 28.—Somewhere in the Caribbean sea tonight there was a rendezvous of the "blue" or "enemy" force that will attack the southern coast of Porto Rico before Friday in the United States war maneuvers. The attacking force is using St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, as a base. Radio communication from ships of the "enemy" force ceased at 8 p. m.

Based at Coamo Springs, about ten miles inland from Porto Rico's southern coast, is the headquarters of the "white" or defending army. Troops are scattered from Penuelas to Arroyo on a thirty mile front. They are alert to detect the "enemy's" approach. The Porto Rican national guard regiments complete the front line defense.

Besides the guardsmen the defense forces are the 65th infantry stationed at Coamo Springs, a coast guard cutter, a destroyer unit, marine scouting planes, and navy patrol planes from the Canal Zone.

Lieut. Col. James Roosevelt reported to Brig. Gen. R. P. Williams aboard the battleship New York in St. Thomas harbor this afternoon. He is a reserve officer in the marine corps.

Some sales manager who's on his toes will be hiring this fellow Cupid. He worked so hard overcoming the handicap of a short working month made shorter by two major holidays that the curve on his business chart went up, instead of down. U. S. AIRCRAFT IS LAGGING, SAYS GLENN L. MARTIN

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Congress received a warning today from Glenn L. Martin, pioneer airplane manufacturer, that the United States was not keeping up with the development of aircraft as well as the national defense required.

Testifying at hearings on the administration's proposal for a 1 billion 50 million dollar expansion of the fleet and a 106 million dollar increase in naval planes, he declared. "We must have supremacy in the air to maintain a line of battleships."

Martin indorsed a suggestion of Chairman Carl Vinson [D., Ga.], of the house naval committee, that congress add from 10 to 15 millions to the naval expansion program for experimental aircraft work.

OFFICIAL STICKS TO COMMUNISTS AND HIS N. Y. JOB

New York, Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Simon W. Gerson, confidential examiner to Borough President Stanley M. Isaacs of Manhattan, declared today that he still was a member of the communist party and had no intention of resigning from it.

Mr. Gerson refused to state whether he would resign from Borough President Stanley Isaacs' staf, and Mr. Isaacs refused to say if he would ask Mr. Gerson to quit.

"The Gerson matter is before the courts," Mr. Isaacs said. "I am not going to make any further statement until the court acts."

The appointment of Mr. Gerson, first as assistant to the president and later as confidential examiner to remove a technicality in connection with court ouster action, has been the center of protest.

Mr. Gerson was resworn Feb. 24 as confidential examiner after war veteran, Catholic, and anti-communist groups protested his appointment to the city pay roll by picketing, petitions calling for removal of both Mr. Gerson and Mr. Isaacs, and demands that Gov. Herbert H. Lehman act to remove Mr. Isaacs.

Frustrate Plot to Seize Government in Ecuador

QUITO, Ecuador, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The government announced today it had frustrated a plot to overthrow the régime of Gen. Alberto Enriquez, president since last Oct. 23. Commandant Jorge Quintana, minister of the interior, said the conspiracy was fomented by partisans of a former president, José Maria Velasco Ibarra, who would have been restored to the presidency had the coup succeeded. Velasco was ousted in 1935 after an attempt to proclaim a dictatorship.

THE LAST OF THE RED REVOLUTIONARIES.

Stalin is ready for the final liquidation of the Red revolution of twenty years ago. Twenty-one victims will go to trial tomorrow before the military tribunal of the Supreme court. If it is a public trial, the indictments will be based on confessions. If there are no confessions, the hearings probably will be secret. The most notable of the accused are Nikolai Bukharin, the great theoretician of the communist party, Alexis Rykov, who was Lenin's prime minister, and Yagoda, who until less than a year ago was head of the OGPU. A new charge is that the conspirators killed Maxim Gorky in 1936, and also a former head of the secret police in 1934 and the chief of the first five year plan in 1935.

The execution of Bukharin, who was thought to have been done away with months ago, and of Rykov will complete the extermination of Lenin's original political committee, Trotzky, the lone exception, being in dangerous exile in Mexico, where, in spite of Mexican police vigilance, his friends fear for his safety. There will be no one remaining of the government under Lenin or of the government as it continued up until the new terror except Stalin and a few commissars such as Litvinov of the foreign department and Voroshilov of the war office, who never had a place in the governing bureau of the party. Stalin as Robespierre alone remains.

Rykov and Bukharin were arrested a year ago following the January trials, the last which were held in public, although the executions continued throughout the year. The principal men of revolution have been destroyed, including all of Lenin's closest associates and old commissars. The eight generals who commanded the army were executed, the chief of the secret police is to be executed, and the number of technicians, workers, and peasants handed over to the firing squad is beyond knowledge or calculation.

The story the world is asked to believe is that Stalin discovered what amounted to the entire government of Russia in conspiracy against itself, seeking to bring in Germans, Japanese, and capitalists and thereby cause the partition of Russia and the destruction of communism. The Stalin exhibit of terrorism inspired by these alleged conspirators presents one case, that of the man Kirov, who was assassinated by a group of youthful fanatics for reasons which have never been discovered.

It must be apparent if there was a conspiracy against Stalin involving all the old commissars, the head of the secret police, the generals in command of the army, the admirals, and most of the men in diplomatic service, that conspiracy with its control of all these forces would have had no difficulty in disposing of the one man who has survived the revolution, Stalin himself. He would have been put out of the way. The extent of the conspiracy alleged, the power and position of the men accused would insure its success, not its failure.

Announcement was made last week of the execution of Vladimir Orloff, the last of the four undersecretaries of war, who included Marshal Tukhachevsky, shot last June; Marshal Gamarnik, a suicide, and Gen. Alksnis, father of Russian aviation, who has disappeared and is reported to have gone the way of Orloff without announcement of his fate. In Litvinov's foreign department the dead include the ambassador to Berlin, the ambassador to Warsaw, the ambassador to Turkey, the minister to Latvia, the minister to Lithuania, and the well known Leo Karahkan. One of the men included with Karahkan was Avel Yenukidze, whose fate peculiarly illustrates Stalin's remorelessness and ferocity. He and Stalin had been fellow revolutionaries in youth. He was a boyhood friend of the dictator and they had been exiled in Siberia together. He had once been the secretary of the executive committee of the party, one of the most important men in the union. Stalin first demoted him, then degraded him, and then shot him.

The culminating spectacle of the Russian terror will be given to the world with a demonic stagecraft which will serve to shock Russia's uneasy military allies and give them a profound sense of the unreality of life in the soviet union and of the unreliability of any assistance which this tortured land could be expected to offer on the checkerboard of European and Asiatic affairs.

Stalin's timing is a masterpiece of the inopportune. Russia arises as a nightmare not for Germany, Italy, and Japan, its enemies, but for France and Czechoslovakia, its friends in distress. Not a tenth of the Russian terror is known, but the terrible catalog of names of the dead who in their day were also mass terrorists, is enough. Stalin's crowning service to the realism of the revolution would be to take the mummified body of Lenin from its shrine and have his stooges kick it about the streets.

SENATOR DIETERICH RETIRES.

Senator William H. Dieterich of Illinois is not a candidate for reëlection. He concedes the strength of the other Democratic candidates, Congressman Lucas of Havana and United States District Attorney Igoe of Chicago. He withdraws and leaves the nomination to one of the other two. The senator's disappointment must be great. He serves a term and finds that he is not wanted. It is a natural ambition for a man reaching the United States senate to desire to remain there.

Senator Dieterich was not good at reading his own state and he may now reflect on that. His own party in Illinois could not support the packing of the Supreme court. The people of the state were strongly opposed to it, offended by the proposal and against the men who supported it. The senator not only made himself a partisan of the design against the court but he did some petty political trading for patronage in connection with it which would put any candidate in a bad light.

Democratic senators who did not support the court packing proposal were put on notice that the federal organization would make them pay for this hardihood and independence whenever and wherever they were candidates for reëlection. Senator Dieterich was not on the list of the condemned. He is the self-acknowledged victim of his own mistake in judgment.

PERSONNEL FOR THE MERCHANT MARINE.

In one short article, published in THE TRIBUNE of Feb. 21, William Fulton of THE TRIBUNE staf in New York has concentrated all the essential information respecting the labor situation in the American merchant marine gathered in all the strike news and all the testimony before the senate committee.

Whatever the immediate causes of the troubles which have done so much damage in this national interest, the basic fact is that the quality of our merchant sailors is too low to permit of successful operation of such ships as we have. How much more difficult to safely or profitably expand our present merchant fleet!

It should be obvious that the building up of a merchant navy is not an affair of mere shipbuilding but the creation of a class of seamen. On modern ships these seamen must be skilled to operate machinery, and they must be responsible men. If living quarters on ships are inferior, that can and should be regulated by law. The food question, too, it should be simple to answer, for steamship companies buy in large quantities and cooking facilities on shipboard constitute no problem.

A simple method of officering a merchant marine would be through certificates furnished to seamen of the navy who have acquired training and experience and have retired. The breaking in of youngsters will not be difficult once a caddie of officers and engineers has been formed, and once the contaminating element of communists and convicts has been weeded out.

POLICE CO-OPERATION.

Police officials of the north shore towns are showing commendable enterprise in developing coöperation which should make the apprehension of criminals more prompt and certain. The latest suggestion, proposed at a conference of police chiefs in Evanston, is for the adoption of a system of teletype communication which will certainly accelerate combined action over the region of a crime or escape. What can be accomplished by a prompt blockade of roads has been demonstrated on several occasions and the north shore police could not do better than to perfect their plans for systematic speedy intercommunication. Another meeting to be held March 9 will consider the financial requirements of the teletype installation and it is to be hoped the towns will consider favorably this new step favored in police efficiency.

The mobility given the criminal, especially the gangster or professional, by the automobile seriously enlarged the responsibility of law officers, but it can be largely offset by coöperation and the intelligent use of the new resources of communication.

THE INSANITY RACKET.

[Peoria Journal-Transcript.]

Insanity is too frequently a convenient means of escaping punishment for crime. Criminals judged irresponsible because of insanity are properly committed to asylums instead of to prisons, but there have been many instances of premature release from these institutions for the insane.

In New York an investigating reporter found the asylums serve as hideouts for criminals. The newsman simulated insanity and easily secured commitment to a mental institution. He was not finger printed and his past was not investigated. After two weeks he obtained his release on the promise to go to a private asylum. He is convinced that many criminals follow the same procedure when police are hot on their trail.

Chicago authorities are perturbed over the case of John Harbut, a robber with a record. Harbut was arrested in 1933 in connection with 40 robberies, but escaped the penitentiary when psychiatrists declared him insane and sent him to the Illinois Security hospital. In 1936 he was reëxamined, found sane, and released. Now he is in custody again, charged with another series of crimes.

Several eminent psychiatrists assert that complete recovery from Harbut's ailment is unusual and that patients usually get worse, not better. Dr. Harold S. Hulbert says in addition: "One of the major difficulties with our state institutions for the insane is that when a patient improves sufficiently to get along well in the institution he is released. In most cases he has not improved sufficiently to get along with society outside the institution."

A tightening of procedure in the handling of the insane is indicated. All the insane should be carefully investigated if only as a guide to treatment. As for the release of those with known criminal tendencies, society should always have the benefit of the doubt.

GOOD PROSPECTS.

"Is this your advertisment in the paper for the recovery of a black and tan terrier?" a gentleman asked his friend.

"Yes," was the reply.

"But you never had a dog to lose!"

"I know," said the advertiser; "but I want one now, and I think I can make a good choice from the animals that will be brought to me!"—Exchange.

CHICAGO'S UNUSUAL WINDINESS the last few days is probably extra verification for big, handsome Swedish Dr. Gustav Munthe, curator of an arts and crafts museum in Gothenburg, now in Chicago, that this really is Chicago. Dr. Munthe was in Chicago during the World's Fair, and dined on the Tavern roof one night with Inez Cunningham Starke. That night a hurricane had swept through the western suburbs and the tail of it lashed across the town. Chairs and hats and dishes were swept from the club roof and even the table top—Mrs. Starke's dinner was for twelve, and an extra top had been put on the table—sailed over the balcony. Dr. Munthe drew the two women nearest him to the wall for protection, and it, too, swayed in the wind, with terrifying mobility. The Swedish visitor produced his pocket comb, rearranged his hair, and questioned innocently, "This is your typical Chicago weather?"

The same edition, in its woman's page, printed a recipe Martinelli recommends, ". . . calves' liver, sweetbread, brain, asparagus, slices of artichoke, banana, and apple—all fried in olive oil. . . ." [Spotted by Bob Snyder.]

THE RATHER HEAVY SET, BLUE EYED man with a mop of white hair you might have seen about town over the week-end was Carl Milles, the famous sculptor. He visited with his compatriot, Tage Palm; ate luncheon with friends, told some amusing stories about the row in St. Louis over his most recent sculpture, and returned to his school, Cranbrook, just outside of Detroit.

AND THE SLENDER, DARK EYED, nervous man, with somewhat elongated, aristocratic mold of countenance who smokes incessantly and drinks quantities of coffee, is Carlos Merida, the Mexican artist. Half Mayan and half pure Spanish, Merida was born in Guatemala, is Mexico's only painter of abstractions. An exhibition of his work is being held this month at Katherine Kuh's gallery.

Advice.

Some guests of L. E. Myers were discussing various problems of old age in his apartment in the Blackstone. A woman guest said she wished she knew how to avoid getting stiff in the joints.

"Stay out of them," remarked another guest.

THE COUNTESS DE VOGUE, pretty, fashionably gowned, who visited the stockyards, admired the Chinese collection at the Art institute and went to tea at the Arts club with Jean Schloesing, young French trade commissioner in Chicago, before departing for California, is a member of one of France's Sixty Families. Her husband's family has provided France with writers and diplomats for generations. It's champagne that engages his attention—he's a director of a famous champagne house.

THE APPEARANCE OF Frederic F. Van de Water's new book, "Rudyard Kipling's Vermont Feud," telling of the quarrel with Kipling's brother-in-law, Beatty Balestier, that drove the British author from America, brings to mind that the characters in the book all have a Chicago connection. Kipling's wife was Miss Caroline Balestier, a granddaughter of a niece of Ellen Marion Kinzie, the first white child born in Chicago. Caroline Wolcott, niece of Ellen Marion Kinzie, met Joseph N. Balestier and married him when she was visiting in Chicago during the 1830s. They settled in Vermont, and their grandson, Wolcott Balestier, became a friend and collaborator of Rudyard Kipling. Wolcott died in London in December, 1891, and in February, 1892, Kipling married his sister Caroline. They came to Vermont to live in the following February. And, according to Mr. Van de Water, would have made their permanent home there had it not been for the quarrel with the younger brother of Wolcott Balestier and Caroline Kipling, Beatty Balestier. Descendants of the John Kinzies—hence also connected with the Balestiers and Mrs. Kipling—still live in Chicago, among them Mrs. Robert E. Havemeyer of Riverside, whose name was Sara Kinzie.

OBEY SIGNALS FROM THE SKIN.

TIME takes its inexorable toll of all living things. But we can hold back the "varmint"—delay and retard its inroads appreciably—if we will adjust ourselves to changing states of the body. In some the heart muscle may have to be spared a bit, watched for indications of weakening under overexertion. With others the digestion—which may have matched that of the proverbial ostrich—may require relief through a modification of diet. Not infrequently stomach glands that have been performing perfectly through 50 or 60 years of life may go on a strike and fail to secrete the necessary hydrochloric acid which sounds the starting gun in the race for the solution [digestion] of food.

As a rule we can accommodate ourselves easily to minor warnings or functional failures. The skin, however, may show one's years more certainly than almost any other structure and one of the first manifestations is the loss of its natural oil. The glands become less productive and their openings may become filled with dust, dirt, even cosmetics. In addition, there is usually an increased growth of hair.

The care of the epidermis, therefore, is vastly more important to all of us after we have passed middle life. So-called "skin foods" are not the answer. No matter how much oil we may anoint ourselves with—it does not stay "put." The circulation picks it up quickly and carries it to other parts where it is subject to the same fate as though it had been swallowed.

In the first place, frequent bathing is essential. Soap should be mild and nonirritating—equal in purity to a good grade of castile. If a fatty cream is used after the bath—and this aids greatly in promoting a softer skin—it should be one which can be wiped off readily—without leaving a greasy appearance.

The entire body surface will demand more oil than normal. Following a thorough cleansing a light massage with sterile olive oil or cocoanut oil, supplemented by the application of a lotion which contains no more than 20 per cent alcohol, will make for a pliable cuticle—far less likely to be subject to blemishes. Furthermore, under this régime, unless a systemic disease exists, there is much less possibility of the absorption of subcutaneous fat and hence the development of wrinkles.

Every one should be alert to the presence of growths—tiny spots, brownish in color, which may come on the backs of the hands, at first resembling freckles but which will be raised slightly. Here again oil will help—in fact, some of them will disappear under this treatment. But if a hard, wartlike affair forms which is obviously increasing in size or thickness, we should seek its removal by a competent physician.

We must not forget that the skin is quite as vital as the digestive tract as a means of eliminating unwanted wastes. We know that whenever the kidneys and the intestinal tract are not working properly the skin is called upon for more than its share of labor as an excretory machine. In consequence it may exhibit signs of irritation—rebellion against abuse. This is why the general health should be kept at par and all organs spared unnecessary work if we wish a clear complexion.

To those who find that some ingredient in soap proves irritating, a handful or two of ordinary cornstarch may be added to the bath, which should be warm—not hot. Occasionally baking soda [a half teacupful] is of equal value. But remember that this is an external application. Starch baths are not only soothing, but allay many sorts of eruptions. After thorough drying a light coating of oil completes the process. Dusting with some sterile powder is helpful in protecting the skin from clothing, sun, and wind.

Finally we must not forget the virtues of massage, particularly about the neck, face, and the lower jaw. The more we can stimulate circulation the better, and gentle kneading and stroking for 10 to 15 minutes twice daily will bring added blood into the areas.

MAY DEVELOP GANGRENE.

C. H. F. writes: If an ear is frozen does it drop off like an icicle when touched, or thaw out by itself in time, or become useless?

REPLY.

If left alone in an above freezing atmosphere, it will thaw out by itself. The final result, however, may not be a happy one. Destroyed blood vessels may not reform and gangrene may appear in a portion of the structure. Frostbite deserves prompt attention to avoid permanent loss of tissue. Send a stamped, addressed envelope for leaflet on this malady.

BE EXAMINED FIRST.

P. A. T. writes: I am extremely nervous, to the point that I am afraid to go anywhere. In company I cannot even pick up a cup of coffee without my hands shaking. What can I do to overcome this?

REPLY.

First, you need a physical examination by a competent neurologist to make certain that there is no organic disease. This may be followed by a course in mental hygiene or the correction of the basic difficulty. Perhaps fatigue is the cause of your symptoms.

WATER LEAKAGE.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—[Friend of the People.]—The building we occupy has a water leakage which permits water to come in the basement through the wall and now it is coming through the cement floor. The landlady doesn't seem to care, otherwise she would have it fixed. When we take water from the sink it has dirt in it. Could you let me know where I could report this so that she could fix that pipe? A. B.

One of our inspectors was assigned to investigate and his report of conditions resulted in the following notice being served upon the owner of the property: "Repair leaking water supply pipe. Abate nuisance of water flooding cellar."

A reinspection made shortly after this order was issued revealed that it had been complied with.

WHAT'S WRONG AT CHESTER?

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 18.—I have read your editorial of Feb. 17 headed "What's Wrong at Chester?"

I wish to say that the escape of Harrison and Florek from the Illinois Security hospital has not been taken by the management with "considerable resignation." The best evidence of my denial of this charge is that the hunt for these two men has been so close and so well conducted that they were unable to get outside the town of Chester and were captured in their hiding place this afternoon as a result of the vigilance of our finger print man at the Menard prison, who found Florek's prints on a milk bottle he had left empty in a Chester store he had entered for food.

It is not easy to escape from this institution, but I wish to call the public's attention to the fact that it is not a penal institution. It is a civil state hospital for the care of mental cases. It was so classified and so organized by an act of the general assembly in 1933.

You state that "the 'key' story may or may not prove to be true." There is no doubt about the truth of this story. The key was found in the lock of the door through which these two men escaped. There was no obvious slackness on the part of any one, and the escape of these two men does not smell of incompetence. If there had been anything worse than incompetence the organization of the pursuit would not have been so perfect and unrelenting and so prompt that the two men could not get outside the community.

There is another false notion at large: Florek is a simple case of feeble-mindedness. In no wise is he a dangerous man nor has he ever been a dangerous man. The Cook County court committed him to the Lincoln colony for feeble-minded and we transferred him to the Illinois Security hospital because of his penchant for escaping.

Harrison has been in this institution for four or five years and during all of the time he has been here he has shown no homicidal tendencies. It would be difficult to say that he has shown any symptoms of mental disorder. We have seen nothing in his conduct or behavior that could characterize him as a "madman." We have understood the nature of his offense and have guarded him carefully and closely. We have no authority to transfer him to a prison; consequently, the Illinois Security hospital is the strongest institution in our state in which to hold him. He was committed to that institution by a court in Cook county. At the time he may have been a violent man, but at our institution he has shown no symptoms.

I have talked with him since his return. His conversation was rational, coherent and logical. His purpose, he told me, was to swim the river, make his way to Memphis, recross the river, and travel to his mother's home in North Carolina. There he expected to be picked up, but it would have been worth the effort to see his mother. He has no hostility toward his former wife or Dr. Harry Hoffman, and had no intention of going to Chicago. When I asked him why he had not taken a boat to cross the river, or an automobile from the barn in which he hid, he replied that he did not intend to commit any crime to reach his mother and had no desire to take any man's property. Evidently he was sincere for he had the best of opportunities to steal the boat or the automobile, yet did not do so.

INSURANCE COMPLAINT.

CONTRAST.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—One of the principal reasons Col. Lindbergh is idolized by millions is his steadfast refusal to capitalize his flight across the Atlantic.

Contrast this man of fine ideals to Mr. Roosevelt, who autographed books which were forced upon various corporations at $250 a copy, in order to raise money with which to solicit votes for his own election. Now Mr. Roosevelt sees fit to sell notes, speeches and state papers for the reported sum of $175,000.

Whatever may be said of his predecessors, they at least considered $75,000 a year sufficient pay and refused to sell any speeches and articles until after they had returned to the status of an average citizen.

Now that the President's son, Jimmy, has cashed in, and the President himself has garnered a few extra thousands, I wonder who will be next. Mrs. Roosevelt, of course, has been making hay for some years now. Secretary Hull might dig up a few choice articles which would have a ready market in Europe, or perhaps, Mr. Morgenthau could sell a few articles on "The Art of Deficit Financing."

With 12 million unemployed and a third of our population ill fed, ill clothed and ill housed, it is to be hoped that in the next election the voters will indicate, among other things, that the "Let Them Eat Cake" reasoning of Marie Antoinette is decidedly not the reasoning to be used by the executive head of the government of the United States.

WIFE BEATING AND FOREIGN POLICY.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—"Citizen's" letter in this morning's TRIBUNE refers to the "splendid examples of American manhood" who stood by while a "tall and robust" man beat his "small and sickly looking" wife.

Is not the character of a nation only the summation of the character of its citizens, and has not the American nation almost unanimously elected to stand by while robust nations rob and beat their sickly neighbors? Why then this surprise and lamentation that its citizens do likewise? ANOTHER CITIZEN.

From Across the Sea

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—A new interservice feud is brewing between the British army and the air force. As does the navy, the army wants control of its own airplanes. The navy won that point last year, and the army is about to begin a fight for it.

Whatever its advantages in wartime, the separate air force has been a rich source of bickering and argument in peacetime.

After a long and bitter fight navy men succeeded last year in persuading parliament they should have full control of the fleet air arm. Flyers without naval training, they argued, could not give the fleet efficient coöperation.

Now the army is taking the same line, but the air council is determined to block the fight if possible.

There is no question of doing away with the royal air force. The army simply wants full control of the seven "army coöperation" squadrons intended to work in liaison with ground forces. The air force, however, is jealous of losing even that amount of control.

Army officers serving with the R. A. F. all are in one of those seven squadrons, once their training is completed. They hold an air force rank separate from their army rank while on flying duty, and so far none of them has been promoted above squadron leader—the rank of major. Only two have gotten that far.

That, say army men, is evidence of efforts to keep them down. The army insists it must have at least one officer of the rank of wing commander [lieutenant colonel] or group captain [colonel]. Even before the R. A. F. gave up control of the fleet air arm naval officers serving with it were promoted to as high as wing commander.

The army wants all the army coöperation squadrons under army officers. It points out that events in Spain and China have shown that the value of aircraft lies primarily in coöperation with infantry and other ground forces, except for long distance bombing.

No amount of flying training, the army believes, will give an officer the practical knowledge of ground operations necessary for efficient coöperation.

At present there are only 52 army officers serving with the R. A. F. Two of them command two of the coöperation squadrons, but the army will not be satisfied until its men command at least all the squadrons specifically intended for coöperation.

The air force will not give in easily, but army men are hopeful that the end of the year will see them in full control at least of the pocket air force.

That would mean three separate fighting air forces, and again the British are beginning to wonder about the wisdom of the "third service" idea.

BALI FUN LOVING AND RELIGIOUS, TRAVELER FINDS

Open Air Temples Abound on Little Island.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DEN PASAR, Bali, Dutch East Indies [By Air Mail.]—An observation drive around the island of Bali reveals numerous points of interest, beautiful scenery, and gives an insight of the habits and customs of the inhabitants.

The natives are a peaceful, fun loving and religious race. The place is covered with temples where the people gather to worship their Hindu deity. All the temples are constructed on similar lines of open air design. They are simply two, or sometimes three, rectangular plots about 100 feet by 150 in dimension, surrounded by a stone wall eight feet high.

Figured Towers at Entrance.

Usually the first tier is several feet above the outside ground level and the second one six or eight feet above the first. The floors are level and earthen or grass covered. The entrance and connecting steps are flanked by towers twenty feet high and decorated with all kinds of grotesque figures. The walls also are topped with queer little figures of men and animals spaced twelve or fourteen feet apart.

At the rear of the last enclosure is a tower containing a small bench where worshipers deposit their offering—usually some food or flowers. There are no graveyards in connection with the places of worship. The Balinese practice cremation and toss the ashes to the sea.

A funeral is a spectacular event. For seven days the corpse lies in state while preparations are made for the fire. The prominence of the deceased determines the gaudiness of the pyre.

Funeral Pyre Brightly Adorned.

One seen under construction consisted of two pyramids fifteen feet high and eight feet square at the bottom and the bases three feet apart. They were made of bamboo frames covered with colored cloth and gilded paper. Every color and design was included. Scores of natives act as pallbearers in escorting the ashes to the sea.

A few minutes after observing the cremation preparations, the cab driver, who does not speak English, stops beside a dense forest of large banyan trees and starts yelling exactly like a Missouri hog caller. Suspense isn't long. Gray monkeys by the hundred come piling out. A corn and banana stand nearby does a good business. The antics of monkeys are more comical in their native haunts than in zoos or circuses.

Agriculture, wood carving, silver handicraft, pottery making, and silk weaving constitute the main economic activities of the island. There are no large industries or manufacturing interests here. Rice is the major crop but many others are successfully grown. Corn, tobacco, sweet potatoes, tapioca and all vegetables are plentiful.

Cow Gets All Attention.

There are a few ponies and carabaos [water buffaloes] about, but native cattle are supreme. This is a cow's paradise. The fields and roads are full of them. They are rather small in size, about that of the Jersey, and have the grace of a deer. The calves greatly resemble deer with their delicate heads and big forward ears. In color they are like the Guernsey, with white rump and white legs from the knees down.

The native loves his cow. What time it is not working, it usually has the undivided attention of one or more persons, one washing, one hand rubbing and another feeding. All cattle seen were well fed and their coats glistened like silver sun light. They do just enough work to keep them in the pink of condition.

It doesn't seem plausible that cattle should be so well cared for and dogs and pigs left so scrawny and poor they are barely able to get out of the road. The hogs are ghastly. In color and size they resemble the southern mountain ridge-rooter with a horribly exaggerated swayback.

A Feather Duster for Ducks.

Ducks are an amusing adjunct to the animal life of Bali. One attendant, armed with a long fishing pole with a feather on the end, escorts his little flock of forty or fifty out to the fields in the morning and back to the pen at night. If one gets unruly, he gets the feather first and if that doesn't discipline him a whack on the head brings him into line. Cock fighting is a great sport of Bali; therefore chickens are mostly cooped up.

Scene from Bali

Most of the trading in merchandise, as well as food, is done in central markets. Clothes aren't much of a problem. Most of the men and women wear just a skirt around their waist and nothing above. The children go naked and all are barefooted.

The natives are cordial and polite to foreigners and impress one with being unspoiled. A lone foreigner in a native village creates no more interest than any one else.

To the Cool of the Hills.

A trip back into the mountains again furnishes quick relief from the 85 degree heat of the lowlands. Taking a cross road to see more of the interior, one will gain altitude fast. A heavy overcoat is comfortable in a car on mountain trips.

Gorgeous scenery unwinds—clear water lakes, mountain streams, deep narrow gorges, rock cliffs, grass meadows and endless other sights greet the visitor. The coconut gives way to the banyan tree and other hard woods. Hills of ordinary ferns are common.

With the exception of a grass hut instead of a log cabin now and then, the inland mountain country is exactly as that of some sections of the Blue Ridge mountains of the United States.

LOVE LETTERS COVER PERFIDY, WIFE TESTIFIES

Charges Husband Kept Her in Sanitarium.

Although her husband, Dr. A. Mercer Parker, sent her love letters, wordy telegrams, and affectionate Mother's day cards, he kept her in a sanitarium in order to withdraw $85,000 in cash and securities from a joint safety deposit box, Mrs. Lena M. Parker, 2523 Central avenue, Evanston, testified yesterday.

She is suing Dr. Parker, a chiropractor, for the return of the money and property, most of which she alleges he gave her. In counter complaint Dr. Parker has denied "he detained" his wife in a sanitarium and asserted that the $85,000 is rightfully his.

Identifies Letters and Records.

Testimony relating to the love letters was brought out before Master in Chancery Thomas W. Flynn when Attorney Frank E. Cantwell, representing Mrs. Parker, asked her to identify more than forty-six exhibits introduced as evidence. One-third of the exhibits are either letters, telegrams, or cards and the rest certificates of ownership of property involved in the suit and records of stock purchases.

While her eyes filled with tears, Mrs. Parker sighed and answered "It's a love letter," as Attorney Cantwell waved each of the missives before her.

In one of the cards, sent two years after their marriage on July 14, 1928, Dr. Parker confided that he was "still helplessly dippy" about her. One of the birthday cards read: "Although Mr. Edison invented the incandescent lamp on your birthday, it can't hold a candle to you!"

Mixes History and Romance.

On July 14, 1935, Mrs. Parker declared, while she was in the Forest Park sanitarium near Davenport, Ia., his greeting card had a historical touch. "On the anniversary of the fall of the Bastille, I also celebrate the seventh anniversary of the end of my bachelorhood!"

Despite these endearing touches, Mrs. Parker declared, her husband conspired to keep her in the sanitarium following an appendicitis operation in 1934 until Sept. 14, 1935. He meanwhile removed securities and real estate deeds from the bank deposit boxes, she alleges, and has refused to return them. Attorney Francis Healey, representing Dr. Parker, will cross examine Mrs. Parker this morning.

NEW YORK EXPENSES EXCEED INCOME BY 14 MILLIONS IN 1937

New York, Feb. 28.—[Special.]—New York City spent $14,126,255 more than it received in 1937, it was shown in a report by Controler Joseph D. McGoldrick. The controler said that the apparent deficit was entirely a bookkeeping transaction and insisted that as a matter of actual fact the city's income and disbursements for last year were in balance.

On the basis of the report, however, the city's receipts for the year were $1,455,569,070, as against expenditures of $1,469,695,325. The result was, the report showed, that the city's bank balance shrank from $109,729,602 on Jan. 1, 1937, to $95,603,347 the last day of the year.

PASTOR ON TRIAL SECOND TIME ON MORALS CHARGES

Danville, Ill., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—The Rev. William G. McCullom, pastor of the Four Square Gospel tabernacle here, went on trial today for the second time on charges brought by minor girls. The Circuit court room was packed with spectators.

Mildred Miller, 17 years old, to whose delinquency McCullom is accused of contributing testified she had illicit relations with the minister on six occasions. She said he threatened to kill her if she told.

The pastor was acquitted last fall of charges he raped Mildred's sister, Retha, 14 years old. The girls' father is a WPA worker. They were juvenile workers in the tabernacle and were friends of McCullom and his wife. Charges of accessory after the fact of rape were placed against Mrs. McCullom but were later dismissed.

GARBAGE TRAILER COSTS TOO HIGH, HEWITT INSISTS

Explains Why Purchases Have Been Delayed.

Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works, explained yesterday why he has delayed authorizing the purchase of new trailers for garbage and refuse collection, as requested during the last three years by his city street bureau. The reason, he said, is that trailer prices have failed to decline in relation to automobile prices since 1928.

The need for new equipment is being studied, however, he added, and it is hoped that a solution may be worked out soon. Meanwhile, he feels it would be ridiculous to pay more for trailers than was paid in 1928.

1,146 in 15 Years.

Department of public works records show that in the last fifteen years the city has bought 1,146 refuse trailers at a cost of $1,819,905, but more than half of them have been junked because city machinists considered them beyond repair. The last 285 were acquired in 1928.

The street bureau on Saturday had 465 trailers, 86 tractors, 64 city trucks, 118 hired trucks, and 227 teams working on refuse collection.

Mr. Hewitt said cost was his principal objection to the trailers and tractors demonstrated to the street bureau last September. At that time forty manufacturers of trucks trailers, and tractors were asked to describe their models for refuse collection and to demonstrate the effectiveness of this equipment under Chicago labor, supervisory, trafic, and geographical conditions.

Trailers Are Submitted.

The Highway Trailer company and General Motors corporation submitted two wheel trailers to be pulled by "dollies" [tow trucks with a short wheelbase] in alley use and tractors when hauled to the dump. An aldermanic committee on city equipment inspected these two models at the 35th ward yard early this month.

The Highway company asked approximately $1,395 for a trailer and $450 for a dolly, whereas the General Motors representative said that the cost of a refuse trailer had not been reckoned, except that it would be competitive. It was pointed out that with correct timing between collection and transportation units, one dolly was needed for every two trailers.

Table of Costs.

Mr. Hewitt compiled the following table to show the total and average cost of trailers purchased by the city since 1923:

Year—	Number.	Cost.	Average.
1924	79	121,265	1,535
1924	80	127,600	1,595
1925	190	303,050	1,595
1926	370	645,650	1,745
1927	60	42,200	870
1928	285	456,575	1,595
Total	1,146	$1,819,905	$1,579

Mr. Hewitt was unable to find the specifications for these trailers, but he found that all purchases made after 1924 were Highway company trailers.

Compares Prices.

"I would like to answer several questions before making any recommendations on trailers," said Mr. Hewitt. "The price on motor cars is lower than in 1926 and 1928. Why shouldn't it be lower on trailers, which, without any power, are no more than wagons.

"If $1,595 was a reasonable price for a four-wheeled highway trailer in 1928, why not expect a lower price now? A trailer with only rear wheels, now $1,395, needs the wheels of a dolly, which costs $450, to be movable. With a dolly for every two trailers, the average price could be put at $1,620."

Corrosion Is Cited.

The manufacturer's agent, according to Mr. Hewitt, said that the trailers are now of much higher quality and the price is determined by the amount of steel used and not by mass production standards.

Mr. Hewitt said city shop experience had refuted the contention made in the past that the metal used in the trailers was corrosion-proof. The small and large holes eaten through the bodies, he said, was one reason many of the trailers had been junked.

REPEATS CHARGE RELIEF WASTE IS MILLION A MONTH

Relief work is costing Illinois taxpayers $1,000,000 a month more than it should because of the waste incident to administration of relief funds by more than 1,400 individual agencies. This charge was repeated yesterday at a meeting of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission by Thomas E. Courtney, commissioner from De Kalb.

Leo M. Lyons, commissioner of the Chicago Relief administration, said Chicago will have spent all its city funds for relief by the end of April. In order to stretch funds that far, he said, the city council will have to authorize expenditure of general city funds and depend on collection of relief taxes for 1938 to pay back the city treasury. He said the city needs $3,582,932 for relief in March, that $287,951 is available, and that $3,294,981 is needed from the state. Chicago's allotment from the IERC is $1,684,220, leaving the city facing a deficit of $1,610,761 for the month.

W. A. DOUGLASS ESTATE VALUED AT TWO MILLION

The estate of William A. Douglass amounted to $2,022,397, consisting chiefly of stock in Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., a statistical agency, a final accounting to Probate Judge John F. O'Connell disclosed yesterday. Douglass died three years ago at the age of 82. He was district manager for R. G. Dun & Co., predecessor of Dun & Bradstreet, until 1920.

Taxes of $363,322 have been paid on the estate, including $251,351 in federal estate and gift taxes, and $50,000 in state inheritance tax, according to the law firm of Sidley, McPherson, Austin, and Burgess, which filed the report. At the time of Douglass' death the estate was estimated at $400,000.

Most of the estate was left to his widow, Mrs. Lillian M. Douglass, 317 North Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park, and three children. Charitable bequests totaling $25,000 were made to four medical, religious, and educational institutions.

TWIN FEATURE FILM HEARING FLICKERS OUT

A public hearing on double feature motion pictures yesterday before the city council subcommittee on health was adjourned in five minutes when no objection to such programs was raised. Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th], chairman, said he arranged the hearing at the insistence of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers. Another hearing will be held later.

Mrs. Louis L. Perlman, chairman of the movie committee of the parent teacher group, explained it is against the policy of the organization to take part in controversial discussions. Corporation Council Barnet Hodes ruled recently that the city council can outlaw double features if they are shown to be harmful to health.

PAROLEE IS HELD TO GRAND JURY IN COURT DRAMA

In spite of the wails and protests of his mother, wife, and sister, Jerry Skokan, 39 years old, of 4153 Gladys avenue, a paroled convict who was traced by a wrist watch which he lost during a robbery, was held yesterday to the grand jury in bonds of $100,000.

His mother, Agnes Skokan, 58 years old, fainted in his arms as officers started to lead him from Judge Oscar Caplan's Felony court.

Miss Anna Lang, clerk in a grocery at 3700 Armitage avenue, identified Skokan as the robber with whom she scuffled last Friday when he held up the store. He went to Pontiac in 1933 for one to ten years for larceny, was later transferred to Joliet, and was paroled in May, 1935.

TRAFIC DEATHS IN COOK COUNTY DECLINE SHARPLY

Only 52 in February; Far Lower than 1937.

Only fifty-two automobile deaths occurred in Cook county during February, a sharp decrease from 1937, according to figures compiled last night by Coroner Frank J. Walsh. The list was to date up to 5 p. m.

The toll compared with seventy-five victims in the county in February of last year. The record for the month is ninety-nine, established in 1933.

Within forty-five minutes after an auto crashed into the safety island on the northwest corner of Broadway and Catalpa avenue, putting out the base and post lights, three other cars struck the same post.

The first car overturned. Its occupants scrambled out and fled. As the police towed away the wreck, a car driven by Charles Demos, 2711 North Narragansett avenue, hit the unlighted post. In another five minutes Harold Wright, 929 Wilson avenue, drove into the island. Police cleared the street again, just as George Lawler, 2744 Mildred avenue, hit it. None of the drivers was hurt. Lincoln park police finally brought lanterns and wooden forms to block off the space.

Struck by an automobile at Roosevelt road and Hannah avenue in Forest Park on the night of Dec. 2, Martin Warner, 47 years old, a painter, died last night in the County hospital. The driver of the car, Roy Schaumberg of Berwyn, was not held. Warner lived at 1506 Circle avenue, Forest Park.

Robert Hoyce, 27 years old, 857 Oakwood boulevard, employed as a demonstrator in a store, was seriously injured yesterday when he was struck by a high speed hit and run car at Oakwood and Drexel boulevards.

No deaths were reported either in city or county yesterday from automobile accidents for the twenty-four hours that ended at 4 p. m. At that time the toll stood the same as Sunday, 154 in the county and 126 in Chicago, where 2,696 have been injured since Jan. 1.

WPA Force Resumes Work at Airport Without Trouble

Work at the airport was resumed yesterday morning by WPA laborers without further disturbance, said Charles E. Miner, state WPA director. Last week the workers demanded fewer days work a week, with longer daily hours, and an increase in hourly rates of pay. Miner said that no pay changes are contemplated and that the work hours had been adjusted to save carfare for the men.

KENOSHA FINDS 2 OF EVERY 5 LIVE ON PUBLIC PURSE

Tax Collections Dwindle as Relief Load Grows.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kenosha, Wis., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Kenosha, the third industrial city of Wisconsin, situated in one of the richest farming counties of the state, has two of every five of its inhabitants on public relief. Applications for aid are being received now from many persons who weathered the hard days of the first depression, but who have exhausted their resources and have no alternative but public help.

Eric Tillman, chairman of the county board, described the situation several months ago, when conditions were much less severe than at present, by saying one-third of the population was then on relief, and the other two-thirds were being pauperized to care for them.

Direct Relief Covers Most.

Direct relief financed by the county goes to the greatest number of these indigents, with federal W. P. A. projects caring for the next largest group and a county WPA plan caring for many more.

These, with the persons on mothers' pension, blind pension, and a few indirect forms of aid, comprise the 20,000 persons of this city of 50,000 who are dependent on the public for their living.

The slump in industry is the primary reason. Normally 10,000 persons are employed industrially in Kenosha. The January report of the state industrial commission, the latest issued, shows that industrial employment dropped 36.1 per cent from Nov. 1 to Jan. 1. The December industrial pay roll was 41.6 per cent less than in November.

Average Hourly Wage Is High.

A bright spot reported by the industrial commission was that the average hourly wage of those employed was 77 cents, second only to Racine in the state. In average weekly wage, however, Kenosha dropped to 15th place, industrial employés still lucky enough to have employment receiving an average of $23.87 per week.

There are 2,381 cases [a case meaning the family, household or other relief unit] receiving direct relief and the increase is about 30 cases a day. A case averages four or five individuals. There are 2,050 cases employed on federal WPA projects and 1,000 more cases on work projects paid for by the county and designated county WPA projects.

Many of those who have been able to work have about exhausted their resources caring for those unable to get jobs. Only about half have been able to pay their taxes on time. The city and county levy for this year was $2,188,000, and up to yesterday, with one more day in which taxes may be paid without a penalty, only $1,200,000 had been collected.

Tax Income Drying Up.

Property taxes are paid to the city treasurer, who on March first keeps out the city's share, gives the county the next bite out of the total, and the state for its taxes gets what is left. Indications today were that the city would not collect enough for itself and there would be nothing left for the county or the state.

Two county bond issues were sufficient to weather the depression of 1932. So far in this period of distress there have been 13, the last for $400,000 having been sold a week ago. There are $421,000 in bond maturities which must be paid this year or refinanced, and there is a debt margin of only $350,000 before the county will reach the constitutional limit of 5 per cent of the appraised valuation of general property.

County officials estimate the relief need alone will be $400,000 by July 1. In 1937 direct relief cost the county $480,000 and the federal government spent $1,500,000 in wages in the county on WPA work.

About 70 Per Cent for Relief.

Thirty-six cents of each Kenosha tax dollar, if and when collected, is alloted for relief. The next 34 cents goes for debts, many of which were contracted to pay for past relief. The remaining 30 cents of the tax dollar pays for law enforcement, fire protection, courts and education. With only 50 cents of each tax dollar coming in, city and county officials have about exhausted their ingenuity in finding money to keep things going.

Social life is reported in the doldrums. Public dances, a popular local form of amusement, attract only one-third of the attendance they did a year ago. Retail sales reflect the current unemployment. Theaters show pictures to many empty seats.

WPA WORKERS STRIKE FOR WAGE INCREASE; DEMAND 55C AN HOUR

International Falls, Minn., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Three hundred WPA workers in International Falls and Koochiching county refused to go to work this morning on various projects and presented a strike demand for 55 cents an hour instead of the prevailing wage of 44 cents in the city and 40 cents in the county. In adjoining St. Louis county WPA workers are paid 68 cents an hour. Strike leaders said the men would not return to work until their pay is increased without compromise.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

The New Farm Law.

Feb. 28, 1938.

MORE than a million farmers in various parts of the country will be affected by the new farm law as it applies to wheat. In writing the law, known as the Agricultural Adjustment act of 1938, congress took the position that wheat is a basic source of food for the nation, and is sold on the country-wide market either as wheat or flour, moving almost entirely across state lines. Some goes into foreign countries. For this reason it was not found necessary to divide the wheat producing area of the United States into commercial and noncommercial zones as was done in the case of corn. Winter and spring wheat belts combined cover forty states, as indicated on the accompanying map.

40 STATES AFFECTED.

Here are the forty wheat states affected by the new farm law and the average number of acres of wheat produced in these states from 1928 to 1932, totaling nearly 60 million acres:

Maine	2	No. Carolina	339
New York	239	So. Carolina	55
New Jersey	52	Georgia	51
Pennsylvania	956	Kentucky	212
Ohio	1,468	Tennessee	263
Indiana	1,461	Alabama	3
Illinois	1,845	Arkansas	24
Michigan	739	Oklahoma	4,299
Wisconsin	98	Texas	3,322
Minnesota	1,408	Montana	3,857
Iowa	390	Idaho	1,186
Missouri	1,478	Wyoming	309
North Dakota	9,620	Colorado	1,340
South Dakota	3,559	New Mexico	326
Nebraska	3,426	Arizona	25
Kansas	12,062	Utah	263
Delaware	97	Nevada	15
Maryland	453	Washington	2,307
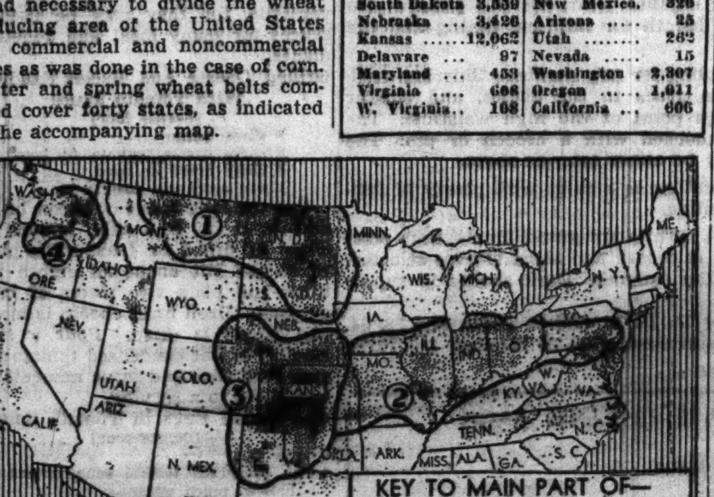
W. Virginia	108	California	606



Black dots indicate where wheat is grown in forty states by more than a million farmers affected by the wheat provisions of the new farm law.

Last year approximately 666 million bushels of wheat were raised on about 63½ million acres harvested in the country. Every farmer who raises wheat is to be included in the new AAA wheat program.

As in the case of corn, all wheat growers will be divided into two groups—coöperators and noncoöperators. The coöperators are those who plant crops and follow practices according to instructions from the central government AAA headquarters in Washington. These coöperators are then eligible for direct payments from the government and also for federal loans on wheat.

No Co-operation, No Subsidy.

Wheat growers who do not coöperate by planting crops and adopting practices approved by the government will not be paid subsidy checks. They will not be eligible for loans on wheat excepting when compelled to do their share under the federal marketing quota plan of limiting the amount of wheat sold.

Government loans on wheat, provided in the law, are said to be for the purpose of pegging the price of the grain at an artificially high level. The goal is to assist farmers in raising wheat prices, as nearly as practicable, to parity level. Parity in the case of wheat is considered that price for wheat that would give the grower a purchasing power in nonagricultural goods equivalent to the purchasing power of wheat from August, 1909, to July, 1914.

When marketing quotas are put into effect by the secretary of agriculture practically every wheat grower in the nation will be subject to the provisions of the law. Each farmer who raises at least 100 bushels of wheat will be told how much he can sell.

The marketing quota plan likely will not be put into effect on wheat this year. After this year the plan will be used when the total supply of wheat exceeds the normal year's domestic consumption and export needs by more than 35 per cent.

Definition of Terms.

To fully understand the intricacies of the AAA wheat program, farmers must learn the definitions of terms used in the law. The term total supply is the carryover of wheat plus the estimated production of the crop during the calendar year in which the marketing year begins. The marketing year for wheat begins July 1 and ends June 30.

Normal year's domestic consumption for wheat is figured on a basis similar to that for corn—the yearly average quantity of wheat, wherever produced, that was consumed in this country during the ten preceding marketing years. Adjustments are made for current consumption trends.

A normal year's exports of wheat is the yearly average amount of wheat, grown in the United States, exported during the ten preceding years. Adjustments are made for current export trends.

The normal supply of wheat is defined in the law as the normal year's domestic consumption and exports plus 15 per cent as an allowance for a normal carryover.

The normal yield of wheat for any farm is considered the average yield per acre, with adjustments made for abnormal weather and yield trends, during the preceding ten years.

Modern Age Finds Lavender Still Popular

It is interesting, in an era of sophisticated tastes, to notice how lavender scents increase in popularity. We learned the other day that lavender perfume, toilet waters, soaps, etc., are enjoying a vogue far exceeding that of the era with which the particular scent is associated.

The very name of lavender conjures up visions of winding lanes, quaint flower beds, and high hedgerows. Its association is English, somehow, no doubt because back in the old days when London was but a small town, the lavender venders would come in from the countryside to sell their fragrant product, cut from cottage gardens. A wealth of charming tradition lies in English lavender. Dickens, you may remember, when Copperfield entertained the Macawbers, provided Mrs. Macawber with two wax candles, a paper of pins, a pincushion, and a bottle of lavender water.

The oldest historical record of the lavender flower is in the 12th century, when it was used for medicinal purposes. However, it is believed that it was used by the Romans to perfume the baths for which they were so famous, thus acquiring its name from the Latin "lavare," to bathe.

The leaves and flowers, when dry, retain their scent longer than any other known plant, hence the general use in the household for perfuming linen closets, bureau drawers, and as a moth preventive. The flower yields a yellowish aromatic oil and the stems and leaves also are used in distilling this oil. About 70 pounds of lavender flowers yield one pound of oil. The spirits distilled from lavender were known as "play drops" in the nineties, and the ladies of that era who swooned were always given lavender water to revive them. This lavender water was a much weaker product than the finely distilled and blended lavender perfume of today.

Today's lavender retains all the freshness and delicacy of the original product, but it has gone beyond the simple, unsophisticated essence of bygone days. It has been refined, beautifully blended with other fine odors, which, no doubt, explains its continued popularity in the face of so many, many rivals.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The welcome invention of cosmetic fitted bags has done a great deal to bring order out of chaos where the contents of women's pocketbooks are concerned. They're increasingly popular; at the rate women are clamoring for them it does seem that the possessor of a messy, jammed bag will soon be a social outcast.

One of the newest and smartest of the cosmetic fitted bags is called the cocktail bag because it's dressy enough for afternoon parties as well as being perfect for street wear. The Chicago shops have these in black patent, black calf, and in russet calf. More colors are to come, including some stunning pastels in patent lether.

This isn't like any bag you've ever seen before. Closed, it's a sleek, flat rectangle. Open, it's a miraculously compact treasure house of beauty necessities. It swings open into three sections, the two front flaps operating on hinges. Sides and center section are fitted with mirrors, which means that instead of a single you have a triple mirror to help you touch up your face and smooth your hair. And having that profile view is a great help!

Inside it, snugly packed in various pockets, you will find a stunning gold ridged compact for loose powder, a matching lipstick, and a vial of delightful perfume. Another compartment holds a comb, and in one of the side sections is a pocket that will hold a package of cigarets. In addition to all these ingenius fittings there are pockets for change and handkerchief and a flat zippered compartment for odds and ends. But the bag, as we've said before, is sleek and flat, with nary a bulge anywhere. You've space for everything and everything in its place—and a stunning bag to boot.

The cosmetic fitted bag is a treasure for the woman who prides herself on a good looking, orderly and perfectly equipped pocketbook. One of the newest has a triple mirror that affords a full view of the profile, as well as makeup accessories and perfume.

The Housewife

Oiled silk products have made a place for themselves in the modern kitchen. They are no longer costly to possess and they are as full of tricks as a magician's bag.

Oiled silk bags zip on over your bread to keep it fresh, they protect your mixing machine when it's not in use, they slip on over a bowl to prevent splashing when you use the egg beater, they cover the tops of milk bottles and of small dishes in which leftovers are kept in the ice box.

Martinelli to Mark His 25th Year with Metropolitan Opera

New York, Feb. 28.—[Special.]—The twenty-fifth season of Giovanni Martinelli's association with the Metropolitan will be observed Sunday evening, March 20, at the opera house with a special performance. Leading members of the company will take part, and scenes and acts from various operas will be performed.

There was assurance from the Metropolitan today that Mr. Martinelli would take part in his own jubilee. It is expected that the excerpts will include operas in which the tenor has appeared most successfully, and Mr. Martinelli will probably sing in most of them.

The proceeds will go to the fund for maintaining Metropolitan opera. The artists who will take part will donate their services.

Emma Calder Makes Recital Gigantic Task

BY CECIL SMITH.

Emma Calder, soprano, outlined a tremendous program for her Kimball hall recital last night. A decade or more ago Florence Easton was reckoned a phenomenally versatile artist when she sang in both "Faust" and "Tristan and Isolde" at the Metropolitan opera in the same week. Yet in a single evening Miss Calder undertook to cope with the vocal and stylistic problems of "Vissi d'arte" from "Tosca," the love-death from "Tristan and Isolde," "Depuis le jour" from "Louise," and the "Blue Danube" waltz. Then for good measure she threw in a generous selection of Italian, French, and American songs.

It would be fun to report that Miss Calder was triumphantly successful in this Gargantuan adventure. Unfortunately I must stick to the facts and chide the young and attractive singer for her poor judgment in striking out so far beyond her depth.

A few years hence she may be able to sing this very program with mastery. The natural beauty, power, and expressiveness of her voice should enable her to accomplish a good deal, and the wisdom that comes with years will doubtless enable her to give a truer picture of the grief of Tosca and Isolde and of the happiness of Louise.

Even in the simpler music that lay more fully within her present powers, Miss Calder had quite a bit of trouble with her voice. A flickering vibrato tends to annihilate the pitch and to destroy the smoothness of her phrases. Her tone is rather heavily produced. It does not negotiate rapid passages easily, and most of the high notes fall short of the pitch they are aimed at. Such good material—and such faulty singing.

Jan Kubelik, noted Czech violinist, has been forced by illness to cancel the recital scheduled for the Studebaker theater next Sunday afternoon.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

Here's a wearable model for your spring clothes collection. Most of you undoubtedly need a graceful model for daytime wear, but this pattern also provides for a modish dress in ankle length for informal dining and the theater.

Draping achieves the miracle of styling for this number. Shirring, radiating from the shoulder seams, lends grace to the bodice, and similar gathers do the same from the vantage point of the high waistline. The V-neckline may be left plain or be adorned with a brooch or pin. The sleeves are cut raglan fashion and may be either long or short.

Any type of silk will make up well. Prints are grand for daytime occasions, and if a light background fabric is chosen and short sleeves selected, the dress will see you well through the summer. Dark shades in supple fabrics are best for the long dress.

Style No. 2078 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material.

When a woman gets one of those rare scouring and scrubbing streaks, or when she wants to spend a day sewing, she doesn't like to spend much time getting lunch. She can forget all about lunch until almost time to eat if her shelves are stocked with a good variety of canned soups. Canned soup, sandwiches, milk, and canned or fresh fruit make the quickest possible satisfactory luncheon, and no time is lost from the job at hand.

There are dozens of good canned soups in our groceries these days. Some of them are condensed, some of them are ready to eat with no dilution.

This is only a partial list: Asparagus, bean and bacon, lima bean, beef, bouillon, chicken [cream broth, with noodles], clam broth and chowder, consomme, corn chowder, julienne soups, minestrone [Italian vegetable] mulligatawney, mutton, cream of mushroom, mock turtle, noodle, okra, onion, oxtail, oyster, pea, pepperpot, puree of many types, vegetable, tomato, and a great variety of beef and lamb stews with vegetables.

Not only are they good as soups, but many of them lend themselves perfectly to the preparation of other dishes. Tomato and cream of mushroom soups are, perhaps, the most versatile, for they may be used as sauces for many meat and vegetable dishes.

8 slices bacon
8 slices cheese, cut to fit bread
8 slices bread or toast
1 can condensed tomato soup

Cut the long slices of bacon in half and broil on one side. Cover the slices of bread or toast with pieces of cheese cut about an eighth inch thick and place two pieces of bacon on each. Broil until cheese is melted and bacon is crisp. Pour a small amount of hot condensed tomato soup over each slice and serve immediately, two slices to a serving.

Poached Eggs in Tomato Soup

1 can condensed tomato soup diluted with half as much water

Heat soup in small skillet or saucepan, and break the eggs, one at a time, in a saucer or cup, slipping them from this into the hot soup. Let cook gently until the eggs are as firm as desired. Remove to slices of buttered toast for serving. Pour a little tomato sauce over each egg.

Baked Eggs in Mushroom Sauce

4 hard cooked eggs, sliced
1 can cream of mushroom soup
Fine bread crums
Butter

Slice the eggs into a buttered baking dish and pour the mushroom soup over them. Top with crums and dot with butter. Heat in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, until crums are well browned.

Good Morning!

It offers as pièce de résistance W. C. Fields, who has been conspicuous lately for his absence from screen and radio. He is here, there, and everywhere in the film, golfing, steering an ocean liner through iceberg trafic, pursuing with equanimity and persistence his blunderbuss way. His activities as usual delight his audiences . . . he is looking mighty fit and plays the Brothers Bellows with true Fieldian zest. . . .

He is ludicrous. . . . Bob Hope, as a radio announcer, has some funny scenes. . . . Patricia Wilder, as "Honey Chile," an amateur who does a radio skit, is amusing. You may get a laugh out of Martha Raye. I didn't. But I was surprised to behold how very charming the lady can look when she's dressed up.

The "lovely spots." Well, the place where Shirley Ross and Bob Hope, sitting at a bar, sing "Thanks for the Memories" . . . where Dorothy Lamour and Leif Erikson discover that there's such a thing as love at first sight . . . the "Waltz Lives On" episode. . . .

Most of the action takes place on the steamer Gigantic, which is engaged in a cross ocean race with the steamer Colossal. The Gigantic belongs to the Bellows brothers.

Crafty T. F. has arranged for his brother S. B. to sail on the Colossal, as S. B., to quote T. F., "has been in every major disaster since the sinking of the Merrimac" and he does NOT want disaster to attend the Gigantic's journey. S. B., however, unintentionally, well — never mind about that.

Hope you like it. Think you probably will.

"DOUBLE DANGER."
Produced by RKO-Radio.
Directed by Lew Landers.
Presented at the Palace theater.

Robert Crane and Carolyn Morgan, interestingly interpreted by Preston Foster and Whitney Bourne, go deftly about the business of easing jewels into their own possession from under the very noses of watchful jewelers and irritated police. They foil one another. They fall in love. They, at last, reform and sail away supposedly to be very good on the Riviera. But——

The observer has his doots as to whether young people who have fed so avidly on adventure will be content to lead a humdrum life. . . .

The story while fairly interesting isn't sturdy enough material for featured players or several of the cast players. Especially good performances are tendered by Messrs. Donald Meek, Samuel S. Hinds, and Arthur Lake. But the tale serves pleasantly enough. . . . Some of the situations and dialog are amusing, and direction was able.

Probably all eyes and ears in Carnegie hall, New York, will be turned on the world's largest parade drum Friday night at the benefit performance to be given by the NBC symphony orchestra under Arturo Toscanini. The orchestra is to play Verdi's "Requiem," and for this needs a large drum. None in the east was large enough to satisfy Toscanini, so an appeal was made to the Midway. The drum left in a special express car yesterday and will arrive in New York this afternoon. The drum's rôle Friday night will be fleetingly brief. It will be used for one loud, reverberating boom.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Water Under the Bridge

Warner Baxter first award winner.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 28.—This is Academy Award week, most important week of fifty-two in this town because show people would rather be honored by their own than by any other tribunal. The academy awards started back in 1928-'29, when Warner Baxter was honored for his performance in "In Old Arizona," Fox's first outdoor, all talking picture. Let's see what was happening in those prosperous days.

"In Old Arizona" was previewed at the Criterion theater in downtown Los Angeles on Christmas day, 1928. Sound just had come to the movies and the advertisment stressed the fact that "you not only see it but actually hear it." One reviewer had this to say of the picture that was to become epochal as the first academy winner: "The sound effects are capital, a surprising disclosure of what can be done with a microphone in the open air. The dialog is fairly well written, although dialog in Hollywood is still an unknown art. Improvements in its quality are sadly needed." Ten years later the technicians give you such expert sprees of sound as "The Hurricane" and "In Old Chicago."

Other pictures playing on the day that "In Old Arizona" was previewed evoke nostalgic memories—Norma Shearer and Lowell Sherman in "A Lady of Chance," John Gilbert in "Masks of the Devil," Lon Chaney in "West of Zanzibar," Norma Talmadge in "Woman Disputed," Vilma Banky in "The Awakening," Rod La Rocque in "Captain Swagger," Milton Sills, Dorothy Mackaill, Betty Compson and Doug Fairbanks Jr. in "The Barker," Janet Gaynor in "Sunrise," Joan Crawford in "Dream of Love," Clara Bow in "Three Week-ends," Lew Cody and Aileen Pringle in "Beau Broadway," Billie Dove in "The Night Watch," Corinne Griffith in "The Outcast," Al Jolson in "The Singing Fool," Jack Mulhall in "The Waterfront," Emil Jannings in "The Patriot." The cinema mortality rate is high.

December, 1928, so near and yet so far away! In New York Referee Lou Magnolia was raising Ace Hudkins' gloved paw over Rene De Vos at Madison Square Garden. Jack Sharkey was telling Tex Rickard that he wouldn't permit Jack Dempsey to referee his fight with Young Stribling at Miami. Magnolia, Rickard, and Stribling all have died.

President Coolidge and President Elect Herbert Hoover were exchanging Christmas greetings by radio as Hoover, aboard the U. S. S. Utah, steamed to Hampton Roads. District Attorney Buron Fitts of Los Angeles was warning hotel and café men to observe the prohibition law on New Year's eve or lose their licenses. Gov. Al Smith, at Albany, was forcing an Albany rector to deny that he had said Smith was so drunk at Houston he couldn't get to the radio. Jackie Coogan and his dad were making their stage debut in Berlin. The prince of Wales was broadcasting a plea for the poverty stricken miners of Wales. The S. S. Majestic was arriving at New York with Mabel Boll and Charles Levine aboard. As Chicago Johnny Weismuller notified the Illinois Athletic club that he was about to turn professional to make some money.

Page one announced George Beban's death. Mae McAvoy confirmed reports that she was quitting Warner's. Georgia Tech, with Father Lumpkin and Capt. Pund, had arrived in the Rose Bowl for the big game with Nibs Price and his Californians. W. C. Durant awarded a $25,000 prize for the best essay on prohibition and how to enforce it to Maj. Chester B. Mills. The 24 day old son of the Irving Berlins died at New York. Pussyfoot Johnson arrived at Shanghai. NBC announced triumphantly that it had linked its stations all the way to the Pacific coast and that hereafter the Pacific coast would hear programs originating in New York and Chicago studios for one, two, or three hours a day. National league averages revealed Rogers Hornsby as the batting champ with a mark of .387.

Curiously enough Warner Baxter, Edmund Lowe, Raoul Walsh, and Irving Cummings, who were associated with "In Old Arizona," first academy winner, are still prominent. Dorothy Burgess, who played the femme lead, is out of flickers. The first Fox all talkie outdoor of 1928 has had the last laugh, however, for the present cycle of pictures is right back in the 1928 groove. "Bad Man of Brimstone," "Wells Fargo," "Buccaneer"—these are cut from the cloth of "In Old Arizona."

From December, 1928, to March, 1938, isn't such a long time, but I guess we are living in a streamlined age, for so much has happened since then. Names that were then so great mean little or nothing now. The Hollywood stars of 1928 are dead or forgotten or working as extras. If they had attended the Trocadero last Sunday night I doubt that they'd have been given the ringside tables which they once commanded because of the celluloid magic attached to them. Ten years from now the great names of today will have been forgotten.

THE STAGE

Maurice Evans, star of "Richard II.," will give a special performance of Shakespeare's "King Henry IV., Part I," in the Grand Opera House tonight. He will appear as Falstaff. Winston O'Keefe [Aumerle in Richard II.] will be the Prince Hal; Wesley Addy [earl of Salisbury and a keeper in "Richard II."] will be the Hotspur; Frederick Worlock [Bolinbroke in "Richard II."] will be the king, and Rhys Williams [Welsh captain in "Richard II."] will be the Owen Glendower.

The Yiddish branch of the Federal Theater Project [WPA] is now acting "The Tailor Becomes a Shopkeeper" at the Great Northern theater. This is a farcical comedy by David Pinsky; the production is said to be a "world première" in Yiddish drama. The director is Adolph Gartner, veteran Yiddish impresario who staged "Monesh" at the Great Northern several months ago. The cast contains many players who are familiar to patrons of Yiddish drama.

Maurice Schwartz will bring his Yiddish Art Theater company of New York to Chicago on March 28 for an engagement in a downtown theater. He will offer "The Brothers Ashkenazai," dramatized from the novel by I. J. Singer.

Club Exhibits Charming Art by Laurencin

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Three new exhibitions have opened at the Arts club. They are scheduled to run only to March 10, so whoever wishes to be fascinated by Marie Laurencin's irresistible paper dolls, the curious and intricate paintings of Kristians Tonny and the engravings of Gauguin had best not put the mission off too long.

The larger gallery is hung with the Marie Laurencin paintings. In the titles the various delightful young figures that drape or station themselves so picturesquely in composition after composition are dignified by the word "femme," which is an overstatement.

These angelic young females have nothing to do with womanhood. They are not marionettes, either, for whom the artist is pulling the string; they have not even that much substance. These pretty creatures have no third dimension, they are sweet surfaces, tiny notes in a tinkling music box, which as it plays throws more than a hint of lavender upon the air.

Marie Laurencin has advanced her angelic chorus far enough today to have given them noses; formerly she contented herself with bestowing two liquid eyes, a rosy mouth, an indeterminate chin and a cloud of soft hair. Today her little heroines may, if they like, have colds in the head. Aside from this more or less practical detail, the pink and white and blue ladies of these sentimental and anaemic adventures in paint [which yet are most charming] have not developed.

There is a great deal of imaginative stuff in the paintings of Tonny that reminds one of the fantastic creations of Julius Moessel, our Chicago painter. "Table," "Root" and "Tree" are three practical examples of this similarity. Tonny scrapes the edge of surrealism; in fact he does more than that, he enters boldly upon many of its prerogatives and habits, bundling intelligible details with the fantastic.

Tonny paints beautifully, however, and draws in a sure, spirited manner that is most inspiring. Therefore we forgive him his myriad devils and bad dreams. His running horses are stunning; so, too, is the beautiful horse coming up out of the morning mists in "Autumn." These pictures no one should miss.

The ten original engravings on wood by Gauguin, which encircle the walls of the little gallery, may be more quickly dismissed. Gauguin's forte was color rather than drawing, and these black and white sketches do nothing to reverse this opinion.

They will prove attractive to those who enjoy primitive drawing, a little stiff and tense and ultraformal. They will interest those who find pleasure in Gauguin's paintings, because they resemble them, as a shadow resembles its object.

Take Your Pink, This Season's Shopping Tip

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Start hoarding! The new spring clothes fill the shops and stores. All the new gay spring colors are blooming. Swinging, snappy daytime dresses in prints and pastels are so irresistible that any mortal woman will gladly omit lunch for the extra cash. The boom of boleros has gone beyond control and the colored gloves wave is another record breaker.

Pink has taken the town. Everything is rosy with this high fashion color of the 1938 showings. Pink and black hats, shell pink, suede gloves, pink sheer blouses with chest frills or the demurely tucked tailored versions, pink wool jackets smartly nipped in at the waistline, pink boleros, and all-pink hats are just a few of the finds.

It's a flattering feminine pink, without being sissy; it's the spring pink that goes so well with black, with navy blue, or the in between shades of blue. Taffeta ascots with fringed ends are luscious mufflers for navy blue suits. Crisp, shiny black hats have two pink flowers and a pink veil; swathed turbans are half and half pink and blue or black and pink with the pink crêpe descending down around the neck as a clever scarf.

Some of the best eye catching jackets are the pink and violet checked affairs, or pink with sapphire blue; or pink and black, the checks as large as three inches square, or checks with blurred larger outlines. Such jackets or coats become the practical standby of any wardrobe.

Betrothals of Friends Told on Same Day

BY JUDITH CASS.

It is by coincidence that the engagements of two young women who have been close friends through all their school days are being announced today. One announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. William John Garvy of the engagement of their daughter, Margery Anne, to Robert Ball Emery, son of Mrs. Robert B. Emery of Elmhurst.

The other comes from Palm Beach, Fla., where Mr. and Mrs. Olof Nelson Tevander are announcing the engagement of their youngest daughter, Althea, to Gilbert C. Drake, son of Mrs. Neil C. Drake of Maplewood, N. J., and Palm Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Garvy gave a family dinner at home to celebrate their daughter's engagement. Mr. and Mrs. Tevander are giving a luncheon today in their Palm Beach home to tell their daughter's friends of her betrothal.

Both young women attended the Girls' Latin school. Miss Garvy also studied at the Convent of the Sacred Heart, and at Pine Manor. She made her debut at a tea at the Woman's Athletic club in 1934. Mr. Emery is a graduate of Northwestern university and is engaged in business in Chicago. No date has been set for the wedding.

The Tevanders lived formerly at 850 Castlewood terrace, but now they divide their time between their country home Northwoodside at Lake Geneva, Wis., and 250 Barton avenue, Palm Beach. Miss Tevander is a graduate of Briarcliff. Her wedding to Mr. Drake will take place next season in Palm Beach.

Mrs. Chalmers McGuffie Is Bride in London.

Mrs. Chalmers C. McGuffie, the former Edith Rosenfield of Chicago, and J. Onslow Fane, whose engagement was announced recently, were married yesterday in London. Word of the marriage was received by the bride's mother, Mrs. Morris S. Rosenfield.

Only the immediate family was present for the ceremony at noon, but a few close friends were invited to a wedding breakfast following at the home of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Cecil Fane, in Cadogan square. FitzWalter Wright gave his sister-in-law in marriage.

Mr. Fane will take his bride on a motor trip to the Riviera and Italy.

GUNHAMMERED GOLD

By Luke Short

[Copyright: 1938: By Frederick Dilley Glidden.]

SYNOPSIS.

Abe McCandless, who framed Poco St. Vrain and made him an outlaw, owns a gold mine on a mountain peak. Two insurance agents, sent to bring down the gold, are murdered by two different bands of outlaws. Two-Way Hornbeck, leader of one band, persuades Poco to pose as one of the agents. At the mountain camp Poco finds Sepey Cardowan, killer gunman, posing as the other agent. Shayne, the mine manager, has a lovely daughter, Kate. Cardowan crowds Poco off the cliff and takes the gold. He joins forces with Two-Way. Posing as prospectors, they are given an army escort to Rincon. Meanwhile Kate helps rescue Poco. He confesses his identity and promises to recover the gold. In Rincon Poco learns Two-Way and Cardowan put the gold on a stagecoach. Poco rides off after the coach. Two-Way, double-crossing Cardowan, promises McCandless to lead a posse to St. Vrain and the gold. But Cardowan learns the gold was put off at the hotel and rides off with it, also kidnaping Kate Shayne. When the posse reaches the coach and finds no gold McCandless turns on Two-Way. In an exchange of gunfire both are killed. The mob returns to the hotel with Poco and, when they find Cardowan and the gold gone, turn on Poco. A stranger, Van, appears and announces himself a United States marshal. When the mob turns on him he and Poco take refuge in the sheriff's office. Harry, the stagecoach driver, and a girl called Steamboat help them escape through the roof. Poco rides off after Cardowan. Meanwhile Cardowan, with Kate, boards a train for Mexico. Cardowan forces all the passengers to jump off the train, except an old lady.

INSTALMENT XXXVIII.

DESPERATION.

When they hit the upgrade of the San Jons, Harry settled into a sort of an irritable coma. He knew he couldn't hurry the horses, if he was to get anything out of them later.

Poco chafed under it too, but he knew that if his scheme was to have a chance to work, he would have to be patient, and patient in the teeth of what he knew was happening to Kate Shayne.

Van saw the somber look on his face and said, "You're bound to lose, St. Vrain, you can't win all the time."

"I found that out. I'll win this time, though."

Van settled back to sleep. Poco did not dare sleep.

They were close to the pass, moving at a snail's pace, when the stage stopped and Poco heard the brakes set.

He stuck his head out the window and said, "What's up, Harry?"

Poco said, "Tell 'em I'm here if they stop us—and they will. I figured on this. Let me play it my own way, Harry, will you?"

"Sure," Harry said, puzzled.

"Then throw down one of Van's six-guns."

Harry obeyed, Poco drew back into the stage as it started again and sat down, and proceeded to plug every load out of the gun Harry had given him. Then he gave the gun to Van.

"The army's coming," Poco said calmly. "They'll likely stop to get the news about the fight in Rincon. You hail them. Tell them how we got away, and that you were coming out this way to meet them just in case the posse took after us. We were heading for Benjamin for army protection. You got that?"

"Sure," Van said slowly, more puzzled than he had been.

"You've got that gun there guarding me. It's empty, but they won't notice that. "This"—he tapped his own gun—"won't be empty. And Sam Van," he continued in a soft, lifeless voice, "it will be empty, all five slugs buried in you, if you give me away. Have you got that—really got it? Because if you cross me now, I'll turn into the killer you say I'm not."

Van's eyes narrowed. He said, "Yes, I've got it."

"There'll likely be an officer in charge of the outfit. We'll stop and you'll talk, invite him inside, so you can give him your story while we're riding. Tell him to tie his horse on behind. That'll be all you'll need do. You'll have me tonight. If you don't capture me, I'll give you my word to give myself up. I said my word. Does that suit you?"

Van said, "I've heard about that word of yours. You keep it, don't you?"

"Yes. That's what I'm doing now—keeping my word, to somebody I gave it to a long time back."

"A woman?"

"A lady," Poco corrected gently, and added, "A mighty pretty lady that hates me and everything I do and everything I stand for. That's why I want to keep it, why I've got to keep it." He looked at Van. "Will you do it?"

Poco smiled. He took his gun and rammed it in the waistband of his levis in the small of his back, then leaned back in the seat. Their positions were changed now, and it was Van who appeared to be the captor.

They rode this way until they heard the drumming of approaching horses, and Harry pulled up and set the brake.

Van leaned out and waved, and suddenly the stage was surrounded by cavalry troopers.

"Hello, marshal," the officer answered slowly. "Hell, I thought you sent over for—"

"I did. But we made a getaway. Take a look inside."

The lieutenant rode close to the stage and looked inside at Poco, who raised a lazy hand in greeting.

Van said, "There's likely a posse after us now, lieutenant, so your trip wasn't wasted. What happened to the man I sent over?"

"He nearly killed his horse and himself. He's at the barracks. He said they were holding you up in the jail when he left. How'd you make your getaway?"

Van laughed, "It's a long story. Tie your horse on behind here and come inside. I'll tell you."

Instead of doing this, Cooper dismounted and handed the reins of his long-legged chestnut gelding over to one of his men. Then he climbed inside and took the seat opposite Van and Poco, after telling the men to follow behind.

Van leaned out, shouted, "Let her roll," to Harry, and the stage started its slow course to the top of the grade not far distant now.

Cooper studied Poco with unfeigned interest.

"You've done a bad thing, my man," he said quietly. "We don't let every outlaw ride up to a government fort and shoot at the flag."

Poco said nothing.

Van launched into his story and told it word for word. At the mention of Cardowan and Two Way slugging him in jail, Cooper stopped him. "Those two prospectors? Why would they do that?"

When Van looked puzzled at the question, Cooper explained that Two-Way and Cardowan were prospectors who sought shelter from Poco's gang in Fort Benjamin. Van immediately told him the truth, that Two-Way and Cardowan were crooks, who had hoodwinked the commandant.

"But you were chasing them, weren't you?" Cooper asked Poco.

"All this will be straightened out soon." Poco drawled in a bored voice. Cooper looked at him, puzzled but Van took up the story, telling of their escape.

They had reached the top of the grade now, and as soon as they passed through a long level stretch, they would hit the other slope.

Cooper was saying, "That was lucky," just as Poco arched his back, as if to scratch it, and whipped out a six-gun, cocked, and pointed it at Cooper.

Cooper's voice trailed off into silence. He stared at Poco, then at Van.

"It was a trick, lieutenant," Van said, holding up his own gun. "Mine's empty. St. Vrain wanted you in here."

"I see," Cooper said quietly. "You might have told me when the men had surrounded the stage."

"He'd of got five slugs in his back if he did," Poco put in. "You'll get the five instead unless you do what I say."

"And what's that?"

Poco said, "I'm going to borrow your horse."

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Let's have a grand finale today on this all important subject of obedience, and then leave it for a while; at least, for now. This grand finale takes a wide swing. It covers a big arc in a young life, the arc that swoops from babyhood around nearly to adult years.

Because I've swung around that arc with children in and out of my family I feel qualified to pass on to you something you may not realize if your experience is limited to your own first baby, or your still small son or daughter. It is a something, a perspective, a looking ahead through some one else's eyes that I believe will help you.

It is this: While gaining obedience without punishment rests on certain underlying principles that are sound for all ages, one has to modify it to suit it to the changes that take place in a child: in his body, in his mind, in his feelings, in his experience in general. This is what I mean. With the baby you are absolute arbiter of his fate—that is, of what he shall do, in a very forthright way.

With the runabout child, tact and understanding and a taken-for-granted attitude with some friendly explanation, plus lots of time and patience turn the trick.

When your boys and girls get to those years around 7 and 9 and 11, something else is needed, though the principles of obedience remain the same. A tremendous amount of tolerance, a touch of easy goingness in overlooking small lapses and peccadilloes, a ready interest in their interests will gain the obedience in essentials and keep open the line of friendly communication so needed then, and so vitally needed later when they come into their teens.

Here is where your technique of gaining obedience [or compliance with your requirements] undergoes a rather radical change. Holding to your own standards, formed through sympathy and a wider experience than theirs, you still must grant them the right to increasing independence and to frank discussion of your viewpoint and of the demands you feel are not only for their good but which are fair to the family as a whole.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"One night my husband and I were invited to a social event. While there, my husband picked up a common, vulgar blonde woman and openly kissed and embraced her. I was bitterly ashamed and embarrassed. He ignored me all evening, plainly preferring her company to mine. This was the first time in fourteen years that he did such a thing.

"Believe me when I say I was not jealous. I was horrified because my friends pointed the pair out to me and made slighting remarks about them. I got excited and slapped them both. And now my name is Bad Temper, according to my husband. Did I do right? S. M."

Well, what was the effect? Husband still mad at you? Or did your wallop, promptly delivered, sober the man against a repetition? Honestly, we can't decide whether you did the right or the wrong thing. If we knew your mate we would be a better judge. But, somehow, we have a hearty admiration for a woman who promtply establishes her position in the face of a ruthless rival, much more admiration than for a woman too proud to fight for the man in whom her life is wrapped.

We haven't much sympathy for a woman who will adopt the rôle of indifferent observer, because that's the interpretation the man will put on her silent acceptance. We wouldn't give a care whether we were called bad tempered or other names if we felt that we had responded to a healthy impulse. Don't misunderstand that we are urging physical combat in every occasion of a husband's preference for another woman. It mightn't always work and, of course, the fight doesn't create the most charming setting in the world for a wife, no matter how wronged she may feel. Our approval is for the woman who isn't going to sit idly by and see a rival make a complete idiot of her man, and for a woman who is going to step in and break off pronto any alliance with future potentialities as a homewrecker.

But now that the incident is over and the man, no doubt, intimidated by a spirit he had not reckoned on in his wife of fourteen years' standing, the thing to do is to make it a closed incident.

Herald Square.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

By Nancy Cabot.

"Herald Square" is one of the old pieced patterns, and was made in the east more than 100 years ago. Brilliant colored materials were imported from England, the patches of which were used to create this striking design. The block measures 14 inches square when completed, and the quilt is composed entirely of pieced blocks set together to form an all-over design. Either printed or plain materials may be used, but the favorite color scheme is red, two shades of blue, and white. The finished coverlet, containing 42 pieced blocks surrounded by a three inch border and a half inch bias binding, measures 90 by 104 inches.

For a limited period Nancy Cabot offers 10 quilt patterns of her own choice at a price of 10 cents for the group (12 cents by mail). Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

Relieves Pains, Distress of "Morning-After Acidity"

WHEN YOU WAKE UP IN THE morning dull, headachy or out-of-sorts with yourself and the world, don't keep on feeling miserable. Your trouble is probably due to a night-time accumulation of excess acids that cause "morning acidity" and may lead to . . .

Constipation — Gas
Sour Stomach — Heartburn
Acid Indigestion — Loss of Appetite
Headache — or Nausea

To relieve this condition just do this: Take a little condensed JAD Salts in a glass of warm water before breakfast and almost at once you'll start to feel better.

Relief comes so delightfully fast because this sparkling pleasant drink acts on "morning acidity" two ways at once. It counteracts acidity and cleans away the toxic waste matter. As a result, it helps to make you feel fine and look fine.

Now don't endure misery—causing "morning acidity" To feel clean, keen, gloriously alive, start the day right . . . with a little JADS in a glass of warm water. Get a bottle of Condensed JAD Salts from your druggist—today!

Win Yacht Race on Strange Boat.

From southern climes come yachtsmen's stories to entertain and make envious their ice-bound yachting friends in the north. No tall tales of fishing can compare however to the thrilling tale of how Harry Nye Jr., and Leeds Mitchell Jr. won the Bacardi cup at Havana in a boat they never before had seen.

The yacht is a sloop, the Gale, built in California for Mr. Nye and finished in January. Because of freight route difficulties the Gale was loaded on a steamer and shipped through the Panama canal to New York. There it was reloaded on another freighter and taken to Cuba.

Mr. Nye and Mr. Mitchell motored to Miami, and took a boat for Havana, arriving about the same time as the Gale. On the morning of the first of the Bacardi cup races Mr. Nye, the skipper, and Mr. Mitchell, the crew, were ferried out to the freighter, and put up the sails on their boat. Then a giant crane swung her overboard, and the yacht sailed right off to join the other contestants and finished the race only four seconds behind the winner. Mr. Nye and Mr. Mitchell did so well in subsequent races in the series that the cup was awarded to them.

Winners Cheered by Chicagoans.

Among the Chicagoans in Havana to cheer the winners were two other members of the Chicago Yacht club, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln S. Harris, who are spending the winter there at the country club. The Edward Schnabels, whose R boat is stored for the winter, are leaving this week for Havana, and hope that Mr. and Mrs. Harris will be able to direct them to the best sailing waters for their two weeks' holiday.

While he is in Cuba, Mr. Schnabel will do some marine photography. The Clarence Ericssons, who belong to the Fox Lake Yacht club, and their two daughters have been at Montego Bay, Cuba, for two months. Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour III. leave Friday for Montego Bay.

Many who visit the boat show in progress at the Navy pier this week are looking forward to next summer's sailing season. Nathaniel Rubinkam, commodore of the Columbia Yacht club, and James Lowe of the Chicago Yacht club are looking forward with special interest because they have entered their yachts, Rubaiyat and Manitou, respectively, in the New London-Bermuda race June 20. These are the first Chicago yachts to be entered in this classic race since Lynn A. Williams' Elizabeth raced in it in 1920.

Library Will Open German Exhibit Today.

One of the most delightful tea parties of the week will mark the opening this afternoon of a German exhibit at the Library of International Relations. The board of the library and the officers of the Carl Schurz Memorial foundation are sponsoring the exhibit, which is the third in a current series. The hosts hope to serve real German cake at the tea.

Mrs. Walter P. Paepcke, Mrs. William B. Goltra, and Miss Ruth Briede are assisting Miss Eloise ReQua, director of the library, with the party.

The American Opera society will hold an open meeting at 11:30 o'clock this morning at the Lake Shore Drive hotel. Excerpts from Ernest T. Carter's light opera "The Blonde Donna" will be heard.

Thomas Mann Lectures Tonight.

Thomas Mann, last speaker in a series of lectures sponsored by the University college of Northwestern university, will be heard tonight at the Auditorium theater. Mr. Mann won the Nobel prize for literature in 1929. This is his first appearance in the middle west, and his first lecture in the United States this year.

Mrs. Elizabeth Guion Hess will read the principal scene from "La Dame aux Camellias" at a meeting at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon of Le Cercle Francais. The duc de Levis-Mirepoix will speak on "De Cendrillon a Marie-Claire." Mrs. Carter H. Harrison and Mme. Rene Weiller, wife of the French consul, will pour.

Walter J. Cummingses Return from Cruise.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Cummings returned yesterday from a South American cruise on the Rex, bringing with them news of Ambassador and Mrs. Jefferson Caffery [Gertrude McCarthy], who had moved from their hotel into a beautiful home in Rio just before Mr. and Mrs. Cummings arrived there. The house is considered one of the most beautiful in Rio.

Mrs. Caffery's brother and his wife, the Daniel McCarthys, who live in Evansville, Ind., have a house in Asheville, N. C., this winter.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

The most beautiful love letter ever written would have little point or reason for being if it never reached its destination. In a more prosaic sense, messages flashed from one defender to the other at the bridge table fall flat as a pancake when the supposed recipient doesn't even suspect that he is being paged. I watched the defense of the following hand at a certain table of a duplicate game. It actually hurt me to see the brilliant effort of one defender vitiated by his partner's deafness, dumbness, and blindness.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

After considerable huddling, West opened the heart king, preferring this to leading from his terribly anemic diamond suit. Dummy ducked and East encouraged with the nine spot. Although West was in no doubt as to East's desire for a heart continuation, the heart jack was by no means located. East, not knowing that West's heart suit was only three long, probably would have given the same nine spot if holding any four hearts. Moreover, West, after some consideration, saw another reason in favor of a shift. South had held the bidding open with one no trump but had been so weak that even after North's strong raise [the raise of a negative no trump is a powerful bid], he had stopped short of game. Hence, it was a virtual certainty that South could not hold both the ace and king of diamonds, but there was reason to feel that he held one of those cards. If he also had four clubs to the jack, it would be vital to remove his diamond honor entry before dummy's A-K-Q of clubs were unblocked.

On this sound reasoning, West shifted to his fourth highest diamond. Dummy ducked, East played the jack, and declarer won. Now, since declarer had been robbed of his only entry, he pointed his efforts toward establishing tricks in the dummy, leading the spade jack and letting it ride. West and dummy ducked and East won with the queen. At this point East started to go astray and continued to do so. Instead of hanging onto his diamond ace as an entry, instead of realizing that West might have a short heart suit and that he would want a heart lead through declarer so as to have that situation cleared up, East proudly laid down the diamond ace. West saw what was coming and made a valiant effort to guide his partner correctly by following to this trick with the nine of diamonds. [Surely, West reasoned, East could not fail to read this play as West's highest diamond. There would be absolutely no point in playing the nine if West also had the ten.] The nine, then, was a strident warning that declarer had the diamond ten and that a diamond continuation would give declarer a trick that he never could reach for himself. East missed the point, however. He blithely continued with diamonds, and declarer cashed his ten and eight before establishing dummy's spades. Instead of the contract being defeated one trick, declarer was permitted to make an overtrick, and a beautiful match-point score.

Shirley Temple Will Be Heard on WGN Friday

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Shirley Temple, who made her first network appearance over Mutual a few months ago, is to be heard again over W-G-N-MBS at the preview of her newest picture, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," at 10:30 p. m. Friday. Her first appearance was at a later hour and probably fewer persons heard her then than will on this occasion. Others to pass before the microphone are Gloria Stuart, Randolph Scott, Jack Haley, Slim Summerville, and Bill Robinson. Shirley's voice has been aired over no network except Mutual's.

Poetic Melodies, which has been on CBS for almost a year and a half with a relaxing program of harmony and verse, is altering its makeup on March 21. Franklyn MacCormack, reader, leaves the show for a vacation in Europe; Jack Fulton remains, but instead of concentrating on ballads will sing more sprightly numbers. The Andrews Sisters, who have been appearing on the sponsor's Sunday evening show, Double Everything, which is folding, will join the week night show. Carl Hohengarten's orchestra stays. Idea is to give the show a livelier pace for the summer months.

Lee Sims, pianist-composer, and Ilomay Bailey, his singing wife, favorites of other years on the air, are back in town. Sims is polishing off several compositions, one of which the London Symphony is to play in the fall with the composer at the piano. It's a tone poem he calls "Blithewood," descriptive of the Adirondacks.

Ken Ellington, WBBM commentator, and his sister, Edith Ellington Becktell of Kirkwood, Ill., whom he has not seen for 15 years, are soon to be reunited as a result of a broadcast plus a newsreel picture. Separated in their youth, neither knew the whereabouts of the other until Mrs. Becktell thought she recognized her brother's voice on a descriptive broadcast chronicling Mei-Mei's arrival at the Brookfield zoo recently. When she saw his picture with the panda and a WBBM microphone in the newsreels a few days later she recognized him for certain and got in touch with him.

Don Pedro, W-G-N singing violinist, was summoned to San Antonio last night because of the death of his father, Pedro Avelar.

Irish Historical Society Gives Program Tonight

An all-Irish program, including music, poetry, literature, and oratory, will be presented in the De Paul Little theater, 64 East Lake street, at 8:15 o'clock tonight under the sponsorship of the De Paul Art league and the Illinois chapter of the American-Irish Historical society. The Rev. J. W. R. Maguire, C. S. V., former president of St. Viator's college at Bourbonnais, Ill., will talk on present conditions in Ireland.

News of Radio

While the Palmer house is not on the air at present it has booked a group of radio performers for 1938 who are likely to agitate for return of the microphone to the Empire room. Bernie Cummins, who is there now, will be supplanted by Eddy Duchin May 4. Guy Lombardo is due Labor day and Wayne King late in the fall.

Menagerie bulletins: Lou Holtz, currently at the Chez Paree, is to introduce a trained seal on the initial broadcast of his new revue over WBBM-CBS at 7 p. m. next Monday. Kay Thompson, Ted Husing and Richard Himber's music are additional features.

The Mutual network is to broadcast a special program, featuring Jeanette MacDonald, Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, Congressman Bruce Barton and Prof. Arthur H. Compton to 2,000,000 Methodists who will gather at 20,000 church dinners at 9 p. m. tomorrow night. This special broadcast is a highlight of the present celebration of the 200th anniversary of the founding of Methodism.

Irene Winston, lately of the cast of "Tovarich," has decided to try for a radio career. She has been cast in the rôle of Rosemary Hemingway in the serial the Woman in White, aired over WMAQ-NBC at 9:45 a. m. weekdays.

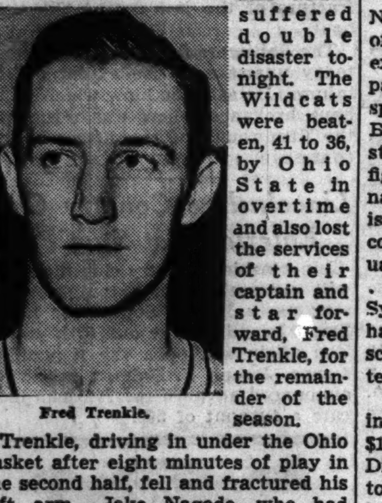
Columbus, O., Feb. 28.—[Special.] —Northwestern university's basketball team suffered double disaster tonight. The Wildcats were beaten, 41 to 36, by Ohio State in overtime and also lost the services of their captain and star forward, Fred Trenkle, for the remainder of the season.



Fred Trenkle.

The Wildcats were ahead at the half, 18 to 13.

The defeat had a serious effect on Northwestern's chance for the Big Ten conference championship. It still may tie for the honor by winning its two remaining games with Purdue and Michigan. The Wildcats now are in third place behind Minnesota.

Scorekeepers Kept Busy.

With eight minutes to go the score was tied at 27 all, with six minutes at 29 all, with three and one-half minutes to go at 31 all, and with two minutes at 33 all. Here Ad Vance slipped through and sank a basket to put Northwestern in front, 35 to 33. After the Buckeyes had attempted a shot, the ball went out of bounds, a Northwestern man touching it last. On the throw in, with ten seconds to play, Schick eluded Voigts and sank the tying basket.

In the overtime period the Buckeyes scored six points on Schick's basket and two free throws, a pair of free throws by Baker and another by Hull. The Buckeyes missed three other foul chances.

Northwestern was completely bottled up all this time and, besides having few shots at the basket, made only one of its two free throw attempts.

Smith Fouls Out.

The overtime period also saw the passing of Jean Smith, Wildcat forward, on personal fouls, after he had led his team with four baskets and three free throws.

High scoring honors went to John Schick of Ohio with twelve points. The Buckeyes made fifteen baskets and eleven out of fourteen free throw attempts, while Northwestern made thirteen baskets and ten out of fifteen foul chances. Summary:

PURDUE, 64; CHICAGO, 33

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 28.—[Special.] —Purdue assured itself of at least a share of the Big Ten basketball title here tonight as the Boilermakers, led by Jewell Young, who made 29 points, ran over Chicago, 64 to 33, while Northwestern was losing to Ohio State.

Young's left handed flips were too much for the harried Maroons, three of whom—Eggemeyer, Rossin, and Petersen—were ejected from the game because of personal fouls as a result of their frantic efforts to stop the Boilermakers' ace. His total of eleven field goals and seven free throws tied the all time single game scoring record, broke his own season scoring record of 172 points as his total for the current year is 174. He advanced his new all time three year scoring record to 455 points.

Purdue Renews Attack.

The Boilermakers started powerfully, at one time holding a 24 to 8 ad in the first half. The Maroons

AMONG the thousands at Chicago Stadium last night watching young America fight for Golden Gloves were two of the greatest college full backs football has developed. . . . Incidentally, they made up the most famous forward pass combination in the history of the Rose Bowl, although they played on different teams. . . . We refer to Ernie Nevers of Stanford and Elmer Layden of Notre Dame. . . . Layden's feat of scoring three touchdowns in the 1925 game at Pasadena never has been excelled. . . . Two of his touchdowns resulted from interception of forward passes thrown by Nevers. . . . Bernie Cummins, the band leader, is responsible for Barhey Ross' interest in golf. . . . Cummins' aim was to keep Barney away from the race tracks as much as possible. . . . Henry Armstrong always shadow boxes five rounds in his dressing room before he fights. . . . Everett Rightmire must have seen his maneuvers at the International amphitheater Friday night just before he fainted. . . . Gordon Spears, whose work at center has put new life in the Minnesota basketball team, couldn't make his high school squad in Montana. . . . His ambition was to join the baseball team when he enrolled at Minneapolis. . . .

The University of California's football receipts increased from $312,795 in 1936 to $345,692 last season. . . . You can add to the latter figure at least $100,000 as California's share of the Rose Bowl take. . . . The Cleveland District Golf association is seeking a sponsor for a $10,000 open tournament to be held this summer. . . . The American league record for most errors in a single game is held jointly, of all people, by George Sisler and Hal Chase. . . . Each bobbled four times. . . . Fred Waghorne of the Toronto Hocky league will retire this year at the age of 63. . . . He has officiated in 1,700 games in thirty-eight years.

SOX ASSEMBLE FOR JOURNEY TO PASADENA CAMP

Four Holdouts Send No Word of Plans.

If no news is good news, the White Sox officials should feel quite happy. As members of the south side cast began gathering in Chicago last night for their departure at 7:15 tonight for the training camp in Pasadena, Cal., the four players listed as holdouts still were holding out and had sent no announcement as to their intentions.

Only two of the four rebels, Pitcher Sugar Cain and Catcher Luke Sewell, are supposed to leave with the advance squad, the others, Outfielder Rip Radcliff and First Baseman Zeke Bonura, being scheduled as part of the second group. It is due in camp on March 9.

Here Are the Travelers.

The players in tonight's traveling party, which is to leave over the Santa Fe aboard the streamlined Superchief, will be: Pitchers Bill Dietrich, Monty Stratton, Dungan Rigney, Bill Cox, Bob Uhle, and Jess Dobernic; Catchers Norman Schlueter, Mike Tresh, Tony Rensa, and Clarence Finucane; Coaches Muddy Ruel and Billy Webb, and Clubhouse Boy Sharkey Collins. Joe Barry, traveling secretary, will be in charge.

Other battery men, including Pitchers Ted Lyons, Thornton Lee, and Johnny Whitehead, will go direct from their respective homes to California.

Cub Party Leaves.

Cub fans saw the last of their favorites off to camp from the Northwestern station last night. The party included only First Baseman Rip Collins, Shortstop Billy Jurges, and Coach Red Corriden. Most of the rest of the infielders and outfielders are residents of the western section of the country and will be on Catalina Island when the lads from Chicago arrive.

Kirby Higbe, one of the more promising rookie pitchers, again was forced to delay his departure for Catalina. Higbe, whose wife is ill in Columbus, S. C., could not report with the battery men last week. Last night he informed club officials from Knoxville, Tenn., that he himself had suffered a breakdown from worry and would return home until he feels more like playing baseball.

The Tournament of Champions of the eleventh annual Golden Gloves tournament conducted by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., began in the Chicago Stadium last night.

The firing was terrific for five hours. One hundred and twenty bouts were fought. These matches, contested with the fury, the speed, and the courage that goes only with youth, had 14,000 spectators in an uproar from the first punch until it was time to turn out the lights.

Little fellows—the flyweights, bantamweights, featherweights, and lightweights—had their inning last night. Tonight the big guns—welterweights, middleweights, light heavies, and heavyweights—wheel into action in this mammoth three ring boxing circus. Included on tonight's card of 152 bouts, which begin at 7 o'clock in three rings, are the semi-final matches of the Chicago novice tournament.

Tourney Closes Tomorrow.

The Tournament of Champions comes to a close tomorrow night with quarter-final matches and finals in the Chicago novice tournament. Tournament of Champion survivors tomorrow night will rest for ten days, then return to the Stadium on March 11 to decide the 1938 Golden Gloves championships, the winners of which will compose the team THE TRIBUNE will send east to meet the New York champions in the annual intercity bouts.

The boys who fought so gallantly last night were from Chicago and 45 other cities which have been busy for three months pickng the outstanding amateur boxers from a territory that represents nearly half the United States.

Frank Kainrath, the only defending titleholder among 399 Tournament of Champions contestants, fought superbly in the bantam weight division to score two spectacular victories, one of them on a two round technical knockout.

Eddie Dempsey of Davenport whipped Ed Lumpkin, Peoria colored featherweight, in a fight that has seldom been equaled in a Stadium ring.

Another Joyce Stars.

Verle Davis of Joliet indicated by two first round knockouts that he is one of the stoutest punching lightweights ever to strive for a Golden Glove. He scored a 12-second knockout over Jim Hendricks of Cincinnati.

The teams were more evenly matched than in any previous tournament. Forty-four of the fifty teams broke into the scoring column. Much strength was displayed by the teams representing the Huntington [W. Va.] Advertiser, the Detroit [Mich.] Free Press, the Minneapolis [Minn.] Star, Grand Rapids [Mich.] Press, the Omaha [Neb.] World-Herald, and the Catholic Youth organization of Chicago.

A knockout started the parade of the champions on their way. It was delivered by Flyweight Alvin Barker, who had traveled all the way from Ogden, Utah, to send that mighty punch into motion. It landed on the point of Bobby Winchell's chin. Bobby comes from Joliet. He was out of the tournament in less than a minute.

Barker Meets Defeat.

Barker basked in his freshly-won glory in the flyweight division for two hours. Then he crawled back into the ring again. This time his foe was Kenny Lottman of Peoria. Lottman turned out to be one of the best looking flyweights of the year. At the end of three rounds of fast fighting, Lottman had the heavy hitter from Utah soundly whipped.

The biggest upset of the night also came in the flyweight division. Many Chicagoans had believed Al Noto of the C. Y. O., was to be the new champion. Unfortunately the draw paired him with Jesse Robinson, vet-

Montreal Canadiens at New York Americans.
Toronto at Montreal Maroons.

The Blackhawks will concentrate on shooting practice in preparation for their game with the Boston Bruins Thursday night in the Stadium.

The Hawks, handicapped by injuries, are badly in need of rest to strengthen them for the 6 games remaining this season. Paul Thompson, suffering from a strained back, has been ordered to refrain from ice work of any kind for at least three days.

March Takes It Easy.

Mush March, still bandaged because of the muscle strain which kept him from 11 games this season, will confine himself to 15 minutes' daily skating practice until the Boston game. Both Thompson and March are expected to play against Boston.

The battle between the Hawks and the Detroit Red Wings to get in the play-offs, has narrowed itself to where only one game separates the teams, with the Hawks in third place and the Red Wings in fourth. The Wings battle the Bruins in Boston tonight.

Wings May Tie Hawks.

A victory for the Wings would make them even with the Hawks and a victory for the Bruins would just about clinch their hold on first place, not only in their own section, but the league as well.

The Blackhawks' trainer, Eddie Froelich, will leave to join the Brooklyn baseball team today. It will be his second season with the Dodgers.

A. A. F. Approves Owens' Mark for 100 Meter Dash

Although United States athletes walked off with most of the honors as the I. A. A. F. approved thirteen new records established by Americans, including Jesse Owens' disputed 10.2 seconds for the 100 meters and Forrest [Spec] Towns' 13.7 seconds for the 110 meter high hurdles, Great Britain took the most prized individual record—that for the outdoor mile.

This went to the credit of Sydney Wooderson, who was clocked in 4:06.4 in London Aug. 28. Wooderson's time then was reported as 4:06.6, a tenth of a second faster than Glenn Cunningham's record of 4:06.7, but it was certified to and approved by the I. A. A. F. as 4:06.4.

Owens' 10.2 for the metric century, made in Chicago early in 1936, finally received international approval after an argument of more than a year. It was submitted for approval the same year, but was rejected on the grounds that the track had been a fraction of an inch short. Remeasurement disclosed Owens had run the full 100 meters and it was recertified by the Amateur Athletic union [United States] at its annual meeting in November.

Other individual records set by Americans and approved today included:

800 METERS AND 880 YARDS—Both in 1:49.6, by Elroy Robinson of San Francisco.
2,000 METERS—5:16.8, by Archie San Romani of Emporia, Kas.
120 YARD HIGH HURDLES—14 seconds flat, by Bob Osgood, University of Michigan.
POLE VAULT—14 feet 11 inches, by Earle Meadows and Bill Sefton, University of Southern California.

880 YARDS—Stanford university, 1:25.
ONE MILE—Southern California, 3:11.6.
TWO MILES AND 3,200 METERS—United States [Chuck Hornbostel, Robert Young, Harry Williamson, and John Woodruff]—Both 7:35.8.
FOUR MILES—Indiana university, 17:16.2.

N. U. Loses to Ohio, 41 to 36; Trenkle Hurt

Announcement that Northwestern had been defeated by Ohio State, assuring the Boilermakers at least a share of the title, seemed to inject new life in the Purdue attack. Young with the able assistance of his mates, who kept feeding him the ball, scored twenty points in the second half alone.

MINNESOTA, 30; IOWA, 29

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Minnesota's basketball team practically assured itself of third place in the Big Ten conference standings by defeating the University of Iowa, 30 to 29, tonight for its eighth consecutive conference victory.

The score at the half was 12 to 10 in favor of Minnesota. The Gophers dropped behind, then staged a rally in the last three minutes of play to nose out Iowa.

Iowa forged ahead midway in the second period when Benny Stephens and Nile Kinnick scored three field goals in rapid order around a free throw by Tommy Lind to go into a 27 to 23 lead.

Minnesota came back with a late rush, going ahead on a field goal by Nash, who took the place of George Addington when he was chased from the game, and two quick shots by Paul Maki.

Stephens Goes Out.

Stephens, Iowa's star forward who led in the scoring with fifteen points, was then ousted from the game because of personal fouls, and the Hawkeyes could not keep up the pace without him.

ILLINOIS WINS, 36-32

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Illinois' basketball team, after an uphill struggle, tied Michigan in the last minute, then outscored the Wolverines in an overtime period to win, 36 to 32, tonight for its fourth victory in eleven Big Ten games.

The Wolverines were leading, 30 to 22, with three and one-half minutes of play remaining when Hapac and Phillips scored baskets. Hapac then followed with two more in the last minute and thirty seconds to tie the score at 30-all.

WISCONSIN WINS, 34-32

Madison, Wis., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—A one hand throw by Ernie Davis while sitting on the floor with thirty-two seconds to go enabled Wisconsin's basketball team to beat Indiana tonight, 34 to 32, before 8,500 in the fieldhouse. It was the last home game for the Badgers this season.

The game, except for two spectacular closing minutes was drab. A long shot by Weigandt first put Wisconsin ahead, 9 to 8, after twelve minutes of play. Wisconsin led, 15 to 12, at the half.

The lead changed hands five times in the second half before Byron Bell, Wisconsin center, scored the basket that evened the count at 28 to 28 with two minutes to go.

Hunting Must Be Ranked as a 'Big Business'

BY BOB BECKER.

Figures released by the United States biological survey for 1936 indicate that hunting wild game is one of the most popular of sports and that sportsmen are willing to spend plenty of money for the privilege. Figures for 1937 are not available.

During 1936 sportsmen paid $10,466,237.37 for 6,658,158 licenses so that they might go afield for ducks, geese, rabbits, quail, turkeys, and other game. This expenditure was about a million dollars more than hunters paid out for licenses the preceding year. But the sportsmen didn't stop with that $10,000,000 investment in licenses. The waterfowl hunters dug into the pockets of their hunting trousers for an additional $603,623 for migratory bird hunting stamps. So the total spent for licenses and stamps for 1936 was $11,069,860.37.

It's a Big Business.

This sum gives some idea of how popular hunting is and also what it means in dollars and cents. Add to the $11,000,000 many more millions for shells, guns, hunting clothes, automobiles and supplies, dogs used in the field, rental of lands for hunting, and other expenses, and it is readily seen that hunting belongs in the "big business" class.

New York led with a sale of 579,525 licenses, hunters paying more than $1,000,000 to their conservation department. Michigan was second with a total of 577,579 licenses. Pennsylvania sportsmen bought 541,954 licenses for which they paid $1,120,000. Illinois hunters bought 309,743 licenses for $239,218.50.

Duck Stamps in Illinois.

Although Illinois doesn't rank with New York and Pennsylvania either in the number of sportsmen buying licenses or in the outstanding work of the conservation departments of those eastern states, Illinois waterfowl hunters did step to the front because of the number of migratory bird hunting stamps which they purchased in 1936. Both Minnesota and Illinois established quite a record in purchases of the so-called duck stamps.

U. S. HITS SPECIAL PRICES ON GOLF BALLS FOR PROS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Some of the country's leading manufacturers of golf balls felt the might of the federal trade commission today. The commission issued an order demanding that the eight members of the Golf Ball Manufacturers' association refrain from "various unlawful pricing practices."

The order further directed the Professional Golfers association to cease demanding agreements for a price differential in favor of P. G. A. members for use of the letters "P. G. A." on golf balls.

The manufacturers' association must not, in future, the commission said, give royalties for use of the letters "P. G. A." or other insignia on balls "when such payment is passed along to or used for the benefit of P. G. A. members."

The manufacturers mentioned in the order were:

A. G. Spalding & Brothers, New York; John Wanamaker, Inc., Philadelphia; L. A. Young Golf company, Detroit; Worthington Ball company, Elyria, O.; Wilson Sporting Goods company, Chicago; U. S. Rubber Products company, New York; Dunlop Tire and Rubber company, New York, and Acushnet Process company, New Bedford, Mass.

The Baltimore fighter returned here today unaware of the extent of his injury. He said the blow which must have broken his jaw was struck in the fifth round of the fifteen round contest.

RAIN CONTINUES AND CUBS FIDDLE AS GRIMM BURNS

That California Sun Is Just a Memory.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., Feb. 28.—March, in so far as the Cub training camp is concerned, is going to come in like a lion, with Charley Grimm enacting the part of said lion. Rain and more rain is the cause of it all, with Charley's fretfulness and anxiety aggravated by the fact that Mrs. Grimm has become ill and will skip the camp just as soon as she feels better and the Pacific ocean again becomes pacific.

Rainfall last night was 1.62 and during the storm 2.11 inches. Manager Grimm read these statistics over and over this morning but obviously was thinking about batting averages at the time. Anyhow, he didn't exactly need a weather bureau report to convince him there had been rain. He did get a reaction when ticker reports sent from the mainland told him to get set for more rain tomorrow.

Mountains Are Behaving.

Landslides to date have been minor and have not menaced any other precious rookies or the vets who became deft in dodging mountain displacements a year ago. Guards have been stationed at danger points where rookies might wander in boyish curiosity.

Manager Grimm today received a letter from Tex Carleton, who said he and Bill Lee had met in New Orleans and were planning to be here Wednesday, a day ahead of the regulars. They added that they were seeking to show a fine civic spirit by fetching unsigned Zeke Bonura of the White Sox along as far as Pasadena and expressed confidence that the big New Orleans boy would be out here soon, even if he did not accompany them.

Pig Cements Friendship.

Carleton and Zeke have become great pals. Since Zeke presented Tex with a pig several weeks ago the friendship has grown greatly, the pig having proved of exceptional intellect and of such good nature that Tex will make a pet of the beastie until such time as he is big enough to peddle to the butcher man.

If it rains tomorrow, Grimm's plan to have his first squad ready to set a crushing pace for the regulars will just about be sunk. He hasn't given up, however, and ordered all players to stand by in readiness for exercise between showers.

Eases Charley's Nerves.

The efforts didn't amount to much, but they at least loosened up stiff muscles and showed the irritated skipper a little action by way of soothing his highly sensitive nervous system.

The only member of the staf who got a full workout was the Cubs' tireless trainer, Dr. Andy Lotshaw. Instead of lounging on their billets or on lobby divans, the lads fought to lie down on Dr. Lotshaw's rubbing tables, the doctor applying comforting balms and lotions the while.

Hall Upset by Sid Seligson in Indoor Tennis

New York, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Sidney Seligson, whose brother Julius earned the family's lone claim to tennis fame by winning the intercollegiate championship ten years ago, today tossed an upset into the national indoor tennis championships by eliminating J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange, N. J., 6-4, 7-5.

Hall, veteran of many indoor tourneys and co-holder of the doubles title in 1936, was fifth on the seeded list.

Seligson's victory and the triumph of Morey Lewis of Kenyon college over eighth seeded George Dunn of Narbeth, Pa., were the only ripples to disturb the even flow of the tournament's second day. The six other seeded contenders for the men's title, won a year ago by Frankie Parker, and the four seeded women remained in the running.

Feature match of the day from a competitive standpoint was between Norma Taubele, women's champion in 1934 and runner-up in 1936, and Thelma Kingsbury, blonde English badminton expert. The two southpaws battled through two and a half hours of long volleys before the redheaded Miss Taubele, seeded second to Helen Pedersen of Stamford, Conn., won, 6-3, 9-11, 6-3. Miss Pedersen meanwhile had opened her bid for the crown won in 1937 by Mme. Sylvia Henrotin of France with a 6-0, 6-1 conquest of Anita Fruedenberg of Scarsdale, N. Y.

Ruffing and Gomez Accept Yank Terms

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Simultaneously with the opening spring workout of the champion New York Yankees today came the announcement that the team's two star pitchers, Vernon Gomez and Charley Ruffing, had signed their 1938 contracts and would report to camp immediately.

Capitulation of these two left unsigned only four regulars of the club which crushed the Giants in the last world series. They are Lou Gehrig, Frank Crosetti, and Red Rolfe, infielders, and Joe Di Maggio, center fielder. They are not due to report until next Monday.

Spurgeon Wants a Bonus.

The only other unsigned Yankee was Spurgeon Chandler, a young pitcher who made a good start last season before illness and a lame arm knocked him out. He is understood to be seeking a bonus clause.

Both Gomez and Ruffing returned their original contracts and it was assumed that each received an increase. Gomez, who received $13,500 last year, was believed to have signed for around $18,500. Ruffing, who held out long and vigorously last year before accepting $15,000, probably got a $1,000 boost.

Gomez, the eccentric southpaw, won twenty-one games and lost eleven and led the American league in effectiveness last season. Also, he beat the Giants twice in the world series. Right hander Ruffing had a record of twenty and seven in the regular season and won his only start against the Giants.

Expect Joe and Lou Later.

Gehrig and Di Maggio, the team's outstanding run producers, are expected to arrive by the first of next week and go into a huddle with Col. Jake Ruppert about their respective contracts, despite Gehrig's insistance he won't stir a foot outside of New York until he has signed.

The first workout lasted two hours and consisted of a light batting drill, calisthenics, and a jog around the track.

PHILLIES USE FILMS.

Biloxi, Miss., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Philadelphia Phillies was enthusiastic today about the effectiveness of slow motion pictures as a method for correcting player weaknesses.

Wilson takes 50 feet of film of a player with a fault, and on the screen the player's moves are broken down to 1-64 of a second, a slowing down process which makes for the effective pointing out of mistakes. Wilson cited Dolph Camilli, slugging Philly first baseman who is now a holdout, as an outstanding example of a player who has benefited from GIANTS IN BATON ROUGE.

Walter Brown, husky pitcher, First Baseman Sam Leslie, Bill Lohrman, and Tom Baker, rookie pitchers, were bruised in a taxi smashup coming from the station, but all were able to take part in practice.

FELLER TOO EAGER.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians' new manager, Oscar Vitt, has only one complaint about Pitcher Bob Feller: Feller wants to learn everything at once.

"I told him to take it easy," Vitt said at training camp today. "Carl Hubbell worked for six years before he became outstanding. If Bob wants to do a little special work now, we'll concentrate on holding men on bases."

FRISCH ON CRUTCHES.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Frankie Frisch is ready to try out his crutches. The St. Louis Cardinal manager's right foot, in which two bones were chipped when he fell at the club's baseball school in Winter Haven, Fla., last week, has been placed in a cast and it will be at least ten days before Frisch will be able to get around much.

The boss of the gas house gang plans to direct his pitchers and catchers, who arrive tomorrow at the club's spring base here, from a grandstand box at Waterfront park.

From his hotel room bed, Frisch cheerfully discussed the approaching National league campaign and expressed confidence that the Cards would be right up there fighting for the flag. "If Dizzy has a good year we'll win that flag," declared Frisch.

Crane Defeats Procita as Pocket Billiard Meet Opens

New York, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Irving Crane of Livonia, N. Y., who finished second to Champion Ralph Greenleaf in the 1937 world pocket billiards tournament, tonight defeated Joseph Procita of Gloversville, N. Y., 125 to 90, as the 1938 tourney got under way without a defending champion. Greenleaf, claiming he was entitled to hold the title a while longer, refused to enter the tournament which opened tonight. Mosconi routed George Kelly, 125 to 61, in tonight's second match, which went twenty-six innings.

SLAUGHTER OR BLOTT MAY GET JOB AT MICHIGAN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 28.—(AP)—University of Michigan athletic officials announced today a football line coach would be appointed "within a day or so," and authoritative sources said two former Wolverine athletes, now coaches at other schools, were under consideration.

Reports said Jack Blott, center in 1923 and now head coach at Wesleyan college, Connecticut, and Ediliff R. [Butch] Slaughter, guard in 1924 and now line coach at the University of Virginia, were being considered.

Golden Glove Heavy Boys Fight Tonight

Robinson fought one of his greatest fights. He started rolling up the points in the second round. He continued his bombardment in the last. The lifting of his hand signaled the accomplishment of one of the most finished victories of his career.

At the end of the first night of fighting the Catholic Youth organization was enjoying a comfortable lead in the scrap for Chicago team honors.

Big Fellows Pack Punch.

There was no way of telling where the out of town team trophy may land. Teams that showed but little strength in the lighter weight divisions claim they will make up lost ground when the big fellows, the sluggers, come together tonight.

The crowd, the largest first night throng in Tournament of Champions history, came from every part of the country. Every boxer seemed to have brought along his own delegation of rooters. Most of these visitors had made plans to remain each of the three night sessions.

PEDEN BROTHERS ARE PAIRED FOR 6 DAY BIKE RACE

Torchy Peden, who has the greatest record of any six day bike rider, will ride with his brother Doug in the six day race which starts in the Stadium a week from Sunday.

When Torchy won the recent San Francisco six day race, paired with his brother, it was the 31st victory the giant red-headed star has scored. He has won more races than any rider in the United States and Canada and his record of firsts, seconds, thirds, and fourths in six day competition, is far better than any other bike rider in the world.

Torchy, besides winning 31 races has finished second sixteen times, third nine times, and fourth fourteen times. Doug Peden has won three races, finished second in three and third in three and fourth in one.

Doug and Torchy, riding as a team, have won six day races in Buffalo, Toronto, and San Francisco.

Marquette Beats Columbia in Two Overtimes, 32 to 30

Dubuque, Ia., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Columbia college's basketball team pushed Marquette university into a double overtime before losing to the Hilltoppers, 32 to 30, tonight. Marquette took an early lead and was ahead at the half, 18 to 13, but Columbia held Milwaukee to a field goal in the last half and tied it up, 22 to 22, as the game ended. At the end of the first overtime, the teams were deadlocked, 26 to 26, but in the second Glenn Adams of Marquette sank three baskets for the victory.

Nettlow Draws with Vaughan in Marigold Battle

Al Nettlow, C. Y. O. lightweight, and Jimmy Vaughan of England fought a ten round draw last night in the Marigold Gardens. Vaughan, making his first appearance in America, was the aggressor throughout the match, although Nettlow connected repeatedly with his right hand.

Roger Whalen yesterday resigned as chief inspector of the Illinois athletic commission. He told Joe Triner, commission chairman, that his business as a parks concessionaire was the reason for his resignation. From other sources, however, it was learned that Whalen vacated the post to give his support to Michael Igoe, candidate for United States senator. The nominee backed by Gov. Horner, who appointed Whalen, is Scott Lucas. Thomas Dolan, subordinate inspector on the commission, is next in line for Whalen's job, which pays $2,700 a year.

It was erroneously reported that Bob La Monte, west side welterweight, defeated Robert Brooks of the south side in their six round contest in Rainbo Fronton last Friday. Brooks won a split decision. Referee Paul Berlenbach voted for a draw while the judges, Carl Witt and James G. Lynch, scored for Brooks.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR OPENING OF A. B. C. TOURNEY

Half Hour Ceremonies to Precede Meet.

BY HOWARD MARTIN.

Opening ceremonies will start at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening for the thirty-eighth annual American Bowling congress tournament in the Coliseum, officials of the Chicago Tournament association decided at a meeting last night.

Sam Manning, vice president of the Chicago Tournament association, which has handled details for the record breaking meet, will be master of ceremonies. He will introduce Mayor Kelly or Clayton Smith, president of the board of county commissioners, who will give the address of welcome.

A. B. C. Head Will Talk.

Talks then will be given by Al Lattin of New York, president of the American Bowling congress; William Goldammer, president of the Bowling Proprietors of Greater Chicago, and Al Lea, president of the Chicago tournament committee.

Mr. Lea will turn over the 40 new alleys in the Coliseum to Elmer Baumgarten, secretary of the A. B. C., who then will give the signal for a group of 40 celebrities to roll a ball simultaneously.

Regular Division to Open.

When the half hour ceremony ends, forty teams of star bowlers from Chicago, Gary, Ind., Milwaukee, Madison, Wis., Shorewood, Wis., Batavia, Ill., Elgin, Ill., Woodstock, Ill., and Bellwood, Ill., will open the regular division competition with hopes of knocking off the $1,000 top prize for five man teams. Regular division bowlers never have opened an A. B. C. tournament since the booster class was established.

At 10 o'clock forty teams from the Atlantic and Pacific Tea company will shoot in the booster division, which is for teams averaging 850 or less.

Workmen yesterday were putting the finishing touches on the Coliseum, which will house the tournament for 48 days. Most of the decorations are in place and the alleys are ready.

NO GASSY BITE

Natural Draft Beer Carbonation

by RICHARD SEIBOLD, Brewmaster

MANY folks think we take too much trouble in making MEISTER BRÄU. That the public today doesn't know the difference. But our sales records show most people love old-time beer made the old-time way.

I'll admit our methods are slow. We had MEISTER BRÄU in cans for eight months before releasing it to the public. We took all this time to satisfy ourselves we could satisfy you.

Then we're just as slow in our method of brewing. We could use sugars or syrups in brewing. They would save us time and money, but that is not the old-time way. We pay a premium for the finest Malt and Hops—for low-grade ingredients may make a beer bitter. Then we could save time in cleaning the Malt and Hops by boiling extra long.

We get the full, high foam and sparkle with Natural Draft Beer Carbonation created in the beer itself.

That's why MEISTER BRÄU has the true draft beer flavor.

I know you'll find a real difference in MEISTER BRÄU Beer . . . made the old, slow way. It's now obtainable in cans or bottles. But to be sure of getting beer made this way, ask for MEISTER BRÄU. You'll be thankful for a bottled or canned beer made like draft beer.

SOUTH PENN OIL PAYS EXTRA ON COMMON STOCK

Special Dividend Is Less than Year Ago.

The Hygrade Sylvania corporation declared a dividend of 37½ cents on the common stock. In preceding quarters, the company paid dividends of 75 cents each. The company manufactures and sells incandescent lights, and also sells radio tubes.

Joslyn to Pay 75 Cents.

The Joslyn Manufacturing and Supply company announced a dividend of 75 cents on the common stock, and the usual quarterly payment of $1.50 on the preferred stock. A similar payment, together with an extra of $2, was made on the common stock last Dec. 15.

Directors of Johns-Manville omitted the dividend on common stock due at this time. Last quarter the company paid an extra common dividend of $1 a share along with the regular dividend of 75 cents a common share.

"The business outlook for the immediate future is still too uncertain to warant the declaration of dividends on the common stock, based on anticipation of profits," said Lewis H. Brown, president.

Oliver Farm Equipment.

Investors' Guide: I see that Oliver Farm Equipment recently reported higher earnings in 1937. I have been interested in this stock for a long time. Will you send me a report on the company?—J. B.

Answer: An outstanding feature in the recent history of Oliver Farm Equipment company was its depression record. Sales of the company plunged from $27,437,973 in 1929 to $4,450,833 in 1932, and recovered to $26,206,911 last year. After earning $3,612,378 in 1929 the company did not operate in the black again until 1936.

Oliver Farm Equipment company is itself a comparative newcomer to the field of producing farm equipment. Its predecessor companies, however, had been in business for many years, one of them since 1855. The present company was incorporated in 1929 to take over the business and assets of three other companies.

Oliver Farm Equipment manufactures a general line of equipment and machinery used on the farm. It has a Canadian subsidiary and also does an export business. It also produces an important volume of goods which are sold by other companies under their own brand names.

Most important factor in the company's recent recovery in sales volume has been the increased purchasing power in rural areas. However sales have been bolstered by the company's recently introduced small tractor and small combine harvester which have been well received. Sales continued upward through 1937 until November and December when a lower trend was evidenced.

*Common shares outstanding at end of year. †Deficit. ‡After special charges amounting to $5,057,870. §Before allowing for unrealized foreign exchange adjustments.

The company had approximately 339,196 shares of no par common stock outstanding at the end of 1937 after selling 67,126 shares during the year to retire bank loans and buy machinery and equipment. No dividends have ever been paid on the common stock. The company's current position is strong.

BUSINESS LOANS BY BANKS SHOW ANOTHER DROP

Decline of $14,000,000 in Week Reported.

Loans made by the member banks of the federal reserve system to commerce, industry and agriculture in the week ended Feb. 23 continued the decline that has been going on with but few interruptions since late last year, the weekly federal reserve board report on member bank conditions in 101 cities disclosed yesterday.

There was an increase of 3 millions on such loans made on securities, but loans otherwise secured and unsecured declined 17 millions, leaving the net decline from the preceding week 14 millions. Loans made to commerce, industry and agriculture stood at 4 billion 378 million dollars Feb. 23.

Loans of this type are rated as among the best business barometers. When they are rising they indicate active business operations since business must have money to finance its needs. When the rate of business acitivity declines the level of loans also decline because business is not in need of loans.

Brokers' Loans at Low Ebb.

Indicating the dormant state of the stock market, brokers' loans currently are more than a half billion dollars under what they were a year ago. The total outstanding on Feb. 23 was 731 millions, a decline of 16 million dollars from the week ended Feb. 14 and a decline of 529 million from the week ended Feb. 24, 1937, when the total stood at 1 billion 260 millions.

Bank holdings of United States government obligations declined 13 millions, the entire amount being accounted for in the holdings of direct obligations which on Feb. 23 stood at 8 billions 147 millions. There was no change in bank holdings of obligations fully guaranteed by the federal government which on the same date totaled 1 billion 150 millions.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

A sharp bulge in the market for hogs yesterday carried prices to the highest levels since early last November and $1.25 to $2.10 above the winter's low spot. Advances for the session ranged from 15 cents in the light butchers to as much as 35 cents in the big weights, with the average gain around 25 cents.

The rise in prices was attributed to extremely light receipts and an upturn in wholesale markets for fresh pork, which reached new highs for the season yesterday. Top light pork loins sold at $20.00 per hundred pounds.

Competition for slaughter lambs was brisk at the highest prices since the middle of January, and old mutton sheep met good demand at prices on par with the best since the middle of last November.

All prices are in dollars per 100 pounds:

GRAINS DECLINE DUE TO LACK OF EXPORT DEMAND

Liverpool Prices Lower; Rain Is Forecast.

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$.93¼	$.94¼	$1.32⅞
Corn	.59	.59⅝	1.07⅝
Oats	.31	.31⅛	.47
Rye	.74⅝	.75½	1.06⅝
Soy beans	1.05	1.05	1.54

Grain Prices were on the downgrade yesterday, due largely to weakness in the Liverpool market, lack of export demand, and a forecast for probable rain in Kansas. Wheat and rye declined 1 cent or more a bushel, and corn and oats eased small fractions of a cent. Closing trades were about the low point of the day.

Although there was a fair speculative business in grain futures at the opening, trading was very slow during the remainder of the session. Numerous buying orders were reported in the hands of brokers at 93 cents for May wheat, which caused professional traders to act slowly on the selling side of that delivery.

No Export Business Reported.

No export business, however, was reported in either domestic or Canadian cash wheat. Liverpool wheat futures closed ¾ to 1⅛ cents lower, a slow milling demand and lower asking prices for Canadian grain being factors. A large proportion of the 12,545,000 bushels of wheat exported from leading countries during the last week went to non-European ports.

A decrease of 2,290,000 bushels in the domestic visible supply of wheat brought the total down to 60,316,000 bushels, or nearly 71,000,000 bushels less than at the high point last September. A year ago stocks were 39,992,000 bushels.

Corn Follows Wheat Down.

Easiness in corn was largely a reflection of the decline in wheat. Trading in futures was mainly of a professional character. No export business was reported, but there was some improvement in the domestic shipping demand, sales aggregating 68,000 bushels.

Lard futures closed 10 to 20 cents lower with the March contract showing the most decline. Selling was induced by weakness in grains and cottonseed oil.

TALK OF FEDERAL PEG SENDS EGG FUTURES HIGHER

Egg futures prices advanced ⅛ to ⅜ cent a dozen yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile exchange as a result of reports that the government may launch a program to stabilize egg prices. Officials of the Federal Surplus Commodity commission are expected to meet with egg dealers today in Chicago to discuss such a program. March quotations yesterday closed up ⅜ cent at 19⅛, April was ⅛ higher at 19¼, and October contracts finished at 21, up ¼ cent.

Butter futures declined in the lightest trading since Jan. 17, with the March contract down ⅝ cent at 26¾ cents a pound. No interest was shown in November and April contracts. The commodity commission bought an additional 93,000 pounds of 92 score butter in the Chicago cash market, and a slightly larger quantity in New York, bringing purchases for the current buying program to more than a million pounds.

Walter S. Gifford.

Despite an increase of 56 million dollars in the Bell telephone system's total operating revenues, or 5.7 per cent above 1936, higher taxes and wages increased expenses with the result that the 1937 net income of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, the world's largest public utility, showed a decline, Walter S. Gifford, president, reported yesterday.

The 1937 net income applicable to the capital stock was $182,342,866, equal to $9.76 a share on the common, against $184,744,464, or $9.89 a share, for 1936.

Taxes Increase Sharply.

Expenses of the operating companies embraced in the Bell system, from which American Telephone derives its revenues, showed an increase of $89,000,000, or 8.9 per cent, over 1936. Of this increase $19,600,000 went for taxes and $27,000,000 for wage increases.

Taxes paid by the parent company and its subsidiaries totaled $137,600,000 in 1937, or $20,800,000 more than in 1936, and taxes in 1936 were $22,300,000 more than in 1935. In two years there has been an increase of $43,100,000 in taxes, or 46 per cent. Taxes for 1937 were equal to $9.21 per telephone in service, $7.04 per share of common stock outstanding, and $525 per employé.

TAXES PER TELEPHONE IN DOLLARS

Telephones in use throughout the Bell system reached an all-time peak in 1937. At the end of the year there were 15,332,000, compared with the previous maximum of 15,193,000 in 1930. Including the telephones of about 6,500 connecting telephone companies and more than 25,000 connecting rural telephone lines at the end of 1937, there were approximately 19,380,000 telephones in the United States, or one for every seven persons.

Over 68 Million Calls Daily.

During 1937 there was a daily average of 68,790,000 telephone conversations. However, the recession late in 1937 reduced telephone conversations and installations to about the 1936 level.

Approximately 316,600 persons were employed by the Bell system, the Western Electric company, and the Bell Telephone laboratories at the end of 1937, an increase of 22,300 from the end of 1936. The total pay roll for 1937 was $560,900,000, an increase of $86,200,000 over 1936.

Assets of the Bell system at the end of 1937 totaled $5,057,800,000. Of these assets $4,389,500,000 represented telephone plant and equipment, against which there was a depreciation reserve of $1,198,500,000, or 27 per cent. Cash assets, exclusive of $12,900,000 held for the retirement of bonds called for redemption, totaled $153,000,000.

The capital obligations of the system at the end of 1937 consisted of: Funded debt, including pension fund notes, $1,011,009,000, or 27.8 per cent; preferred stocks, $65,140,000, or 1.8 per cent, and common stocks, $2,562,321,000, or 70.4 per cent, for a total of $3,638,470,000.

Interest Averages 4 Per Cent.

Interest on the debt was at the average rate of 4 per cent, dividends on the preferred stocks averaged 6.6 per cent, and dividends on the common stocks, including premiums—the amounts paid in by stockholders in excess of par—were at the rate of 6.8 per cent.

At the end of 1937 there were 642,000 American Telephone stockholders of record and the average of shares held per stockholder was 29. Including holders of common and preferred stocks of the subsidiaries there were about 690,000 Bell stockholders.

Gifford discussed a number of improvements, some of which were installed during the year and some of which are under development. Among those installed were: A simpler handset telephone which includes within its base a bell and other equipment formerly placed in a separate unit; a new type of switching known as the "crossbar"; a simpler form of teletypewriter, and broad band carrier systems in which twelve telephone messages are carried simultaneously on a single pair of open wires.

Costs, Taxes Force Chicago Firm to Quit

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Its profits reduced by soaring taxes, heavy cost of labor strife, and the business recession to a point where it is no longer worth while to remain in business, the Taylor Trunk company, 1238 North Kostner avenue, has been placed in orderly liquidation, R. J. Dunham Jr., president, announced yesterday. The company and its predecessors have been in business continuously since 1859.

Dunham said all orders now on hand will be finished and delivery made as usual, all orders accepted during the liquidation will be executed and all creditors will be paid in full. He estimated it would require from one to six months for the liquidation, at the conclusion of which the company's 125 workers would be out of jobs.

Taxes Mount Rapidly.

"Our taxes have been rising at a dizzy pace and we have had a lot of expensive trouble with the national labor relations board," Dunham explained. "When these troubles were added to the business recession, we found it unprofitable to continue in business and we were regretfully forced to liquidate."

In its 78 years in business in Chicago, the company on many occasions had been hard hit by changing modes and conditions, but had managed to overcome them. The founder of the company was C. A. Taylor, whose first store was on Randolph street on a site now occupied by the Hotel Sherman. He had a factory on the west side of State street between Monroe and Adams street.

Tracy Taylor, son of C. A. Taylor, who died in 1892, who now has a lether shop at 28 East Randolph street, recalled the early history of the company founded by his father.

Resumes Business After Fire.

The fire of 1871 left the elder Taylor with his only possessions the keys to his store and factory. He started business again in a basement store in Randolph street, near Desplaines, owing $5,000. Within a year he had paid the $5,000 and earned an additional $5,000. He then opened a store at 130 Madison street.

Taylor's early reputation was established on the luggage he sold to the theatrical profession. Actors had to have attractive luggage that would stand being thrown around by baggage men during their travels from one night stands. The great actors Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett are said to have been frequent visitors to the Taylor store. When the theatrical world went to Hollywood this type of business disappeared.

The bicycle fad also created business for the Taylor company, which made lether tool holders and small trunks for the use of cyclists.

The motor car brought a period when the automobile trunk was a smart accessory and the company at one time was the largest manufacturer of automobile trunks in the country.

STEVENS HOTEL INCOME SHOWS UPWARD TREND

The annual report for 1937 of the Stevens Hotel corporation, operating the largest hotel in the world, yesterday showed an upward trend in gross income and earning power for the last three years.

Gross income last year of $3,519,238 represented an increase of $457,539 or 14.7 per cent over 1936 and a gain of $1,177,292 or 50.3 per cent over 1935. Net earnings applicable to interest and sinking fund for the year amounted to $85,756, compared with $771 for the period from March 1 to Dec. 1, 1936. The company was reorganized early in 1936. Net loss for 1937 after interest and depreciation was $48,749 against a net loss in the preceding 10 months of $128,729.

William F. Krahl, president, said earnings last year were sufficient to pay interest on the $6,627,118 of 5 per cent income bonds at the rate of 9-10 of 1 per cent, "which represents the initial payment on these bonds."

APPROVES PLEA OF CHICAGO CURB ON DISSOLUTION

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—The Securities and Exchange commission has granted an application by the Chicago Curb exchange for permission to withdraw its registration as a national securities exchange, effective March 15, upon the condition that notice to that effect shall be served prior to March 10 by the exchange on all issuers having securities listed on it.

Grounds for withdrawal cited were that the membership of the exchange had declined substantially, that it has been operating at a substantial deficit for the last four years and that the volume of listings and transactions is not sufficient to warant its operation.

Upholds Suit Against Insull Trust Officers

The Illinois Appellate court yesterday reversed a decision of Judge Grover C. Niemeyer of the Superior court dismissing a suit against directors of the Corporation Securities company, defunct Insull investment trust. The suit was based on a charge that the directors had approved actions by which funds of the company were wasted. The Appellate court, however, upheld Judge Niemeyer in dismissing two defendants, Edward J. Doyle, president of the Commonwealth Edison company, and Stanley Field, capitalist.

The suit against the Corporation Securities directors was brought by Samuel Howard, trustee of the company, on behalf of the stockholders. Directed against Samuel Insull, Samuel Insull Jr., Harold L. Stuart, and others, the suit asked an accounting from the directors and officers.

Suit Filed in 1934.

The suit, which was filed in 1934, alleged that unlawful expenditures and waste of the company's funds had taken place. It stated that in 1929 the defendants created an artificial increase in the price of Middle West Utilities stock and that Insull and his son, and Halsey, Stuart & Co., investment house, then sold their joint holdings in Middle West Utilities to Corporation Securities for $12,877,000.

Corporation Securities, it is alleged, in turn sold $50,000,000 of its own stock units to the public. Purchasers of the stock, represented by Howard, offer to turn back the stock purchased from Securities corporation for whatever they may realize, provided the defendants are compelled to pay back the $12,877,000.

Rebuffs Defense Argument.

The defendants' contention that the suit should be dismissed, which was based on an Illinois Supreme court decision growing out of the same case, cannot be upheld, the opinion of the Appellate court said. In affirming the dismissal of Doyle and Field, the opinion held that neither was a director of Corporation Securities during the period of the transactions, which was between Oct. 4, 1929, and Jan. 27, 1930.

"We think it clear the allegations sufficiently charge that the moneys of the security company were unlawfully expended and wasted, and that some of the defendants personally profited by such unlawful expenditures," the opinion said.

Creditors of Corporation Securities recently reached a settlement with Chicago and New York banks whereby the latter agreed to turn over $1,200,000 in exchange for a release on collateral held by the banks for loans made to the investment company. The courts previously had ruled the collateral had been turned over to the banks in violation of indenture agreements.

Engagement of $4,358,000 of gold in Japan for shipment to the United States was reported yesterday by the Federal Reserve bank of New York. The dollar advanced moderately in terms of most European currencies.

CHICAGO AREA'S JOB DECLINE IS SMALLER THAN THAT FOR STATE

Industrial employment and pay rolls in January did not decline as sharply in the Chicago metropolitan area as they did throughout Illinois, Martin P. Durkin, director of the state department of labor, reported yesterday.

Employment in the Chicago area declined 6.3 per cent in January from December, and pay rolls dropped 7.5 per cent, based on figures from 4,124 firms employing 402,158 workers. Durkin reported on the preceding day that for the state as a whole, the number employed decreased by 7.1 per cent and wages fell 8.5 per cent.

For Chicago alone, not including the metropolitan area outside the city, decreases of 6.1 per cent in jobs and 7.3 per cent in wages were reported. Only two municipalities showed an increase from December to January in either jobs or wages.

$2,600,000 WATER CERTIFICATES ARE OFFERED BY CITY

City Controler Robert B. Upham will accept bids today on $2,600,000 city water certificates. The offering consists of two series. One issue, totaling $1,100,000, dated May 1, 1937, bears interest at 3½ per cent and will mature $100,000 in 1952, and $500,000 each in 1953 and 1954.

The other issue, aggregating $1,500,000, is dated Feb. 15, 1938, with interest at 3 per cent and matures $300,000 in each year from 1943 to 1947, inclusive. On the basis of the present market value of outstanding Chicago water certificates, it is anticipated that the city will be offered premiums on both issues. The proceeds from the sale of the certificates will be used to finance several water supply system construction projects.

Merchandising Securities and Services

Anything that is to be sold must be merchandised. This applies to bank services and investments no less than to coffee, wines, books, travel, insurance and thousands of other things.

An unexcelled aid to merchandising, i. e., sales stimulation of financial services and securities, is The New York Times, which for upward of thirty years has led every other newspaper in financial advertising volume and leads every other New York newspaper in total advertising as well.

LIMIT TREASURY BORROWING TO DISCOUNT BILLS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau said today the treasury contemplates no borrowing on March 15 except through the sale of some discount bills previously announced.

A total of $450,000,000 of treasury bills maturing around March 15 will be paid off in cash from income tax collections, Morgenthau said, and holders of $455,000,000 of 3 per cent treasury notes maturing will be offered a new security in exchange.

The bill issues to which the secretary referred are a series of $50,000,000 weekly offers which began today and will continue until $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 has been raised. The number of weeks that the bills will be offered will depend upon the success of March 15 tax collections.

The weekly sale of $50,000,000 worth of 91 day treasury bills brought an average price of 99.978 today, compared with 99.977 last week. Today's sale was equivalent to borrowing money at 0.086 per cent, compared with 0.092 last week.

U. S. Renews Canadian, Mexican Silver Quotas

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau said today the United States has renewed for March its monthly offer to buy 5,000,000 ounces of silver from Mexico and 1,200,000 ounces from Canada.

Record Established for Company.

The Coca-Cola company yesterday reported the highest earnings in its history for 1937 and an increase in earnings for the fourth quarter compared with the final 1936 quarter. Higher profits for the year were reported also by Youngstown Sheet and Tube company and three railway equipment companies, Westinghouse Air Brake company, American Steel Foundries, and Safety Car Heating and Lighting company, but comparison with earlier reports showed sharp declines in income in the last quarter for Westinghouse and American Steel.

Net income of Coca-Cola last year amounted to $22,881,616, or $5.72 a common share, against $18,598,078, or $4.65 a share, in 1936. For the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1937, the company had net of $3,863,716, or 97 cents a common share, compared with $3,683,556, or 92 cents a share, in the corresponding 1936 period.

Youngstown Net $12,190,649.

Consolidated net profit of $12,190,649 for 1937 was reported by the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company and subsidiaries. This was equal, after regular preferred dividends, to $6.79 a share on 1,675,008 common shares, compared to $10,564,501, or $7.03 a share on 1,384,752 common shares, earned in 1936.

The company eliminated all preferred dividend arrears in 1937, in the amount of $9.62½ a share, or $1,443,750, and paid $5,204,004 common dividends, commencing April 1, in addition to $825,000 regular preferred dividends.

Consolidated net profit of the Westinghouse Air Brake company for 1937 amounted to $6,253,380, or $2.01 a share, compared with profit in 1936 of $5,548,782, or $1.79 a share. The 1937 figure included $1,504,268 profit on the sale of securities, against a comparable 1936 profit of $1,797,046.

Grain Board to Try Cargill Officers Today

Charges preferred by two special committees of the Chicago Board of Trade against John H. MacMillan Jr., president, and Edward J. Grimes and Philip C. Sayles, vice presidents, of the Cargill Grain company of Illinois, alleging violations of the rules and regulations of the exchange in the firm's operations in September, 1937, corn futures will be heard today by the directors of the grain exchange.

A committee headed by J. C. Wood recently filed charges alleging there was the basis for the belief that the Cargill firm had violated an order of the business conduct committee of the exchange in refusing to sell out several million bushels of September corn.

Manipulation Another Charge.

Another committee headed by William H. McDonald in a long report alleged the Cargill firm was guilty of manipulation or attempted manipulation in September corn contracts in violation of the Commodity Exchange act.

The Cargill Grain company countered the charges of the Board of Trade last week and filed a complaint against the exchange with the Commodity Exchange administration, asserting the exchange had violated the act when it ordered trading in September corn to cease on Sept. 24 and established a settlement price at $1.10⅛ per bushel. A hearing on this charge will be held April 18.

It is expected the trial of the Cargill Grain company and its officials will continue for a week or more owing to the large amount of evidence to be presented. Directors and officials of the exchange act as judge and jury in all cases involving alleged infringements of the rules.

Rumor "Squeeze" in August.

Rumors of a prospective squeeze in September corn on the Chicago Board of Trade were heard early in August, and immediately attracted the attention of the business conduct committee of the exchange and the Commodity Exchange administration. A call for the total amount of unfilled contracts in that delivery disclosed that the Cargill Grain company on Sept. 1 was the holder of futures calling for delivery of 8,460,000 bushels of cash corn, or 50.7 per cent of the aggregate open interest.

Holdings of corn futures in excess of 5,000,000 bushels were banned under an agreement entered into between the Chicago Board of Trade and the Commodity Exchange administration, and as a result the business conduct committee ordered several millions of bushels of the Cargill holdings liquidated at the best price obtainable, which the firm refused to do.

SEC'S HEAVIEST PENALTY LEVIED AGAINST BROKER

Ousts Manipulator from 5 Exchanges.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The Securities and Exchange commission invoked its most drastic penalty today against Charles C. Wright, New York stock broker, whom it found guilty of market manipulation.

It expelled him from the five securities exchanges of which he is a member. Such penalty had been imposed only once before.

The commission decided that Herbert King and Norman Stern had helped Wright, and suspended them for a year from the New York Stock and Curb exchanges. It was held by the commission that the three men caused an artificial rise from 46 to 75 cents a share in the price of Kinner Airplane and Motor corporation stock on the Los Angeles Stock exchange in the five days beginning Sept. 11, 1935.

Option Agreement Stressed.

Large purchases made under Wright's direction excited public interest and speculation in Kinner stock, the commission said. Evidence of manipulation was clinched, the commission added, by an option agreement.

On Sept. 7, 1935, when the price of Kinner stock was virtually stationary at 45 cents a share, Wright and his associates obtained an option to buy 160,000 shares of the stock at prices ranging from 45 to 60 cents a share.

Of this transaction the commission said:

"The very existence of an option when coupled with buying on the market by those having an interest in its exercise is an indication of a purpose to raise the market price, to induce market activity and thus to

COTTON

Cotton futures held within relatively narrow limits yesterday, but the market developed a firmer undertone toward the close. Net gains on the Chicago Board of Trade were .04 to .06 cent. Other American markets were .03 to .08 cent a pound. New Orleans cotton market will be closed today for Mardi Gras.

The AAA announced yesterday the acreage planted to cotton this year under the soil conservation program would not exceed 27,000,000 acres, or 2,000,000 acres below the recently announced maximum acreage. Planting is reported as making rapid progress in southern Texas.

Spot cotton closed .05 cent higher with New Orleans, 9.45 cents; New York, 9.27 cents; Galveston, 9.10 cents, and Houston at 9.05 cents a pound. Prices follow:

STOCKS DRIFT LOWER DESPITE BELATED RALLY

Industrial Shares Show Most Weakness.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 28.—Stock market prices slipped fractions to around 2 points today, with trading slack. Sales totaled only 560,000 shares.

Slight but persistent selling, most all of it coming in the forenoon, brought about the majority of losses. An improved tone developed in the afternoon, enabling the list to retrace some of the lost ground. Although all groups shared in the decline, industrial shares, notably steel, coppers, motors, and chemicals showed the widest declines.

Industrial news was of the run-of-the-mill variety according to observers, and had little effect on prices. Of most immediate concern was the American Iron and Steel institute's forecast of a decline in steel operations this week.

Political Events Awaited.

Although the decline was relatively slight, it was regarded as indicating that buyers were still holding off pending developments in Washington on tax and other legislation.

United States Steel common was under pressure in the steel group, dropping to 54⅛ before meeting support, after which it steadied and closed at 54⅝ for a net loss of 1⅝ points. Bethlehem and National Steel incurred similar losses, but others kept their losses to fractions.

Losses in the coppers ran to 1¾ points, with Anaconda and International Nickel in active supply. American Smelting and Kennecott also were lower.

Motors took their cue from the steel group. Chrysler was actively traded and dropped 1⅛ points. Yellow Truck lost ⅝, also in active trading, and General Motors lost 1⅛ points in comparatively quiet trading.

Allied Chemical Slumps.

Among the chemicals Allied Chemical slumped 3 points, Union Carbide 2¾ points, and Air Reduction 1⅛, but Du Pont firmed toward the close, cutting its loss to a fraction.

Although losses in the rail group were mostly of the fractional variety, they appeared against a large number of favorites, including Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Chesapeake and Ohio, Great Northern, Northern Pacific, and New York Central. Union Pacific, up a quarter point, was one of the few exceptions to the downward trend.

Public utilities shares eased moderately in a comparatively light turnover, although International Telephone and Telegraph in the communications was active and lower. American Telephone also ran into some selling, dropping 4 points at one time but coming back to 137, off 2 points net.

Aviation Group Weaker.

Aviations, including Douglas and Boeing, lost up to ⅝ point. The losses in the oil stocks also ran to around that figure. Sears-Roebuck in the mail order stocks closed unchanged, but others eased slightly.

Case Threshing was a weak spot in the farm implement shares, dropping 2 points, while Deere and Allis Chalmers slipped fractions. International Harvester pushed into the plus column at the close with a fractional gain.

STRENGTH SHOWN IN FEBRUARY BY STOCK MARKET

The stock market, as measured by the Dow-Jones averages, was stronger during February than in any other month since the decline began last fall. The index of thirty industrial stock issues finished the month at 129.64, up 7.77 points from the last day of January. Railroad issues also were higher, the index of twenty leading rail stocks showing a gain for the month of 1.94 points, to 29.90. Utilities lagged behind the rest of the list, gaining only 0.61, to 19.82.

The bond averages also showed substantial gains for the month. Second grade railroad bonds made the sharpest advance, rising 3.19 points to 56.79, while the average of forty bond issues of all types rose 1.69 points to 91.28.

Everyday Economics

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

Other Work of the FTC.

The work of the Federal Trade commission includes more than direct police type activities in checking unfair competition. It helps some industries to do their own housecleaning, attempts to force reform on others. It has helped set up a total of 170 self-imposed industrial codes of fair trade practices.

The FTC attempts to break up price fixing which exists in some lines of trade. For example, identical bids for a public works construction project recently were received from five steel piling manufacturers. This was the 257th time that the secretary of the interior had received identical bids on public works since the passing of the NRA. The commission made a study of collusive bidding which it referred to the department of justice, with the suggestion that the department take action to break up the practice.

Another service of the commission is that of research. It has made more than eighty extensive industrial surveys on meat packing, chain stores, coal, milk, steel, textiles, and other lines. The information available to all, is useful to members of the industries themselves, the general public and to other government agencies.

RADIO STATION HEARINGS ARE SET FOR MAY 15

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The federal communications commission will hear arguments on 15 pending applications for 500,000 watt radio stations May 16 when it takes up the whole problem of power limits on clear channels, Chairman Frank R. McNinch said today.

The only 500 kilowatt station at present is WLW in Cincinnati, O., which has been operating under an experimental license for about four years. McNinch, announcing the hearing date, said the commission would take up the question of amending its rule which provides for not less than 5,000 nor more than 50,000 watts power on clear channels. There are 40 such channels.

The chairman also announced he had ordered preparation of a tentative draft of a uniform system of accounts for licensees of broadcast stations. He invited licensees to offer criticisms and suggestions.

Court Warns R-K-O Must Reorganize or Liquidate

New York, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Judge William Bondy, in the federal court today warned interests working on a reorganization of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation that failure to produce a new plan would necessitate the company's liquidation. A revised plan, it was brought out, is required on the basis of "material changes" in the corporation's financial structure during the last few months. Reorganization proceedings have been in progress in federal court since December, 1933. Judge Bondy granted an adjournment until March 11.

Holders of Milwaukee Rail Bonds Ask Delay in Hearing

New York, Feb. 28.—[Special.]—At a meeting of holders of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific Railway company 5 per cent five year bonds, series A, due 1975, held here today under the sponsorship of the Guaranty Trust company and M. P. Callaway, as trustees, it was voted to petition the interstate commerce commission for an adjournment of the next reorganization hearing for at least two months beyond March 21. This action was taken in an effort to give bondholders time to organize.

SEES PROFIT TAX TAKING RESERVE USED FOR WAGES

The undistributed profits tax has wiped out the reserves which formerly enabled employers to keep their forces working during depression periods, James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, yesterday told the Junior Association of Commerce at the Hotel Sherman.

"An examination will show that in actual operation the first to be injured by such punitive tactics are the working people," Donnelly said. "This is well illustrated by the operation of the tax on undistributed profits."

Donnelly asserted that in the four years 1930-'34, business paid out 18 billion dollars more than it took in. This was spent largely for wages, he said. Under the excess profits tax, he explained, efforts by employers to accumulate reserves are discouraged and accordingly they will not have funds to pay wages when business falls off.

GEN'L MOTORS AIR LINE DEAL RUMOR REVIVED

New York, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Wall street heard today that fresh efforts were being made by General Motors interests to divorce themselves from their investments in North American Aviation, owner of Eastern Air Lines.

For some months deals involving the sale of Eastern Air have been rumored, but none has reached an announcement stage. Three weeks ago it was understood that the banking interests, heavily backing Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., were attempting to acquire Eastern Air.

Inquiry in responsible quarters today elicited only the information that if General Motors is negotiating for sale of its stock in N. A. A., or if sale of the air line is contemplated, "not enough progress has been made to deserve mention."

BANKER ALDRICH CALLED IN QUIZ ON UTILITIES POWER

New York, Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Federal Judge William Bondy today ordered the issuance of supenas calling for Winthrop W. Aldrich, president of the Chase National bank, and others to submit to examination here by Referee Peter B. Olney Jr. in connection with the reorganization in Illinois of the Utilities Power and Light corporation.

The examination relates to the issuance of a series of notes amounting to $3,000,000 by the Utilities Power and Light Securities company, a wholly owned subsidiary, purporting to be guaranteed by the parent company.

The adjourned 1937 stockholders' meeting of the parent company which was to have been held today was postponed again to March 15.

STEEL OUTPUT SAGS TO 29.3% OF CAPACITY

Steel ingot production this week is scheduled at only 29.3 per cent of theoretical capacity, a drop of 1.1 points, the American Iron and Steel institute estimated yesterday. This is the sharpest weekly change in five weeks.

Operations have stayed within two or three points of the 30 per cent mark since the start of the year. A year ago this week the operating schedule was 85.8 per cent of ingot capacity, and the trend at that time was steadily upward, reaching a peak of 92.3 per cent in April, 1937.

The United States Steel corporation announced four additional open herth furnaces of its subsidiary, Columbia Steel company, in California, will be placed in operation today.

indicated net profit was $55,[illegible]23 against $1,150,485 in the preceding three months and $1,104,357 in the final 1936 quarter.

The prospects for the next several months are uncertain. If the interstate commerce commission grants the railroads a satisfactory increase in freight rates [which is now under consideration] and there is improvement in general business it is hoped that there will be substantial buying of freight cars, passenger cars, and locomotives during the summer and fall of 1938."

Net profit for last year of $1,561,174, or $16.60 a share, of capital stock was announced by the Safety Car Heating and Lighting company. This compared with 1936 net of $728,840, or $7.75 a share. The company makes air conditioning and other equipment for railways.

SEC'S HEAVIEST PENALTY INVOKED IN RIGGING CASE

distribute profitably stock covered by the option.

"When, as here, the previous low price and market inactivity preclude a profitable distribution and there follows a series of purchases creating higher prices and increased activity, the purpose of such transactions is undeniable.

Calls Purpose "Obvious."

"Why else should 18,500 shares be bought at prices steadily increasing from 46 to 60 when stock could have been and a few days later was in fact taken down under the option at 45? The answer is obvious.

"We find that the market purchases were effected to stimulate buying by others in the market so that the option stock could be unloaded on the public at higher prices."

Wright was expelled from the New York Stock and Curb exchanges, the Philadelphia Stock exchange, the Chicago Stock exchange, and the Chicago Board of Trade. Stern and King were suspended for a year beginning April 30 from the two New York exchanges.

Curb Member Suspended.

New York, Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Edward H. Sherwood was suspended as a regular member of the New York Curb exchange today for failure to meet financial engagements to other members. The curb announced that no loss to the public would result from the failure.

Sherwood was a member of Turbbull & Co. until the firm was dissolved Nov. 1, 1937. It was organized in February, 1929.

Wall street circles learned today that the Securities and Exchange commission is conducting an investigation of trading in Alleghany corporation preferred stock with warants and prior preferred stock between July 1 and Nov. 30, 1936.

During that period the preferred with warants rose from 23⅞ on the stock exchange to as high as 61½, and the prior preferred rose from 35 to 54½. On July 1 the preferred with warants closed at 23⅞ and the close on Nov. 29 was 57, while the prior preferred closed at 35 and 52½, respectively.

Controled by George Ball.

George A. Ball of Muncie, Ind., acquired control of Midamerica corporation, the top holding company in the Van Sweringen railroad holdings, which gave him control of Alleghany, in September, 1935. In April, 1937, Robert R. Young and associates bought control of Midamerica and subsequently dissolved it.

Between the time that Ball first got control of the former Van Sweringen rail holdings and the date that control passed to Young and his associates there was considerable speculation as to what the Muncie financier would do with the properties.

James Palmer.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Seventeen American casualty and surety companies which are protesting the relicensing of London Lloyds by the state insurance department, today filed a suit in the Sangamon county circuit court to determine by what right 1,900 insurance underwriters at Lloyds are doing business in Illinois.

The quo warranto proceedings were filed by State's Attorney W. P. Roberts and the law firm of Gillespie, Burke and Gillespie against W. E. Hargraves and the other London Lloyds underwriters.

Contest Palmer's Order.

The proceedings, in effect, question the legality of the issuance of the relicensing order by Ernest Palmer, state insurance director, on the grounds that it conflicts with the new state insurance code. The petition sets out that the code requires each underwriter to make a deposit with the department, and that contrary to this provision, the alien underwriters have undertaken to make a "joint and several" deposit, amounting to $2,350,000.

Director Palmer issued the order relicensing Lloyd's underwriters on Dec. 28, 1937, after the alien underwriters had operated since July 1 under a temporary permit.

Issue Up to Legislature.

The question of whether London Lloyds should be allowed to do business in Illinois was argued before the legislature at the last session. After more than a month of debate, the insurance code was passed with the provision requiring the alien company to put up deposits in this state.

The insurance department insisted that Lloyds should deposit funds in this state covering the unearned premium reserved and loss reserve which are the reserves necessary to mature all their outstanding liabilities in Illinois.

EASTMAN KODAK PAYS RECORD AMOUNT AS WORKERS 'DIVIDEND'

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—While industry throughout the nation was tightening its belt, paring salaries and economizing, the Eastman Kodak company today declared the largest wage dividend since the company's profit sharing plan was adopted in 1912.

Kodak company employés tomorrow will receive checks totaling $3,425,000, of which $2,250,000 will go to the company's 15,202 employés in Rochester, where the main plants are located, and the remainder of $1,175,000 will be distributed to employés throughout the world. The total number of employés is 28,933. All employés who worked at least twenty-six weeks last year will participate, the company announced, the size of the checks depending upon the length of service of the workers.

The wage dividend was computed on a basis of $22.50 for each $1,000 earned, or 2¼ per cent, in the years from 1933 through 1937. Employés who completed five years of service in 1937 will receive approximately five and a half times their average weekly wage during the five years.

U. S. WINS PLEA FOR REVIEW OF CHAIN TAX CASE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The government won a Supreme court review today in its effort to collect a deficiency tax of $477,360 from the National Grocery company, Jersey City, N. J., for 1931. The high court agreed to pass upon a lower court decision which reversed the deficiency determination of the board of tax appeals. The chain store company was accused of permitting profits in 1931 to accumulate "to prevent imposition of the surtax."

The court approved an order of the interstate commerce commission authorizing the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad and the Chicago and North Western to pool iron ore trafic from the Menominee range of Michigan and Wisconsin to the docks at Escanaba, Mich.

The government succeeded in its effort to fine the Illinois Central Railroad company on a charge of confining cattle in a car for thirty-seven hours without unloading them for rest, water, and feeding. The high court reversed a lower court ruling in favor of the railroad. The fine is $100 to $500.

AUTO MAKERS GROUP DENIES OPPOSING QUIZ

Wisconsin Congressman's Statement Challenged.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—The National Automobile Manufacturers' association will not oppose a federal investigation of the policies governing manufacturer-dealer relations, Alfred Reeves, vice president of the association, said today in a letter mailed to Representative Gardner Withrow [P., Wis.].

Reeves branded as untrue a statement made recently by Representative Withrow that "the automobile manufacturers are bitterly opposing the passage of this legislation [referring to his resolution for the investigation] and are doing everything they can to defeat it."

Macauley Stated Position.

The association's position with respect to the house bill to authorize the investigation, Reeves said, was contained in a statement recently made by Alvin Macauley, association president, saying: "It is the view of the executive committee that we should not oppose any impartial inquiry which brings out all the facts relating to the practices and policies which prevail in the distribution of automobiles."

The house resolution for the investigation bears now the recommendation of the house committee on interstate commerce.

The resolution as drawn would instruct that the investigation be made by the federal trade commission. The resolution, authored by Representative Withrow, carries an appropriation of $50,000 to finance the investigation.

Purpose of Investigation.

The purpose of the investigation, as outlined in the Withrow resolution, "Shall be to determine the extent of concentration of control and of monopoly in the manufacturing, warehousing, distribution, and sale of automobiles, accessories, and parts and the extent to which any of the anti-trust laws of the United States are being violated."

In December A. M. Benson, general manager of the National Automobile Dealers' association, asked the house interstate and foreign commerce subcommittee to authorize an FTC investigation of manufacturer-dealer relations.

Three leading firms—Ford, Chrysler, and General Motors—were under investigation in December by a federal grand jury in Milwaukee, Wis. After thirteen weeks of work the grand jury was dismissed by Federal Judge F. A. Geiger, who at the same time criticized the department of justice for "discussing with the accused automobile companies a consent decree at the time the grand jury was in session."
